State Court Declares Vote On Proposition 14 Illegal

U.S. Funds Freed; Governor Race Roils

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — The California Supreme Court today ruled Proposition 14, which voided the state's fair housing law, is unconstitutional.

The court voted 5-2 on the issue.

Proposition 14, an initiative measure adopted by a 2 to 1 margin by the voters in the Nov. 3, 1964, election, nullified fair housing provisions of the Unruh and Rumford Acts.

Today's action was the second time the court struck down a vote of the people in the 1964 election.

The other case involved Proposition 15, in which the voters banned pay television.

ELECTION ISSUE

The decision on Proposition 14 was a bombshell thrown into the current election campaign in California. It meant that many candidates for the State Legislature may be forced to take a stand in the controversy.

The immediate effect of the ruling was to release $22 million in federal funds for redevelopment in California cities. The money had been held up because the state law conflicted with federal regulations which bar racial discrimination.

OPINION GIVEN

Justice Paul Peek wrote the majority opinion. He said the court was bound by the U. S. Supreme Court's civil rights rulings, based upon the equal protection and supremacy clauses of the U.S. Constitution.

Justice Peek decided this issue in the case of Mulkey vs. Reitman from Orange County. The ruling was applied to six companion cases, one filed by the Fresno Redevelopment Agency.

"It is now beyond dispute that the 14th Amendment, through the equal protection clause, secures the right to acquire and possess property of every kind," without discrimination because of color, race or religion, the court said.

The decision emphasized that Section 26 of Article 1 of the state Constitution added by Prop. 14 in November, 1964, must be measured against federal constitutional standards, even though it was adopted by a vote of the people.

JURY DEADLOCKS IN EAGLE TRIAL

Point Reyes Station Rancher Martinelli Faces Stuffed Bird In Federal Courtroom

By JOHN F. KEARNEY

A Federal Court jury of 11 men and a woman failed to agree on a verdict last night in the case of Leroy Martinelli, 37-year-old Point Reyes Station rancher who killed two government-protected eagles he said were attacking newly-born lambs.

After debating for five hours, jurors filed back to their seats in U.S. District Court in San Francisco at 10:40 p.m. and told Judge William T. Sweigert they were unable to decide whether Martinelli violated federal law by killing the birds.

Following announcement of the deadlock, the jury was discharged. It is now up to the government to press prosecution of Martinelli further if it wishes, but last night Asst. U.S. Atty. Jerrold Ladar would not say whether a new trial would be sought.

The jury was split 9-3 in favor of acquitting the rancher of violating law by killing the first bird on Jan. 25, 1965, but 9-3 in favor of convicting him for killing the second bird the following day.

Said one juror afterwards: "Most of us thought Martinelli had some justification for killing the first eagle. But he must have been aware it was breaking the law when he went out the following day."

Dominating the whole hearing was one of the birds which were the cause of the trouble. The bald eagle Martinelli killed on Jan. 25, 1965, was stuffed by a taxidermist and perched on a stand in front of the judge. It was exhibit number six.

Half way through his his testimony, Martinelli pointed at the bird, looked it straight in its eagle eyes, and said: "That was the boss. He ran the whole show."

Martinelli was describing what he saw that first day after driving out to check on an area on his 1,100-acre ranch where ewes were lambing.

At first he thought there was a dog among the ewes when he saw them scatter. He looked up and saw three eagles.

"One was picking up lambs and then dropping them," he

Court Delays Gas Chamber For Mitchell

A stay of execution was granted today to Aaron Mitchell, 36, who had been scheduled to die tomorrow in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber for killing a Sacramento policeman.

Told the news in his Death Row cell, Mitchell said: "God bless somebody."

If the execution had been carried out, it would have been the first at San Quentin since Jan. 23, 1963.

Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli of U.S. District Court in San Francisco granted the stay until the court can take further action. Mitchell had petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus and stay.

Mitchell, a former laundry worker at Mather Air Force Base, was condemned to death for the murder of a policeman in a Sacramento holdup on Feb. 15, 1963. Yesterday he said that if he was not granted clemency or stay of execution it "may start a long new line for the gas chamber."

He had already chosen the traditional last supper to be served in his cell today. The menu: Fried chicken, sweet potato pie, bread and butter and milk. But now he will be served the standard prison menu.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said the news of the stay of

Sharp Slash Ordered For Flood Budget

The proposed budget for the Corte Madera Creek flood control zone will have to be trimmed by 75 per cent, the zone's advisory board said last night.

The five-member board, representing Larkspur, Corte Madera and the Greenbrae boardwalk area, voted unanimously to ask the county board of supervisors to cut the budget so it will fall within a five cents per $100 assessed valuation property tax rate.

The budget proposed by Donald R. Frost, county director of public works, would require a 20-cent tax rate. That is too much, the board said.

After discussion with the board, Frost agreed to cut three items from the budget, reducing it by $55,000. These were $20,000 for local drainage, $15,000 for relocation of a pump near Redwood High School, and $20,000 for privilege of dumping spoils on private property.

The advisory board then recommended supervisors seek to trim about $24,000 more from the budget and suggested two ways it could be done.

Supervisors could, they said, seek a reduction or waiver of the requirement the zone pay five cents royalty for every cubic yard of spoils to the State Lands Commission. These royalties would cost the zone $32,000, they noted.

Supervisors could also seek a

Terror Bomb Brings Hail Of U.S. Bullets In Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong terrorists exploded a mine in the heart of Saigon today, and U.S. sentries turned one of the capital's busy streets into a blood-drenched battleground.

Five persons were killed and 29 to 32 were wounded, most of them by American fire. The dead included a Vietnamese policeman, three Vietnamese women and a child. Eight Americans and at least 21 Vietnamese civilians were reported wounded.

A U.S. Army spokesman said there was no evidence of Viet Cong fire in the half-hour fusillade that followed the mine explosion. He told a news conference that an American MP opened fire and that other MPs thought they were being fired on and began spraying the streets with machine guns and automatic weapons. Crowds of Vietnamese on their way to work ran in terror or fell under the hail of bullets.

Seven Vietnamese suspected of planting the bomb were arrested, but all were cleared and released, the spokesman said.

"It was a regrettable misjudgement that could happen anywhere, anytime, under similar circumstances," Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., said tonight in Saigon.

"It is a tragic situation," said Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich.

"It reflects the inherent tensions of the situation and it can happen again at any time," Moss told a reporter. "There is no assurance it won't happen again.

"Incidents such as this come about from having terrorism right in the city. It's a war without fronts.

"Our hearts go out to the innocent victims of this affair,"

Redwoods Funds Cut In Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Appropriations Committee followed the House lead Tuesday and refused to recommend funds for the proposed Redwoods National Park in California.

Instead, it took the $10 million in President Johnson's budget for he Redwoods Park and reallocated it to several Forest Service and National Park locations.

The action was seen as effectively killing any funding for the controversial park for this session of Congress. The Senate conceivably could write money for the Redwoods into the committee's recommended appropriations for the Interior Department when the bill reaches the floor. But such a possibility was seen as remote.

Money for the Redwoods was to come from the Land and Water Conservation Fund. The President recommended a total appropriation from this fund of $110 million.

Red Vessel May Anchor Off Marin

A Russian fishing ship, the Chernjakhovsk, may put into the sheltered waters of Marin's Drake's Bay later this week so the Coast Guard may board her and verify the master's claim of engine breakdown.

At sea 25 miles west north west of Point Reyes, the Chernjakhovsk, and her sister ship, the Skryplev, were being shadowed today by the Coast Guard cutter Taney.

At 9:40 last night, the Chernjakhovsk's master radioed the Coast Guard in San Francisco, saying that his vessel's engine breakdown had created an emergency, and requesting permission to enter San Francisco harbor to effect repairs. He reported the ship's single engine has broken rings, that disassembly is required to determine the full extent of the damage, and he cannot make repairs at sea, neither is he able to return to his home port, Vladivostok.

The master told Coast Guard officials he planned to transfer cargo to the Skryplev before entering, estimating this would take three days.

The Coast Guard refused permission, and radioed the Russian captain that he would be boarded if he attempted to en-

Countywide Police Tax District Is Discussed

A county service area covering all of Marin was discussed last night by a City-County Services Committee as a means of finding a more equitable spread for police protection costs.

Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows, who serves as staff for the committee, said the county-wide service area would support the patrolling costs of the sheriff's department.

With creation of the area, there would be agreements with each of the cities for county support for their police departments.

Barrows was instructed to seek figures on the actual costs involved.

He reported he had already consulted the county counsel's office and found that a county service area, though not customarily created for police protection, could serve.

The committee also asked Barrows to determine whether a county-wide service area could also be used to spread fire protection costs in the same manner. Barrows said this might be more complicated due to the many fire districts.

Either proposal would mean increased taxes for landowners in unincorporated areas.

The committee last year was instructed by supervisors to explore the possibility of a district which would exclude the cities and provide a tax base to support police protection in unincorporated areas. Barrows said that method would compound the already complicated situation caused by so many separate districts.

Under the present tax structure city taxpapers pay the same tax as those in unincorporated areas to support the sheriff's office and at the same time are taxed to support police departments.

Barrows was instructed to seek more figures on court costs in connection with collection of bail forfeitures. He suggested that all cities receive 75 per cent of the forfeitures while the county retains 25 per cent.

Under the present distribution,

Behr Will Go To Capital Seeking Fund

Marin County supervisors today agreed to go all-out in an attempt to have federal support of low interest loans for a Marin City commercial center reinstated.

The campaign will include a visit to Washington, D.C., by supervisor Peter H. Behr, who said he must go to New York anyhow on a business trip next week.

He volunteered to go to Washington May 23 to see high officials in the Department of Housing and Urban Development if the board would authorize the cost of a roundtrip ticket between New York and Washington.

This was approved, along with request that Chairman Byron W. Leydecker write a strong letter protesting the withdrawal of an

Rent Subsidy Bill, Teacher Corps Pass

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress passed and sent to President Johnson today a $2.8-billion supplemental money bill containing funds to finance the controversial rent subsidy and National Teacher Corps programs temporarily.

The funds for the two programs, both strongly urged by President Johnson, would be sufficient to get them under way in the current fiscal year ending June 30.

Dryer Weather Expected To Chase Rainclouds Away

An unseasonable rainstorm which doused Marin County yesterday and last night is expected to give way to cloudy, dryer weather.

The Weather Bureau forecast calls for today's scattered sprinkles to dry up and the clouds to blow away by late tomorrow.

San Rafael had .21 of an inch of rain in the 24 hours to noon today.

Other rainfall readings at 8 a.m. included .22 of an inch in Tamalpais Valley; .2 in Terra Linda, Mill Valley and Sausalito; .18 in Ross and Santa Venetia, but only .07 in Novato.

An upper level low pressure system centered some 400 miles south of here was blamed for the storm, which was accompanied by lightning and thunder in some areas.

Lightning struck a Muni trolley coach at Chestnut and Fillmore in San Francisco yesterday, disabling the bus, but the 21 passengers were unharmed.

Winds up to 35 knots blew along the coast, but forecasters said the winds will slow to 15 to 25 knots tomorrow.

Supervisors Approve Bigger Job Corps Application For Net Depot

Marin county supervisors today approved an expanded application for a neighborhood job corps project which could hire 50 youths from throughout the county for summer work and also require an increase contribution in county taxes.

Failure to press a job corps application led to the firing three weeks ago of County Community Relations Director Walter Bremond.

The original proposal would have provided jobs for 30 youths, 16 and older, for three months, cleaning up and painting buildings at the U.S. Bureau of Mines station in Tiburon.

County Administrator Alan Bruce reported today that the project can be expanded to provide jobs for 50, with 30 at the Bureau of Mines, 15 working for the Marin Housing Authority and five for the county. Pay would be $1.30 an hour. The youths would work a 32-hour week for 11 weeks.

They would not have to be high school drop-outs, but would have to be from families with low incomes, Bruce said.

The original county contribution would have been $3,000, but under the new proposal it will be $9,240. Bruce said this was because union members will be hired to supervise carpentry and painting work. This need was not show in the original proposal.

India Hits China On Disarmament

GENEVA (AP)—India told the 17-nation disarmament conference today that Red China's explosion of another nuclear bomb gives "new ardioactive evidence of its hostility to peace and disarmament and its expansionist and militarist ambitions."

Speaking at the final conference session before a five-week recess, Indian Ambassador Vishnuprasad C. Trivedi said Peking has once again "placed the entire human society as well as generations yet unborn under far-reaching hazards of health and thermonuclear holocaust."

Soviet charges that the U.S. draft of a treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons would give West Germany access to nuclear arms were rejected in a strongly worded speech by Chief U.S. Delegate William C. Foster.

He told the Russians that as far as Western defense arrangements are concerned, they should mind their own business.

KENNEDY SEEKING MORE LATIN AID

New York Senator Asks 'Marshall Plan' For Inevitible Revolution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., today suggested a Latin American "Marshall Plan" to keep U.S. money — not Marines — in the forefront of the revolution he feels is inevitable there.

In the second of two Senate policy speeches, Kennedy said he believed the American people would support "a greatly increased aid effort—an effort equal to what we were willing to do 15 years ago.

At that time, the United States undertook an aid plan to help post-war Europe back to its economic feet. Congress authorized spending of $12 billion in its first 3½ years.

The United States now allocates about $1 billion to Latin American aid programs—$400 million for liberal development loans; the balance on surplus food shipments and loans from the export-import bank.

In his first report on his Latin American trip last November, Kennedy said yesterday revolution was coming to Latin America, and the only questions were when and whether they would be peaceful.

Kennedy said that only complete American identification with the aspirations of those that seek political, economic and social change, and opposition to those that oppose it, could keep change peaceful. This included, he said, abandonment of intervention in Latin American affairs.

He also called today for:

Formation of a type of Latin American common market for commodity marketing and other products to assure a steady export income for the region.

Creation of special inter-American machinery—perhaps under the inter-American development bank—to meet currency emergencies in Latin American countries.

Dissemination of population control information to any country wanting it to ease the pressure of fast growing populations on weak economies.

Yesterday Kennedy urged Americans to embrace those who seek to bring change to Latin America, and to withhold moral and material support from those who oppose it.

Sex Researchers Say Mail Response Amazes

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Two researchers who wrote a text on sex physiology have been flooded with hundreds of letters since the book was released three weeks ago.

Dr. William H. Masters and a psychologist, Virginia E. Johnson, wrote "Human Sexual Response." The book is based on an 11-year laboratory study at Washington University of sexual stimulation in 694 men and women.

Masters said about 30 per cent of the mail is divided evenly among unsigned crank criticism, honest disagreement, and encouragement. He said the other 70 per cent comes from people with problems of sexual inadequacy.

"In our age it takes courage to admit sexual problems," Masters said. "It has been our experience that after people gather their courage to write us once, they probably won't again unless they are directed toward help in the immediate future."

Mail to the Reproductive Biology Research Foundation, which the team helped to create, has increased measurably since their book's publication April 18. The first printing sold out in three days.

"We are amazed at the response to the book," Masters said. "It was totally unexpected, not only for us but the publishers. They were not prepared for it either. The text was written primarily for the medical and behavioral professions."

For 18 months, the two scientists have been studying data for a second volume, "Human Sexual Inadequacy." This book will involve clinical applications of their earlier findings.

FBI Boss Quietly Begins His 42nd Year On The Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) —FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover marked his 42nd year on the job today with no comment on the anniversary, no change in his work routine, and no talk about an eventual successor.

At 71 —One year past the mandatory retirement age for government employees — Hoover still arrives at this desk early and leaves late.

But he is, if anything, more shy of the limelight. In the last year he has made only four formal public appearances. One of these was to testify before a house appropriations subcommittee considering the FBI budget request.

As for his anniversary, a spokesman said Hoover had told him it will just be another workday with no special observance.

It was President Johnson himself who waived the mandatory retirement requirement for Hoover. Last month the President also asked Congress to give the FBI chief funds to hire 100 new agents to handle the influx of civil rights cases.

Hoover has made it plain that he plans to stay on the job as long as he can. Last year he said: "I enjoy my work and feel competent to carry out all the demands of my job — why should I think about retirement?"

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Federal Standard Hit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Michigan Gov. George Romney said today that Johnson administration auto safety proposals would "wipe out meaningful and creative state contributions toward improved vehicle safety" and substitute "absolute federal decision-making and control."

Union For Safety

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union came out today in support of federal auto safety standards, but UAW President Walter P. Reuther added that any legislation should include "sufficient latitude for creative and imaginative product design."

Soviet Leader Trips

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's two top leaders left today for visits abroad, apparently designed to bolster the Kremlin's influence in both the Communist and neutralist camps. Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev flew to Romania for a three-day visit. Premier Alexei N. Kosygin flew to Cairo for an eight-day visit.

Pennsylvania Official Killed

Allessandroni

Alessandroni, 51, managed Gov. William W. Scranton's unsuccessful battle to wrest the Republican presidential nomination from Barry Goldwater in 1964. He was flying while campaigning for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor in the May 17 state primary.

The four died Sunday when their private twin-engine plane fell in rugged Allegheny Mountain terrain.

The dead include James E. Staudinger of Abington Township, who was the Republican chairman of Montgomery County and a member of the State Liquor Control Board, and the pilot, Melvin E. Ladin, 28, of Collingswood, N.J.

Pike Again Defends Church Views

HAYWARD (AP)—The Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Episcopal bishop of California, last night again met the thrusts of fellow Episcopalians who challenge his unorthodox views.

An overflow at Trinity Episcopal Church after the pastor, the Rev. Graham Lesser, circulated a letter charging Pike with violating his sacred vows.

The bishop was peppered with questions about his beliefs—on literal truth of the virgin birth, on the divinity of Christ and on the Trinity.

Pike often has been charged with heresy on those same questions. He has been cleared of the charge by the governing body of his church.

"There is only one essential," he said, "and that is Jesus Christ. Whom did Jesus worship? Whom did he pray to? He prayed to his father, God."

Cold Weather Hits Midwest With Snow

By UP INTERNATIONAL

Record-breaking cold covered a wide section of the country today from the Midwest to the mountains of New England, where icy rains and snow nipped spring blossoms in the bud.

The mercury dipped to an unofficial 19 degrees in suburban Chicago. It was 23 degrees at Lansing, Mich., and falling, the lowest temperature ever recorded there during the month of May.

Detroit had a 28, the lowest ever reported this late in spring, and a 24 at Milwaukee, Wis., matched the all-time low.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the polar blast would sweep through Dixie during the day. Warmer weather prevailed in the interior western states, and Presidio, Tex., boasted a 103 degree reading yesterday.

One inch of snow fell yesterday at Albany, N.Y., and at Burlington and Newport in Vermont. Several inches fell in the mountains of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont during the night.

A squall line ripped through Orange Park, Fla., yesterday with tornadic winds. Torrents of rain fell, the roofs were ripped from six houses and a dozen other homes were damaged. Only two minor injuries were reported.

Lightning Hits Bus

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Lightning struck a trolley bus yesterday but the driver and all 21 passengers escaped injury in a cracking shower of sparks and a fire alarm sounded in an adjacent school.

Gill Resigns Seminary Post For Study Job

Dr. Theodore A. Gill, president of San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo since 1957, has resigned to take charge of a study commission of the World Council of Churches.

He will start his new job July 1 in Geneva, Switzerland, headquarters of the council.

He has been on a leave of absence since Dec. 1, undergoing rest and treatment for a chronic ailment which was said to be the result of overwork and a rigorous travel schedule.

As director of the church council's joint study commission on education, he will organize its research, will supervise conferences in Europe, Asia, Africa and this country, and will write a book as well.

This will be a survey of public education facilities and how they relate to church-maintained schools and mission operations.

Gill's resignation was announced by James R. MacKay, chairman of the seminary board of trustees, who said Gill's administration had "significantly strengthened the seminary" during his eight years in the post.

MacKay further said Gill had "drawn together an eminent faculty," had "attracted increasing number of students of high quality," had been "a leading architect of the Graduate Theological Union, a co-operative venture in post-graduate theological studies," and had overseen revision of the curriculum.

Before becoming seminary president, he was managing editor of the Christian Century an influential non-denominational magazine, and editor of another magazine, the Pulpit.

He is a member of several important committees of the United Presbyterian Church and the World Presbyterian Alliance, and was an observer at world church meetings in Sao Paulo in 1957 and in New Delhi in 1961.

Arnold B. Come, dean of the seminary faculty, is serving as acting president until a new president is chosen.

Tiburon Council Fills Planning Commission

The Tiburon City Council last night congratulated the planning commission, now down to four members, then appointed three new members to it.

The new appointees, all members of the citizens planning advisory committee, are: John G. McChesney of 1875 Mountain Drive, co-chairman of the committee; John J. Berryman of 6 Southridge East Street, who specialized in special districts in the committee, and Alton S. Lee of 2040 Centro East Street, who specialized in community facilities.

McChesney, who is director of operation for Hills Brothers Coffee Co., was appointed for a two-third term. Berryman, assistant to the president of American President Lines, and Lee, an architect, were appointed to terms ending next year.

"They were our first choices," Mayor John S. Hoffmire said. "We're glad they could all take it."

The planning commission was expanded from five to seven members last year, BTU the former council never made the appointments. A third vacancy occurred last month when Mrs. Helen Newman, vice-chairman, resigned.

The Tiburon City Council also:

1. Continued until May 23 discussion of a new policy to do away with automatic council review of planning commission actions. The council could not agree on a time limit for appeal of the commission's decisions.

2. Established standing council committees and appointed to them: Administration and finance, Gordon W. Strawbridge, chairman, and Mayor Hoffmire; land and development, Thomas E. Drohan, chairman, and Brandwell D. Fanning; public services, William R. Bremer, chairman, and Strawbridge.

3. Postponed until May 23 public hearing on a proposed uniform traffic ordinance, because the legal notice had not been printed twice since its introduction.

4. Asked City Manager Lawrence D. Rose to invite the Tiburon Fire District and Tiburon Sanitary District to join the joint health insurance plan of cities of Tiburon and Belvedere.

5. Directed City Atty. Robert I. Conn to prepare an ordinance similar to the county's ordinance on abatement of public nuisances.

Mrs. Barnard To Aid Park Bond Campaign

Mayor Albert E. White of Mill Valley announced today appointment of Mrs. John R. Barnard as Mill Valley chairman of the $4.3 million county park bond issue campaign. The issue is to be voted upon at the June 7 primary.

Mrs. Barnard is vice chairman of the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission.

Coin Flip Determines State Senate Winner

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A State Senate candidate, Robert Haner of Albuquerque, has won his nomination by a head.

Haner and Mrs. Irene Mathias tied with 988 votes each in last Tuesday's Democratic primary election for the District 39 Senate nomination. They waived their right to a recount in favor of deciding the tie vote by a coin toss. Haner won.

Novato Adult Community Plan Gets Nod

Marin County's first all-adult community was approved last night by the Novato Planning Commission.

The development is planned in San Marin by Sunset International Petroleum Corp., with 770 units on 77 acres. The company plans more such developments in San Marin if the first is successful.

The Novato Planning Commission also concluded a long-discussed and much-postponed proposal for gasoline service stations on three corners of a San Marin intersection by granting permits. Harker Development Co. is to build the stations, which the commission ruled must not do repair work nor sell auto supplies.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

1. Approved rezoning from duplex to multiple family a lot at 1036 Third Street, asked by Joseph Horvath.

2. Continued until May 23 consideration of an amendment to the Loma Verde master plan to permit single family homes on what had been an elementary school site south of Carnoustie Drive, consideration of the tentative map of Hidden Horse Canyon by Marin Master Builders for 79 lots on 24 acres in Marin Golf and Country Club estates, request of Andrew Talbot for a use permit for a convalescent hospital at Hill and Indian Valley roads, and hearing on an amendment to the subdivision ordinance requiring dedication of land for school purposes, to implement the Kirk law.

Larkspur School District trustees will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the district office to hear reports on federal funds available to the district next year and review the proposed budget.

Novato Trustees Wrestle With Teacher Pay Requests

In more than two hours of discussion, Novato Unified School District trustees last night failed to reach agreement on increasing teacher salaries or how to fit their salary request into the proposed 6.5 million dollar budget for fiscal 1967.

The board asked that Supt. James G. Bunker meet with the salary negotiating committee of the Novato Teachers Assn. at 4 p.m. today to try to come up with a salary proposal which the district could afford.

Last week, the teachers association asked for increases of $180, from $5,520 to $5,700 per year, for beginning teachers, up to an increase of $1,354 or from $10,656 to $12,010, at the top of the pay scale. This was estimated to add $250,000 to the district's salary cost.

The American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, which does not have enough members to be on the salary committee, proposed a scale starting at $5,800 and going to $12,070.

A suggestion was made to cut the reserves which are $271,095 by $100,000 and give that to the teachers in salary increases, according to Bunker.

There was no discussion of salary increases for non-teaching personnel, Bunker said.

Anti-Red Society Running In The Red

BELMONT, Mass. (AP) — Robert Welch, founder of the ultraconservative John Birch Society, says the society won't cut back its program although it is operating in the red.

He acknowledged in a bulletin to members yesterday that the society's income totaled slightly more than $4 million last year, one million less than its expenditures. He also said that membership had not grown to anticipated levels.

TV Sets, Irons In Agreement For Seafarers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—West Coast sailors may be guaranteed shipboard 21-inch television sets, steam irons and automatic ice cube machines in their new labor contract.

Those items were included in a tentative agreement made public yesterday by the AFL-CIO Seafarers Union and the Pacific Maritime Association, an employer group.

Earlier they had announced agreement on $250 monthly pensions after 20 years service and $25 monthly pay boosts. Current pay rates are not available.

The latest fringe benefits made public also include $20,000 war risk insurance for those sailing into the Viet Nam area.

When you buy more life insurance stop and think first.

Let's say you've decided to invest an extra $200 a year in life insurance. What's the next step?

Careful now. Don't just order "another $10,000." That's like buying a house without seeing it first. A house has to fit your family, your family activities, your future plans.

So does your insurance program. Your problem is to fit that extra $200 worth into your overall plan for financial security and growth. Should you spend it on more family protection today? Or on providing cash for a child's education fifteen years from now? Or on a retirement fund for yourself? Or on a combination of these?

You can see how, without help, planning such a program can be complicated. But there is help. Your Manufacturers Life underwriter has an ingenious device called a Security Graph, which systematically pictures your overall financial position and objectives, and then indicates where that $200 will do the best job.

This is part of our Financial Planning Service for which there is no charge. So call your Man from Manufacturers soon.

Corte Madera Eatery Stymied By Planners

The Twin Castles Restaurant, proposed by Franchise Investment Corp. for the southwest corner of Montecito and Redwood avenues in Corte Madera, hit another town roadblock last night—the planning commission.

The restaurant was first rejected by the board of design because of a gaudy exterior color scheme. This was changed to a more sedate red brick-colored tile exterior and the design board approved the restaurant.

Last night planning commissioners ordered some more changes—a retaining wall and service windows in the rear instead of the front of the building.

Commissioners also said they will require the restaurant file a $2,545 deposit for upgrading Montecito Avenue.

Plans for the restaurant will now have to go back through the board of design before being resubmitted to the planning commission.

Commissioners rejected a board of design recommendation that a Humble Oil service station at Fifer and Nellen avenues have a front entrance to lubrication rack areas. The entrance should be in the rear, they said. The design was approved with that stipulation.

Norman Eatorn was re-elected as commission chairman. Jack Hauser was named to replace Albert J. Boro as vice chairman.

Held over for an on-site inspection was a tentative map of a six-lot subdivision proposed by John Fredericks at Redwood Avenue and Summit Drive.

Loan Approved For Roads, Over Financial Objections

Marin County supervisors, over protest of county financial officers, today approved an intereset-free loan of $17,400 to Monte Cristo Permanent Road Division.

County Auditor - Controller Michael Mitchell and Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Fontez said interest of the six-year period proposed would come to $3,000 if the same funds were on deposit.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney argued, however, that the use should not be thought of as a loan, but a means of financing road work that would otherwise have to be done at county cost.

Attorney Roger P. Garety, representing a resident of the road division, E. P. Franklin of 22 Bosque Avenue, questioned the operation of the district.

Public Works Director Donald R. Frost recommended that no loans be approved exceeding one per cent of the total road fund in any year. This policy was adopted by the board.

execution was taken to Mitchell immediately after it was announced at 10 a.m. He termed the condemned man "extremely happy."

The American Friends Society of San Francisco had notified the prison that it intended to maintain a traditional silent prayer vigil outside the prison gates, starting at midnight tonight.

Born in Mississippi, Mitchell quit school after the eighth grade when his father lost his right hand in an accident. He picked cotton on an Arkansas plantation, and came to California when his mother got him a job at the Mather Air Force Base laundry.

He attempted to rob a Sacramento restaurant and bar, but was caught in the act by police. In the ensuing fight, Policeman Arnoll Gamble was killed by a bullet fired from another officer's gun in Mitchell's hand.

set by state law, each city receives an amount based on its early justice court costs. Thus the county retains only 11 per cent of forfeitures collected from San Anselmo and 30 per cent from those in Larkspur and Fairfax.

Barrows said putting it on a 25 per cent formula for all cities would increase county revenue from fines by $20,000 a year.

He told the committee it would be possible for cities to collect their own parking meter fines.

The committee delayed consideration of County Administrator Alan Bruce's suggestion that the county civil defense office be discontinued.

Supervisor William A. Gnoss, a member of the committee, was absent. Those present were City Councilmen Michael Wornum of Mill Valley and Douglas M. Merrill of Novato and Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen.

COURT

heaval. People aren't going to suddenly start moving into neighborhoods or anything."

That was the reaction today of Assemblyman Byron Rumford, D-Berkeley, to the State Supreme Court decision overturning Prop. 14 — the 1964 initiative that nullified Rumford's own anti-discrimination housing law.

Rumford said low incomes still keep many Negroes from moving into white neighborhoods.

Nathaniel Colley, the lawyer who fought the case before high court for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said "as far as I'm concerned, this is the final judgement.

"The court action nullifies the proposition completely," he said. "There is no automatic appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court . . ."

Colley said he doesn't know if the California Real Estate Assn., a main backer of Prop. 14, will take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court or not.

Rumford, however, said he thinks it definately will be appealed.

Assemblyman Charles J. Conrad, R-Sherman Oaks, an opponent of the Rumford bill, compared the court's action to the U.S. Supreme Court's legislative reapportionment decision.

"Once again the judiciary has substituted its opinion for the expressed will of the people," he said.

Ronald eRagan, a Republican candidate for governor, said: "The court has made its decision. It is up to the governor now to enforce the Rumford act until the legislature decides whether it wants to take some further action reflecting the will of the people."

Committee Acts On Resignation

Resignation of Walter Bremond as director of the Marin County community relations service was accepted last night by the Marin City Community Action Committee.

The committee had not previously acted on Bremond's departure from office last month.

The committee appointed Beatrice Dukes of Marin City as temporary assistant to Douglas J. Quiett, acting community relations director.

Study Asked On Complaints By Teacher

Complaints on a variety of subjects, raised recently by a part-time teacher at Tomales High School, may be farmed out to at least five persons or groups for more detailed study, a six-member committee concluded last night.

Supt. Anthony Matulich, a committee member, said the group broke the complaints of Robert de la Vergne down into eight categories, then decided who was best suited to delve into each.

Their recommendations will go before the board at its next regular meeting May 18. If the plan is approved, some of the complaints will go to Matulich, others to the board members themselves, and still others to committees made up of parents, teachers or counselors.

Matulich said members of the original committee "will consider ourselves dismissed" unless the board decides to give them further work in the study of De la Vergne's comments.

With Matulich on the committee were board members Jean Adams and Joseph Tremari and teachers Gwendolyn Gibson and Carl Anaclerio, as well as De la Vergne himself.

After that meeting, the entire board went into a closed session for two hours on Matulich's contract and duties. The superintendent said he expected no formal action as a result of the board meeting.

the U.S. Embassy said in a statement.

An embassy spokesman said the families of victims would be paid compensation in accordance with normal procedure in such cases.

The military spokesman said it had not been determined yet how many of the casualties resulted from the mine explosion and how many were victims of the American fire.

In the air war, meanwhile, U.S. B-52 bombers from Guam attacked the Viet Cong's C Zone near the Cambodian border for the 10th straight day. Their target was a Viet Cong troop concentration area 70 miles northwest of Saigon, but a U.S. spokesman said he had no assessment of the result of the repeated strikes.

Ground warfare continued at a low ebb, with the U.S. command reporting only light, sporadic contact with the Viet Cong yesterday and no major action.

reduction or waiver of an Army Corps of Engineers requirement that the zone pay $18,000 for land enhancement brought about through use of spoils.

In another motion, the board urged supervisors to investigate the possibility of using the spoils on land east of Highway 101 in Corte Madera and if it is possible, resubmit the fill proposal to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Theft Series In Mill Valley

Thefts of $51 in fishing reels and a stereo set and tape recorder console were reported to Mill Valley police yesterday.

Byron Reynolds told police someone had lifted his garage door at 62 Millay Place and stole two spinning reels from a cabinet.

Marty Staubb of 30 Glen Drive reported his son, who had been feeding cats of a vacationing neighbor, Robert Moore of 28 Glen Drive, found the front door of Moore's house open and radio equipment missing.

He said phonograph records were scattered on the walk and steps, a window had been broken, a lamp broken in the room and a tire iron left on the rug.

J. R. Vigurs of 521 West Blithedale Avenue reported $10 worth of wood in front of his house had been stolen.

EAGLE

said. It must have been two minutes later, he said, when he turned his vehicle around and headed home to pick up his 12-gauge shotgun.

On his return, the rancher said, he saw the bald eagle feeding off a lamb. He aimed at the bird and killed it.

"I figured I had the right," said Martinelli. "The eagles were destroying my livelihood."

He said when he called Sheriff's Deputy William Christensen, he "laughed over the phone." The officer went out later that evening and the two men talked about the dead bird.

Questioned by defense attorney W. O. Weissich, Christensen recalled he did not advise Martinelli not to kill further birds. The officer said he was not sure whether the rancher had committed a crime under these circumstances.

The single witness for the government, Jack E. Downs of the Game and Wild Life Management Agency, said that in an emergency it would have taken "a matter of a few hours" to get a permit to kill the birds. He visited the Martinelli ranch after the shootings and saw no eagles threatening the sheep.

The golden eagle, which Martinelli admitted he killed Jan. 26, was taken out of cold storage for the hearing and placed on the witness stand.

Ladar said the eagles, national symbol of America, were becoming increasingly rare and the law protected them to ensure "everything else was done to frighten them off instead of killing them."

Weissich said there was no dispute over whether Martinelli had killed the eagles. He admitted he did. The question was whether he violated the law by protecting his own property from attack, said the attorney.

Referring to the penalty of $500 fine and six months in jail for shooting eagles illegally, Weissich said:

"I don't think that Congress has conferred upon the eagle the right to kill sheep willynilly and to provide the property owner with no protection if attacked."

Martinelli said the Department of the Interior gave him a device for frightening off the birds, but claimed it was not practical for use near ewes that were about to lamb.

ter American territorial waters.

According to a Coast Guard spokesman, the Russian master promptly radioed back that he had no objection to being boarded or having his machinery inspected.

Now the Coast Guard will probably agree to these plans. The spokesman said the Russian ship will wait for favorable weather, transfer her cargo to the Skryplev for two or three days, then sail—under Coast Guard escort—to Drake's Bay.

"We will direct the vessel into sheltered water at Drake's Bay for the purpose of investigation and verification that a true emergency does exist," said the Coast Guard, "before we allow the vessel to enter San Francisco Bay," under international distress laws.

The two Russian vessels are believed to belong to the fleet that has been fishing off the West Coast in recent weeks.

San Anselman Injured On 101

A 52-year-old San Anselmo man was injured when his car ran into an auto that had slid sideways across Highway 101 near the Lombard Street off-ramp south of the Golden Gate Bridge at 10 a.m. yesterday.

Gerald A. De Matei of 248 San Francisco Boulevard was reported in fair condition today with a broken knee in Marin General Hospital.

The California Highway Patrol reported that Raymond Wong, 30, of San Francisco was driving north on the highway around a curve when his car slid sideways across the two inside southbound lanes and in the path of De Matei's car.

Tiburon To Relocate City Offices

Tiburon "City Hall" has outgrown its cramped suite of offices in 1610 Tiburon Boulevard and will move this summer into a new two-story building at 80 Main Street.

The city council last night instructed City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose to negotiate a five-year lease at $575 a month with Fred G. Zelinsky for new building, which has 2,700 square feet of floor space. The move would consolidate the city offices and the Tiburon sheriff's substation, now in separate buildings.

Rose told the council that Zelinsky agreed to partition the building to provide offices for the city staff, sheriff's substation, library and conference room, storage rooms, and a small council chamber seating 25 persons. He said rental would be approximately 20 cents a square foot against the 37 cents $443 a month) the city now pays for 1,200 square feet.

Parking would be available weekdays on Main Street and for the city staff in Zelinsky's lot behind the building, Rose said. Special provision for the sheriff's cars in front of the building would be made on weekends.

Councilman Gordon W. Strawbridge questioned the convenience during winter of an outside stairway. The council instructed Rose to work an inside one into the plan if possible. It also told him to prepare an escape clause that the city could move out if need be.

"All things favor 80 Main," Mayor John S. Hoffmire said. Rose and Samuel Shapero, city treasurer, had been negotiating with several property owners for five months.

Rose said that since the city now leases its present space quarterly the staff would move into the now vacant new building by June 30.

insured loan at 3 per cent interest for the $400,000 Oak Knoll Shopping Center.

Richard Adams, representing California Development Corp., which will build the shopping center, said none of the objections listed in a recent letter from the federal department "went to the point."

P. N. Brownstein, assistant secretary for the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said cost of the center was 45 per cent of the cost of housing in the area.

Adams also told supervisors that the Department of Housing and Urban Development "is running scared" over a critical article recently printed in Readers' Digest. The article criticized Asst. FHA Commissioner Frank Daniels, who has since resigned.

It was Daniels who gave original approval for federal loan backing for the shopping center, Adams said.

Leydecker said that the shopping center is a vital part of the Marin City development. "Until we have it, its' not a community," he said.

Adams said that the shopping center could not be developed without approval from the federal department for the low-interest loans.

Overcome By Fumes

Terry Byrd, 21, of Petaluma, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital, where he was taken after he was found overcome by carbon monoxide fumes in a car parked on Poplar Road in Bolinas Saturday morning.

Private funeral for Henry Kaufmann, 77, of 294 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, was held yesterday in San Anselmo.

Kaufmann died Friday at home after an illness of several years.

A native of Switzerland, he came to the United States in 1918 and settled in Bridgeport, Conn., where he went to work for the makers of Locomobile automobiles. He stayed with that firm until it went out of business a few years later, then joined Igor Sikorsky's aircraft company as a sheet metal worker.

He worked for Sikorsky's firm through the period when it was one of the pioneer helicopter manufacturers. It later became part of United Aircraft.

Kaufmann moved to California after he retired 12 years ago. He settled first in Larkspur, then spent two years in San Rafael before moving to the family's present address.

Surviving are his wife, Marie M. Kaufmann; a son, Henry A. Kaufmann, and two grandchildren, all of San Anselmo.

Burial was in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Property Appraisals Bring Cries Of Pain

Marin County property appraisal increases had early repercussions last night before the Fairfax City Council.

The property tax issue arose when Raymond A. Beierle, president of the Manor Hill Homeowners Assn., requested better protection and services for the Manor Hill area.

"In view of the property tax increase," residents expect improved services, he said.

Mayor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said, "Now I know what the people in Belvedere were complaining about last year." (There were strong protests when property appraisals were boosted in Tiburon and Belvedere last year).

Arrigoni said the council might want to ask the county why the appraisals were boosted "so much" in Fairfax.

The council also received a request from George M. Cowell, secretary of the Fairfax Merchants Assn., to permit the association to have free use of the city-owner Fairfax Women's Club building for its meetings. The association now pays a $10 fee per meeting.

"We have about 50 members and nobody is trying to benefit himself directly, but trying to benefit the town. This is a town of small merchants," he said.

Arrigoni designated Councilmen George Pagni and Adelaide Wilson and City Administrator David J. Sumbardo to review the request and the fee policy.

The Fairfax City Council Also:

1. Welcomed and congratulated 80-year-old Mrs. Alice Powers, who was selected Fairfax Senior Citizen of 1966. She described the award "as one of the greatest honors I ever had."

2. Awarded W. K. McLellan Co. of San Anselmo, lowest of six bidders, a contract for two street resurfacing projects, on Bothin Road and Marin Road, at $3,942.

3. Unanimously adopted the 1964 uniform traffic ordinance fashioned by the League of California Cities.

4. Introduced amendments to the zoning ordinanee changing the planned district development zoning regulations.

5. Introduced an amendment to the zoning ordinance rezoning a parcel owned by Mrs. Helen Piecznski at 87 Park Road from single-family residential to duplex.

6. Introduced an anti-litter ordinance which prohibits the sweeping of debris into city streets.

7. Set for May 31 at 8 p.m. public hearing on a proposed change in building site requirements which would prohibit building on a site unless it is contiguous to a city street for at least 35 feet.

8. Proclaimed July 4 "Old Fashioned Fourth of July" in Fairfax and waived rental fees for the city park and pavilion for organizations participating in the celebration.

9. Passed resolutions commending former Mayor Frank L. Lawrence Sr. and former Councilman Waldemar E. Radtke for their service to the city.

10. Passed a resolution granting Sumbardo access to the records of the State Board of Equalization so he can study sales tax records.

11. Passed a resolution designating City Clerk Frances Lestanguet as the city's Social Security agent.

12. Appointed Cooper and Kerr of San Rafael as auditors for the 1966 fiscal year.

13. Declared a swimming pool on property owned by Dr. A. R. Sanchez-Corea at 150 Forrest Avenue to be a private nuisance and authorized City Atty. Wallace S. Myers to proceed with abatement action.

14. Received the resignation of Charles F. Tobin from the board of review, and requested interested citizens to apply for appointment to the board.

15. Agreed with a suggestion by Mayor Arrigoni that police and fire volunteers, past and present, be awarded certificates of appreciation for their efforts.

16. Authorized councilmen George Pagni, Robert R. Souza and Adelaide P. Wilson to attend the League of California Cities institute for mayors and councilmen in Monterey, May 22-25, at a cost of $300.

17. Set June 3 and 6 at 7:30 p.m. for special meetings to discuss city salaries.

18. Adjourned until May 31 at 8 p.m. at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Stop Payment Order Asked By Companies

Two more firms have filed for a stop payment order over work done for Bel Marin Keys Special Assessment District No. 2.

Eugene Luhr and Co. and Elmer G. Wendt., Inc., which did the grading of streets under the $520,246 assessment district project, say $50,326 is due them for claims and labor.

Asst. County Public Works Director Arthur T. Knutson said that an earlier request for stoppage of payment filed by Brown-Ely of San Rafael resulted in agreement that the assessment district would pay funds into United California Bank and the bank would pay contractors.

However, the bank is covering obligations to other firms for earlier work done and the two firms filed the stop payment order to seek direct payments from the district.

Undergrounding Bill Gaining

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Senate has given unanimous approval to the first specific state law governing the transfer of overhead utility and communication lines underground.

The measure now goes back to the Assembly for approval of Senate amendments.

The measure lays down procedures for residents in an assessment district to vote to finance such a transfer of lines along with financial help from local government.

We started with a simple plan.

It all began with the notion that a wagon should hold a lot, and no notion about how it should look.

So when we sat down to design the VW Station Wagon we started by drawing a big box with 170 cubic feet of space.

(Roughly two times the room of an ordinary station wagon.)

This gave us room to seat 9 people comfortably and 13 pieces of luggage.

(13 bags more than you could ever fit into most wagons that hold 9 people.)

Once we got the people in we couldn't just let them sit there in a dark box.

So we cut 21 windows to let the light in, a big hole in back to put the luggage in, and 4 doors to let the people out.

To make the thing go we put the air-cooled Volkswagen engine in back.

And what we ended up with is what you see in the picture.

A sensible wagon that holds a lot, parks easily, and doesn't drink much gas.

What could be simpler than that?

War On Poverty Program Not Living Up To Billing

The War on Poverty was hailed as a noble, humanitarian effort to help rid the country of social and physical ills.

Most of us held out high hopes for what the War on Poverty could do in the way of helping distressed areas and giving hope to the uneducated and the underprivileged.

But now, we are beginning to seriously doubt whether this anti-poverty program is going to be any more effective or beneficial than the countless other government efforts to solve problems by allocating money and money alone.

Outside of the White House and Sargent Shriver's splendorous building in Washington, D.C., we hear little else but growing criticism of all aspects of the War on Poverty. Such criticisms are leveled from all segments of society. The poor themselves are beginning to feel they are political pawns rather than recipients of the benefits. Taxpayers, who thought they would see concrete evidence of improvement, can see no observable headway made in the much ballyhooed War Against Poverty.

We even begin to wonder if the anti-poverty war is aiming at the correct targets. The spending of a sizable chunk of anti-poverty funds in Kentfield School District is not exactly the finest example of how poverty funds are being channeled to the most urgent and deserving areas of the county.

One of the benefits of our two-party system is that the opposition party keeps the party in power on its toes and prevents the administration from glossing over its deficiencies.

This is the valuable function that Republican Sen. George L. Murphy is performing when he challenges the effectiveness of the War on Poverty. Senator Murphy also suggests that the program is being used for political purposes rather than for helping the needy.

Governor Brown, offended by Murphy's criticism, charged that "Senator Murphy himself has done more than any other person to undermine public confidence" in the poverty program.

We feel Governor Brown should be expending his energy and resources to channel the War on Poverty into productive and less wasteful lines, rather than in criticizing Senator Murphy.

No amount of soothing press releases and facts and figures to bolster the contention that all's well on the anti-poverty war fronts can dispel the fact that the Great War on Poverty has made little or no impact on the local level. Salvos that are being fired in Washington to combat poverty just don't seem to be hitting their ultimate local targets—the slums and the pockets of poverty. Somewhere along the line, the shots are being dissipated, either in administrative cost or duplication of effort.

We would hate to see the War on Poverty deteriorate into another bureaucratic agency that spins its wheels in administrative red tape, eating up taxpayers' money without producing tangible results.

'DON'T JUST STAND THERE'

JAMES MARLOW

Vietnamese Must Believe U. S. Infighting Is A Bit Confused

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Americans consider the Vietnamese a little confused, with their anti-one-another scuffling in the midst of war, some of the things going on here must look a little mixed up to the Vietnamese.

For months they've heard President Johnson's Viet Nam policy scolded in and out of Congress, with no one more than Sen. J. W. Fulbright doing the berating.

This Arkansas Democrat is chairman of th powerful Senate Foreign Relations Committee and "arrogant" has become one of his favorite words to describe U.S. foreign policy.

THROUGH IT ALL, Johnson has maintained a starchy silence, more or less, never tangling head-on with Fulbright although this week at a White House reception he tried to be humorous indirectly.

He did it not with a speech but with a note which, he said, his cook wrote. Fulbright and his wife were there and Johnson told Fulbright:

If there's any arrogance of power in the White House it's in the kitchen. He pulled a pencilled note out of his pocked, the one he said was written by his cook, Zephyr Wright.

The cook told her boss, Johnson, that she was going to be his boss for a while and ordered him to take off weight by eating the food she put in front of him.

THIS DIDN'T DISCOURAGE Fulbright, as he proved last week in another attack. But, meanwhile, Johnson suddenly found a sturdy supporter against Fulbright in Barry Goldwater, whom Johnson defeated for the presidency in 1964.

Goldwater in a very blunt speech Thursday demanded that Fulbright resign as the committee's chairman. No American, Goldwater said, has the right to call the United States "immoral, imperialistic and arrogant."

This was turning the tables on Fulbright who, after the Republicans won control of Congress in the 1946 elections, suggested President Harry S. Truman follow the British parliamentary system and resign so a Republican could take over.

Truman ignored Fulbright's advice then, just as Fulbright most surely will ignore Goldwater's now.

HAVING TRIED to massacre Fulbright, Goldwater then tried to take the skin off Johnson from a dozen different directions which ranged from criticizing his handling of the Vietnamese war to criticizing his handling of problems at home.

Paying no attention to the take-charge cook in the White House or to Goldwater, either, Fulbright was at it again Thursday night in a 19-page speech in which he said the Vietnamese capital of Saigon has become an American brothel.

He said it was the result of the "fatal impact" of the "rich and strong on the poor and the weak."

Doubting the ability of a strong nation to create stability in a small and chaotic Asian one, Fulbright resorted to a Chinese proverb to make his point: "In shallow waters dragons become the sport of the shrimps."

THEN HE OUTLINED a policy of conciliation toward Red China but never got around to explaining what should be done if the Chinese ignore such efforts and insist on a Communist world.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

'No' VOTE Is Explained

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I would like to explain my "no" vote on the Mill Valley City Council's endorsement of the county park bond issue.

. . . We know there will be an increase in taxes due to demands of the sheriff's office, courts, transit requirements, civic center, schools and city requirements. These taxes foster high property values, which by proclamation will be even higher if the bond issue passes.

Several months ago, various statements were made about the "lily white nature of Marin County and that every effort should be made to correct this situation. There is no doubt that the main reason for this condition is the high property value in Marin, yet the same people who advocate that corrective measures should be taken are the ones who continuously propose plans to raise the property values.

A portion of the community lives on retirement incomes and is finding it extremely difficult to meet rising taxes. Statements have been made to the effect that these people should move out of Marin if they can't pay their share. This may sound "progressive," but I think it is very unrealistic. Many of these people are the ones who made "Marvelous Marin" long before some of the present talent knew where Marin was.

Several cities have initiated their own park programs and feel they can proceed on their own. Mill Valley has a fair start on its Project 17 and hopefully, its yacht harbor. This, plus the 26 per cent of the total area of Marin which is held in public ownership, should be adequate for park needs in the forseeable future. Approximately one-half of the proposed county park land acquisitions will be tidelands which are entirely unsuited for recreational purposes.

I realize that we're talking of a drop-in-the-bucket compared to over-all spending of public monies, but some time, some place, we're going to have to stop and decide what we want and need most for our tax dollars. Under the circumstances, I think a "no" vote is in order.

Black Point's Beauty Known Many Years

Editor, Independent-Journal:

There are many newcomers to Marin County who have never yet "discovered" the beautiful, tree-covered Black Point Hills. When they first see it, their reaction usually is, "It's a beautiful country."

For many years Black Point has been known and designated as a community or population center separate and distinct from Novato. It still remains separate, as Novato is now incorporated and Black Point is not.

Black Point is not square but irregular in shape. Roughly, it extends from San Pablo Bay to Bugeia Lane — now the entrance road to the big subdivision — Bahia del Norte. Black Point is about four miles long, east and west, and one-and-a-half miles wide, north and south. As it is zoned, limited agricultural and residential, many of the local residents keep a few head of saddle horses, freezer beef, or sheep. They can't have much livestock as their acreages are small.

Black Point was named after James Black, a Scottish sailor, who settled here before 1850. He was the first county assessor and justice of the peace for the early Novato Township. He owned a general merchandising store in Novato. As Black Point juts out into the bay, it was called "Black's Point" in early days. The letter "S" was dropped and the nam "Black Point" stuck. At one time it was called "Grandview," a name well suited to the many splendid views seen from its high hills and tree-covered knolls.

Old-time Black Point residents own their homes and acreages lock, stock, and barrel. The third generation is living here now.

School Road is about the middle of Black Point. It was well named. For many years, there was a small country grade school on School Road near Atherton Ave. It has recently been converted into a private residence. School buses now take grade school kids and high school students to public schools in Novato. A few people call this road "School Lane," which is a misnomer, as the name 'School Road'' is plainly marked on all county maps and road markers. School Road is about 1 mile long. In past years there were a dozen homes on School Road, each with an acreage. There are a few more homes today. There will never be many, as the old-timers don't want other people to move right in on top of them.

It seems rather odd to me to hear people say they have just "discovered" Black Point. It was "discovered" many years ago when San Francisco was a small town. As I have lived here on School Road, for only 30 years, I am still a "Johnny-come-lately." One of my neighbors, who sold his property here and moved to Petaluma, was born here more than 70 years ago. His father operated a dredge on the Petaluma River in early days.

Wildlife has all but disappeared in Black Point because of the increasing population. Twenty years ago it was common to see 8 or 10 Columbian Black-tailed Deer at a time, and large coveys of California Quail and many Pheasants. Dogs and guns have about wiped them out.

Bouquet Offer For Reporter

Editor, Independent-Journal:

When you're handing out those bouquets, how about a BIG one for your own Barbara Hosmer?

Her enlightening series on the teen-age marriage and divorce conference at U. C. Medical Center is filling a real need for bewildered, perplexed parents.

While the city papers chose to dismiss the whole thing with a few curt paragraphs, Miss Hosmer has given it the attention and importance it truly deserved.

What's more, her writing is clear, sympathetic and human.

Congratulations are in order.

COLLEGE GRADS WANT MEANINGFUL JOBS

A job in which to do "good" instead of merely doing "well" seems to be high on the list of growing numbers of women college graduates. This is the hopeful finding of several large corporations.

"The girls don't really want a lot of money or long-range security," said the head of one agency. "They're much more aware than they used to be of helping others, of doing something meaningful."

One graduate put it this way: "I want to feel that what I'm doing matters."

The desire to give of oneself in service to others is a universal characteristic of human nature, however much it may be chilled by indifference or stifled by selfishness.

The Lord made you and everybody else to achieve your full stature by an outgoing and practical interest in others, in public as well as private matters.

"Whatever good each does, the same he will receive back from the Lord."

(Ephesians 6:8)

Grant me the largeness of heart, Lord, to make something of my life.

Governor's Statements On Farm Workers Defy Comprehension

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — The reasoning of Gov. Edmund G. Brown in his efforts to promulgate the "great society" at the expense of California taxpayers and producers at times defies comprehension.

In a recent Southern California speech, the governor sought to carry on the myth of the "pitiful plight" of California farm workers, by declaring they are "the most deprived, poorly housed, and least secure members of our working society."

THIS STATEMENT was made in the face of the fact that last year, farmers all over the state were begging for farm workers to replace Mexican labor kept out of California by the national administration with the aid of the Brown administration.

And this year, it was reported from the early crop harvests in San Joaquin and Monterery counties, that shortages of workers existed.

Along with the report, an assemblyman stated workers were earning from $2 to $3.50 an hour harvesting asparagus, which is dropping in total production because of labor shortages.

Governor Brown decried the fact unemployment insurance has not been extended to farm workers, stating "there can be no argument that farm workers are any less in need of protection against wage loss than other workers.

"There has been no justice and little logic in their exclusion from unemployment insurance coverage."

IT MAY BE RECALLED that at one time, cannery workers were not covered by unemployment insurance. When coverage was extended to these workers, who are employed seasonally, the insurance turned into a subsidy for the canneries, as the insurance payments were made during the off-seasons and had the effect of keeping cannery workers in the areas of seasonal employment.

This may have been good for both workers and canneries, but the fact remains the subsidies are being paid by all the employers of the state, rather than the canning industry. This could happen were the insurance extended to agricultural workers.

"We have not done enough," says the governor. "We cannot allow one-fourth of our people to live in or on the fringes of poverty."

Perhaps we haven't "done enough." But on the other hand, there is always the possibility that we have done as much as we can with the tax money we have, and that eventually, in the effort to support the non-producing population in first class style, the well will run dry.

THE C.O. of a certain army base took a dim view of personnel who went AWOL and straggled back to camp with phony excuses and alibis. "After this," he promised, "I'll only listen to original excuses. The old ones just bore me." Two weeks later, the C.O. got his original excuse. "I was counting on getting back to base ahead of time," explained one college-bred recruit with a perfectly straight face, "but just as I was about to board my plane, they began playing the National Anthem over a loud speaker. While I turned around to salute, the plane flew off without me."

The C.O. stifled a laugh and gave the recruit an extra 24-hour leave.

CHIDED FOR his almost perpetual smile and cheery good humor, Educator Robert M. Hutchins was quick to point out to stuffy campus associates, "Nothing ever looks more serious and thoughtful than a monkey. Yet do you know the only thing that a monkey is thinking about? Where to scratch himself next!"

Fulbright Must Fish Or Cut Bait On CIA

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — It is now squarely up to Sen. J. William Fulbright to fish or cut bait on his demand for a voice in supervising the activities of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Flatly rebuffed by the Senate's joint CIA "watchdog" committee, Fulbright is faced with either dropping his proposal or taking it to the full Senate. Inside indications are the Arkansan will resort to the latter.

THIS LIKELY public clash was precipitated by a letter Fulbright sent the joint "watchdog" committee asking that it be expanded to include five members of the Foreign Relations Committee, which he heads.

That was unanimously rejected by the bi-partisan seven-member joint committee, headed by Sen. Richard Russell, D-Ga.

The committeemen also agreed among themselves to oppose an alternative move threatened by Fulbright — to introduce a resolution calling for the setting up of a special 15-member committee with jurisdiction over the CIA if his expansion plan was turned down. In effect, the joint committee challenged Fulbright to raise this issue in the full Senate. The committee has been assured of the full backing of President Johnson.

COMMITTEEMEN have been told Senator Russell was personally given this word by the President. The latter is credited as saying he is against "having Fulbright meddling in the affairs of the CIA."

This hostility is no surprise. In recent weeks, the Arkansan has been increasingly critical of administration foreign policies, with resulting severely strained relations between him and the President. Fulbright's attitude also has antagonized Russell and other strong supporters of the war in Viet Nam.

Indicative of this backstage feeling is the caustic comment attributed to Russell, who is also chairman of the Armed Services Committee:

"If the Foreign Relations Committee was given representation on the joint 'watchdog' committee, there would be nothing to prevent Fulbright from designating such foes of the CIA as Wayne Morse and Eugene McCarthy. That's the last thing the President wants."

IN ADDITION to Russell, members of the joint committee are senators Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee; John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the armed services preparedness subcommittee; Stuart Symington, D-Mo.; Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass.; Margaret Chase Smith, R-Me., and Milton Young, R-S.D.

The "watchdog" committee meets with CIA authorities on an average of once a month for a report on and discussion of the agency's activities.

Senator Fulbright had no better luck in trying to pressure CIA Director William Raborn into answering certain questions.

This polite but firm rebuff occurred at a closed-door meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee, which Raborn was to brief on a wide range of information. He had barely gotten started when Fulbright began questioning him. Raborn balked at answering some of them.

VISIBLY ANNOYED, Fulbright testily demanded whether the CIA head would answer those questions if asked by the joint "watchdog" committee. Raborn readily admitted he would.

"I will answer any questions by that committee," he said, 'because it has jurisdiction over our operations." Glaring angrily at Raborn, Fulbright curtly announced the meeting was over.

Stock Market, Sweat Shirt, House Sales Take A Nose Dive

The stock market is supposed to be a mirror of the economy of the country. During the past few years, it went up and up and up. Last week it took a nose dive.

If this is a reflection of the economy of the country, it is also a reflection of the economy of North Marin.

Novato, which has been a city with a booming business in building new homes and selling them, suddenly sees that come to a grinding near-halt.

BUILDING PERMITS do not give a true picture of the situation. They have held up for the first part of this year, but that has been due to several large commercial buildings. The number of permits for new house construction is way down.

The large developers who this time of year in the past were taking out permits for blocks of houses, just aren't doing it.

This is reflected in the rows and rows of unsold houses in some of the developments in the city. A glance at the classified ads or listening to the talk of real estate dealers shows how the prices of houses has gone down. Older houses can be bought for several thousand dollars less than was asked for them a year or two ago. Some ads read: "Make an offer," showing how desperately some people want to get rid of them.

Lee Wise of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. said that his company is shutting off more meters than it is connecting.

THERE ARE VACANT apartments all over Novato. This has been true for about a year and already the rents have started coming down.

In view of these facts about the decline in real estate values, comes the word that the assessor's office is going to reappraise North Marin next year. Home owners are groaning at the thought of increased taxes through increasing the assessed valuation of their properties.

It has been suggested by some real estate dealers that in light of the bust qualities of the present boom in Novato, the assessor might give serious consideration to a blanket decrease in all property valuations in the North Marin area, say a 20 per cent decrease.

NOVATO WILL hold its annual cleanup campaign the last two weeks in May and the first in June.

The trouble is that the city does not stay clean. Certain businesses do not seem to care how much litter they add to the city streets. Some individuals are in the same lackadaisical mood.

The cleanliness of any city depends on the pride of each individual to keep his share of debris from making a mess.

The other day I witnessed something that brought the entire problem into focus. There was a little white haired old lady going down South Novato Boulevard picking up the papers that were in the street.

I know that she was not cleaning up just in front of her house because I watched as she picked up in front of two houses and one empty lot.

That is the secret of any yard, area, city or county keeping clean. It is up to each individual to do his own, or a little more, than his share.

AS THE SCHOOL YEAR nears an end, the public should be told of the fantastic record of the Hill Junior High School Parent-Teachers Assn. under the inspired leadership of John Novak, its president.

The organization had several very successful money raising events, including an art show.

Then the enterprising Mr. Novak (not related to the television teacher) conceived the most brilliant idea of his career as a president of a P-TA: They would buy sweat shirts with a thunderbird and name of Hill Junior High School on them. So 300 of them were purchased, thinking that his would just be a start to supply the demand of the 850 students for them.

For some reason they did not go over. So some were presented to the school officers. Still they did not catch on.

By now the supplier wanted his money, so the profits from the other events were used to pay for the sweatshirts.

Total sales: 30 sweat shirts.

Someone has figured out that John and his two sons have a 147-year supply of sweat shirts.

One Word, If It's Right One, Effectively Quiets A Liberal

Though this administration uses the spoils system Old Hickory inaugurated — over 100,000 federal employees will be added to the payroll this year — it would obviously be misleading to call this the Age of Jackson. Besides, LBJ has thrown in some gimmicks of his own and I suspect future historians may call it the Age of Chutzpah.

I take it that word is now fairly well-known, for Lucille Ball sang a song about it on TV the other night. But is wasn't always so. And I flatter myself I had a small hand in popularizing it.

ABOUT FIVE YEARS AGO, composing an essay on the patently false Alice-in-Wonderland prescriptions the liberal con men were hawking as new revelations from Sinai, I groped for the right word to describe their utter brazenness. This was before the Free Speech Movement, so I had to discard some Anglo-Saxon four letter words that came to mind. And, though I had had some small Latin and less Greek, both were rusty and completely unequal to the occasion.

Then out of my subconsicous leaped the one definitive word, Chutzpah, that glorious Yiddish term of contempt which signifies arrogance, effrontery and gall carried to the nth degree. The perfect word for a government that keeps living beyond its means while exhorting the citizens to tighten their own belts.

But I realized many of my readers had been brought up in underprivileged homes where Yiddish was not spoken. So I was careful to explain what it meant, give assurances it could be used in mixed company, and offer meticulous instructions on how to pronounce it.

BAD SPEECH HABITS are hard to correct and may injure one socially, I knew. So I was firm in pointing out that the accent was on the first syllable; and that the initial "ch" was neither the one of "chore" nor of "chorus" but rather like the Greek "chi" or the Scottish "loch." And I stressed the necessity of getting the throat muscles into the act in order to attain the withering contempt the bizarre combination of unlikely consonants was meant to convey.

My conscientiousness paid off. I am rarely able to boast of any success, but that particular column brought considerable response. The day it appeared locally, I had an early morning call from my good friend of blessed memory, Hedda Hopper. "Chutzpah!" she said. "Morrie, am I pronouncing it right? This is important!"

It was important indeed to her because she was scheduled for a party that night and she was to be seated at dinner, she had learned, next to a prominent Hollywood liberal, well known not only for his ideas but for spouting them at any opportunity.

So we had a 10-minute drill over the phone. Hedda had been on the stage and was a quick study and by the time we were through she was letter perfect. But, just to make sure, she called again later for a refresher course.

THE NEXT MORNING, Hedda phoned again. "Consider yourself kissed, teacher," she crowed. "It was fabulous! I waited till everybody was listening to him and right in the middle of it, I let him have it. 'Chutzpah!' I said loud and clear.

"That stopped him cold. He hesitated and asked 'What did you say?' 'Chutspah!' I repeated. 'You understand English, don't you?' and I don't think the creep opened his mouth again till he left."

And I have another happy reminscence about that essay. A couple of years later, some hospitable Texans—if that isn't redundant—invited me to a GOP dinner in Amarillo. And after the dinner they plied me with their native branch water, to which they had added something pleasant-tasting — obviously not fluoride, which is tasteless.

NOW I DO NOT SAY Amarillo branch water is good for your teeth, but I can testify that two or three glasses of it will make even a confirmed pessimist look at the world more kindly. At any rate, I was in an unusually good mood when one of the Texans pulled out a copy of the old "Chutzpah" column and asked would I mind teaching them the correct way to pronounce the strange word.

How could I refuse? And I'm prepared to say that though "Chutzpah!" is a powerful imprecation in its own right, you haven't known its full impact till you've heard it delivered in unison in the rich accents of Texas. I've adopted it myself for use whenever the administration comes up with another panacea.

Which is every day, including Sundays.

Tomales Bay Marina Gets Permit Despite Protests

A use permit for a 60-slip marina on Tomales Bay north of Inverness was approved yesterday by County Zoning Administrator Thomas E. Cordill.

Cordill heard the application for the permit by Larry H. Marks Jr. of Novato on April 11. It was protested then by members of the Inverness Improvement Assn. and residents of Sea Haven subdivision. Backing the proposal were the Marin Visitors' Bureau and Marin Property Owners' Assn.

Cordill would not approve a proposed parking lot and picnic area and said that the marina would have to be as close as feasible to the present Golden Hind Boatel, which also includes a marina.

Opponents will have until next Tuesday to file protest if they want the issue heard before the county planning commission.

BUDGET GOES UP FOR KENTFIELD

But Harmon Sees No Tax Rate Increase In $1,136,000 Proposal For Schools

Kentfield School District trustees were handed a $1,136,171 budget for fiscal 1967 last night and said they did not see how they can alter it in any significant way, according to Supt. Howard C. Harmon.

The budget, proposed by Harmon, calls for $56,171 more than this year's budget of $1,080,000. It should not change the district's total tax rate of $3.34 per $100 assessed valuation, Harmon said.

Last week, Harmon said the preliminary budget would be $1,126,835. The proposal was recalculated before last night, he said, and "a lot of little items" account for the $9,336 increase.

Harmon said he based the budget on a 20 per cent increase in secured property tax revenues, the amount he estimates the assessed valuation has risen in the district.

Trustees postponed until May 23 any decision on salary increases for the district's eight administrators — Harmon plus three principals, a vice principal, a guidance consultant, an administrative assistant, and a bookkeeper.

Harmon's budget allows for five per cent raises for the six. Under that formula, the superintendent's salary would rise $925, from $18,550 to $19,475. Five per cent raises for all would cost the district $5,380.

The Kentfield School Board Also:

1. Agreed to call for bids on remodeling at Adaline E. Kent School as soon as state agencies approve the plans. The multi-use room will be changed to a gymnasium and teacher work rooms, and administrative office and kindergarten area will be remodeled.

2. Accepted landscaping at Wolfe Grade School as complete.

3. Agreed to advertise a surplus government truck for sale at a cost of $125.

4. Agreed to purchase accident insurance for sixth, seventh and eighth grade students participating in interscholastic athletics at total cost of $55.

West Marin Budget Totals $224,000 In Proposal

West Marin School District trustees last night were presented a preliminary budget for the 1967 fiscal year totaling $224,000.

The budget proposed by Supt. Howard Brose would be an increase of $32,000 from this year's $192,000.

Brose said an increase in the tax rate of about 5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation might be necessary. The district's rate this year is $2.21 per $100 assessed valuation.

The budget includes $12,000 for purchase of a new school bus. Teachers' salaries will go up $6,100 to a total of $96,700. Other increases were allotted largely to purchase of furniture and some remodeling of Inverness School.

The trustees voted unanimously to increase Brose's salary next year from $10,500 to $12,000.

All teachers in the district were offered contract renewals.

Trustees approved sale of $246,000 in bonds recently voted in a district election.

The board adopted the school calendar for the 1966-67 school year, which will follow that of Tomales High School.

S&W Pickets Under Arrest

VERNON, Calif. (UPI)—Two pickets, including a 21-year-old Los Angeles college coed were arrested following a demonstration at the S&W Fine Foods warehouse.

No serious injuries were reported in a running tussle yesterday as pickets repeatedly hurled themselves in front of the huge trucks leaving the warehouse yards.

The coed, Marian Gordon, a student at Los Angeles State College, was arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace.

The second picket arrested was identified as Conrad Villamyer, 26.

The pickets delayed ten trucks of the Di Giorgio Corp. subsidiary for more than seven hours before police moved in to clear a path.

The picketing by members of the National Farm Workers Assn. was in support of the union's eight-month strike against Di Giorgio and 40 other growers in the Delano Grape District.

City Buys Furniture From Eight Companies

Eight bidders will share in supplying furniture for San Rafael's new city hall.

Among the five bidders unsuccessful as the San Rafael City Council reviewed bids and voted to award contracts last night was Ray's Office Supply of San Rafael, owned by Ray Trenchard, who had objected to the specifications on the first call for bids. His firm was low on much of the steel furniture, but councilmen who had inspected it agreed with Milton Schwartz, hired by the city to handle the furnishings design, that the line it offered did not meet specifications.

The contracts were approved by 3-to-1 vote, with Councilman Charles W. Aby absent and Councilman Fred Jensen declaring, "I don't think anybody who is a principal of a company and writes specifications for a municipality should be allowed to bid on it."

Jensen referred to the fact that R. D. Ralsten, engaged by Schwartz to draw the specifications, is employed by Western Design Associates, which is owned jointly with Western Contract Furnishers of San Francisco.

Western Contract Furnishers got the lion's share of the metal furniture, with contracts for most of the wooden furniture going to California Correctional Industries for the San Quentin Prison factory.

The council threw out a few items, including desk sets for department heads. They decided the $168 low bid for a desk set for the city manager and $967 for desk sets for 13 other offices was a bit too high. At Councilman Louis H. Baar's suggestion, it was decided the city would buy uniform desk pads and waste baskets for all the offices, and let department heads buy their own desk sets from department budgets.

Sharing in the awards was Marin Office Supply Co. of San Rafael. Other successful bidders, besides California Correctional Industries and Western Contract Furnishers, were Frederick Post Co., M. G. West Co., Stevenson and Son, James Hill and Co., and Robert Morry Inc.

There was one other item of new city hall business at the adjourned council meeting: change orders Nos. 20 and 21 on the construction, totaling about $2,700.

The council voted 3-1, over Councilman Harry A. Barbier's objection, to purchase two 350-horsepower Fords, with special police equipment, through the state for the police department. Barbier argued long that the city should stick to Dodges, which it started buying two years ago on his insistance.

The San Rafael City Council also:

1. Granted Robert L. Thompson Jr. an extension until next Monday to clear wrecked cars off the lot at 51 Jordan Street for which his use permit was revoked two months ago. Thompson said Pacific States Steel Corp., his only buyer, had been closed by the Bay Area Air Pollusion Control Board but expected to reopen shortly. He asked a 30-day delay but was given until next Monday to learn whether the company reopens. If not, said councilmen, he will have to cut up the cars and dispose of them elsewhere.

2. Adopted a resolution calling for a State Finance Department census estimate.

3. Set for next Monday's regular meeting nomination of a San Rafael resident for the "Senior Citizen of the Year" award.

U.S. Approves State Medical Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — California's costly and controversial medicare program, aimed at providing full health care for 1.4 million people with low incomes, has been given federal approval.

The Health, Education and Welfare Department's approval provides $15 million a month in matching funds under 1965 revisions of the Social Security Act. The total state program is estimated to cost $580 million a year.

Grandmother Is Tiburons' 'Senior Citizen Of Year'

Mrs. Agnes Kircher, 78, of 1899 Mar West Street, a grandmother 17 times over, was named Tiburon's "Senior Citizen of the Year" by the City Council last night.

"She's certainly the grand old lady of Tiburon," proclaimed Mayor John S. Hoffmire.

Mrs. Kircher, who knew nothing about the nomination and was not present at the council meeting, became the city's entrant for outstanding senior citizen of Marin County for 1966.

Mrs. Kircher, a longtime resident of Tiburon, has been widely active in civic affairs. The widow of Charles A. Kircher, she has eight children.

She has served as chairman and secretary of the Tiburon Sanitary District board, is a former manager of the Village Salvage Shop, and has served on the juvenile probation committee, the citizens advisory committee for planning, and election boards. She is a charter member of the Tiburon Peninsula Club and Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society and a member of the Redwood Garden Club.

Mayor Hoffmire instructed City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose to prepare an official scroll for later presentation to her.

The countywide award is sponsored by the Senior Coordinating Council of Marin County.

Is The New Math A Rain Dance? It's Swingin', Students Agree

DEAR HELEN:

Even our teachers admit they don't see much point to New Math and they don't like having to study up in special classes to learn what they already know—the old way.

I am in sixth grade and every night I have loads of new math homework that I could have done in half the time if I didn't have to go through all that funny business. One night I stayed up till midnight and still didn't get it all done.

What I want to know is: If teachers don't like New Math, how do they expect us to like it? What do others think?—MAD

DEAR MAD

Here is what a few of my friends and acquaintances think:

Space project engineer: "New Math is a rain dance! I prefer the simple things."

Fifth Grade Teacher: "If I'm lucky I stay one jump ahead of the students. Sometimes I'm not lucky."

A Neighbor: "Yipes!!!"

High School Male: "Old math is better—you know: 36-24-36."

But, when I asked third, fourth and fifth-grade students who learned New Math before Old Math got a good toe-hold, the story was different. "It's swingin'" most agreed. And any method that makes youngsters think arithmetic is fun must have something going for it.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Is there anything wrong in giving a boy-girl dance party for 12-year-olds if your mother chaperons?—12

DEAR 12:

If your mother agrees, who am I to say? But don't expect to stir up an "instant mix." At age 12, it's not a "boy-girl" party but a boy——girl party.

You girls will have loads of fun, dancing with each other. And the boys won't think it is a total loss, if you serve lots of food.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have been going out with a boy for three weeks and I like him lots. Other night he called my friend and told her he wasn't coming to see me any more because he knew I liked him and doesn't want to get involved. He broke a date and now he doesn't even notice me. He has done this same thing with three girls before me. Never tells them to their faces, but has somebody else relay the message. What do I do? —LOST

DEAR LOST:

You won, honey. Who wants a scalp-hunting cowardy-cat? I'd guess he builds up a weak ego by dropping girls dead and then treating them as if they were. Mix pity with anger and you'll be over that crush by day after tomorrow. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

My problem is that my voice is too darn low for a girl. I cringe every time I utter a word, and I never yell at games cause I can't reach the high notes. My boyfriend says he's never heard a girl with a voice as deep, and you can just guess how that made me feel. My mother says even when I was a baby the first thing people noticed about me was my voice. Should I just give up talking?

—DEEP DEPTHS

DEAR D.D.:

One of these days—I hope soon—you'll realize that anything which makes you different will also make you remembered. Play that voice of yours for all it's worth. Look what throaty tones did for Tallulah Bankhead!

—H.

"EUREKA! I've found it!" exclaims Old Prospector Ringo King, otherwise known as Principal John King of Lucas Valley School. He refers, of course, to the annual carnival sponsored by the Home and School Clubs of Mary E. Silveira, Lucas Valley and Dixie schools. This year's carnival will be held Sunday, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the Silveira School grounds.

Gold Rush, Spanish Fiesta Theme For Sunday Carnival

Two vivid elements of California's heritage, the Gold Rush and Spanish fiesta, will set the theme of the Sunday Carnival sponsored by the Home and School Clubs of Dixie, Lucas Valley and Mary E. Silveira Schools.

Seven committees are putting final touches to a day of entertainment beginning at 10 a.m. and running six hours at the Silveira School grounds in Marinwood.

A parade, starting at 10 a.m., will include among its marchers the horses and riders of the Valley Vaqueros.

The Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District Non-Marching Band will perform. Faculty members and parents will present the "Golden Nugget Follies" at 1, 2 and 3 p.m. The show, written and directed by Mrs. R. G. Grace, will include a barbershop quartet, a singing group of 16 Forty-Niners; a piano player, can-can dancers and pantomimists.

A puppet show, "Cinderella," will be presented by Pat Trimble, Heidi Thalman, Carolyn Potter, and Amy Hobbs, students who have created the marionettes as their Girl Scout service project.

Co-chairmen of the carnival committee are A. F. Kerr, of Lucas Valley School and Maj. George S. Benjamin, of Dixie School.

Committee chairmen are R. P. Stroganoff, construction; Stanley S. Clawson, decorations; Robert Farnham and George Johnson, booths and food, all of Silveira School; Mrs. R. G. Grace, entertainment, and Mrs. R. G. Chamberlain, publicity, both of Lucas Valley School; and Leo Noah, personnel, Dixie School.

Use For Band Aid

Sisterhood Sets Spaghetti Dinner Sunday Evening

The Sisterhood of Temple Rodef Sholom will have its "Spaghetti Social" on Sunday beginning at 5:30 p.m. at the temple, San Pedro Road, San Rafael. The open house event is sponsored by the sisterhood, and also features movies after dinnner. One film will be shown for the youngsters while another is shown for adults in another room, the committee announced.

Reservations chairmen are Mesdames Fred Kirschner, Robert Slate and Carl Lee. The annual event is open to all Marinites.

ON THE MOUNTAIN—Janet Gauder and Gordon Townsend rehearse a scene for "Pear Gynt," the 49th annual play to be performed in the natural setting of the Mountain Theater on top of Mount Tamalpais May 15 and 21. Play will be directed by Dan Totheroh, playwright and author, whose children's books have been reprinted throughout the world.

Office Shuffle At Civic Center Is Worked Out

Allocation of space in the Civic Center, worked out after several conferences in the wake of the departure last month of the county schools office, has been completed.

Most of the space occupied by the schools office will be taken over by the social services department, but several other moves are involved, Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows explained.

Also involved is outlay of about $35,000 for new partitions and utility outlet changes in connection with the re-allocation. The changes will not be completed until about Aug. 1.

The schools office occupied both sides of the fourth floor at the south end of the building.

Offices of the social service department on the east side of the third floor and a portion of those on the west will move to the west and east side of the fourth floor, filling most of the schools office space, including the area occupied by the schools curriculum library.

The veterans service office will move from the west side to the east side of the fourth floor.

Some of the social service offices will remain on the west side of the third floor, but the change will allow the planning department to double its office space on the third floor and give the parks and recreation department office space between planning and social services.

The space now held by the parks and recreation department will be taken over by expanded offices of the personnel department. The area on the east side of the third floor now occupied by social services will be taken over by the department of economic development, systems branch of the data processing department. employment counselors, and the proposed health and welfare administration agency.

Saint-Raphael Seeks San Rafael Agreement

By PAT PERRY

A personable couple from Saint-Raphael, France, arrived in San Rafael yesterday, presented their credentials, and left with a promise that the city council will consider setting up a sister-city scheme.

Dr. and Mme. Pierre Vigier brought brochures on their home town, and greetings from their mayor and the local president of France-USA Assn.

The president wrote: "We would like to be twinned with your city . . . Not only similar names but also identical standing as tourist attractions stimulated this idea."

Mme. Vigier, an attractive mother of five, is acting as Saint-Raphael's ambassador in the twin city project. The idea was originated by Mms. Germaine Kanova, a former war correspondent, who is a friend of Daniel Silverman of 745 San Pedro Road San Rafael.

Silverman conducted the Vigiers on a quick tour of the city yesterday, and introduced them to City Councilman Louis H. Baar, vice mayor, and Sig K. Herzog, president of the chamber of commerce.

Baar, in turn, took them on a tour of the new city hall under construction. Despite heavy rain, the French couple plodded gamely through earth and timber to admire the building, sheltering under an enormous black umbrella held aloft by the vice mayor.

The Vigiers are on vacation, their second trip to America. They left today for Hawaii, but Mme. Vigier will return to California in a few weeks to stay with a friend in Los Angeles for a month.

The twin city project, as envisaged by the French town, would involve cultural exchanges and activities between families. The France-USA Assn. wrote that local families already receive as weekend guests many American students who are attending the University of Aix-En-Provence nearby—"and would be able to give special attention to students from California."

What is our proposed sister city like? Very much like San Rafael, according to Mme. Vigier. Located on the Cote D'Azur, some 20 miles from Cannes, Saint-Raphael enjoys the same equable climate with sunny summers, and mild winters.

A handsome town, encircling a fine port on the Mediterranean, it attracts thousands of tourists annually.

Boating enthusiasts favor Saint-Raphael, which has a "Club Nautique" and a "Motor Yacht-Club." The chamber of commerce brochure is labelled "Saint-Raphael, Pays de Vacances" (vacation country).

The Vigier's eldest daughter, 17, will attend University of Colorado next year, and the family will take a student from there to live with them. It is this type of family exchange which the French city considers would be most beneficial in a twinning program, reported the Vigiers.

There are also plans afoot to send a redwood tree to France, said Silverman, tying in the sister city proposal with San Francisco's Bastille Day celebration on July 14.

Vice Mayor Baar promised to introduce the sister city suggestion at a council meeting—and just smiled when Mme. Vigier exclaimed that he was Charles de Gaulle's double.

'Annie, Get Your Gun' Set Friday

Redwood High School's musical production of "Annie, Get Your Gun" will open Friday at 8 p.m., in the high school's Little Theater.

Cindy Greaves and Cheryle Hope, doubling in the title role, will perform the songs from the Broadway musical, including "You Can't Get a Man with a Gun," "Doing What Comes Naturally," and "No Business Like Show Business."

Clay Roni in the male lead will sing "The Girl That I Marry."

Supporting actors are Ted Herrmann, Dan Kreps, Kim Cameron, Judy Mock, Steve Carroll and Juli Therriault. A special chorus will perform in the musical.

Tickets are on sale ta the high school.

Quintet To Give School Concerts

The California Wind Quintet will give half-hour concerts May 20 for students at Santa Margarita and Vallecito Schools.

The group, composed of members of the Oakland and San Francisco symphony orchestras, will perform at 9:15 a.m. at Santa Margarita School in Terra Linda and at 10:30 a.m. at Vallecito School in San Rafael.

The program for oboe, clarinet, bassoon, French horn and flute is sponsored by the Dixie School District Council of Music and Arts, a parent organization that finances cultural activities in the district, with the assistance of Joe Curatilo, district music director.

Nature Lends Mountain Play Scenery Hand

The weather is proving an efficient stage-hand for the 49th annual Mountain Play "Peer Gynt" which will be presented in the natural amphitheater atop Mount Tamalpais Sunday and May 21.

Spring will give the grassy slopes a fresh green look and wild flowers are expected to be in abundance for the event which attracts more and more residents and tourists to the ideal spot each year.

Nowadays it is possible to drive there, but when the site was deeded to the Mountain Play Assn. in 1915 the way lay along stiff primitive hiking trails.

All the same, the first performance—a miracle play called "Abraham and Isaac"—drew a crowd of 600 husky outdoorsmen and theater lovers who set off hours ahead to climb the steep mountain tracks.

Since that time, 48 plays and outdoor pageants have been presented in the mountain theater, ranging from Shakespeare's "As You Like It" and "The Tempest" to adaptations of "Alice in Wonderland" and "Robin Hood."

All has not been smooth sailing. During World War II the site was turned over to the Army and in 1964 the power lines were condemned as dangerous because of deterioration.

The severed cables presented an almost insurmountable problem until a five-kilowatt gasoline generator was installed off stage to supply the necessary power for microphones.

"Peer Gynt" will be directed by Totheroh of Mill Valley, a Broadway playwright and Hollywood scriptwriter with such movies as "Dawn Patrol" and "The Virginian" to his credit.

Movie On Hawaii

"Hawaii," a color travel film, will be shown at 8 p.m. Thursday at Olney Hall, College of Marin, under joint sponsorship of the college's Associated Students and the Explorers Club of San Francisco. Earl Brink, the film's producer, will narrate.

Novato Triangle Art Show To Aid Scholarship Fund

"Triangle of Colors" is the title given to an art show all day Saturday at the Tresch Triangle in Novato, sponsored by the North Bay Artists and merchants of the triangle.

Proceeds from the sale of nine paintings which have been donated will be given to the scholarship fund of the North Bay Artists. A scholarship will be presented to a student at Novato High School who wants to further his art education.

Paintings for exhibit at the show will be accepted starting at 9 a.m. with the show opening at 10 a.m.

Gilbert C. Wheat, art instructor at the College of Marin, will judge the show. There will be awards for representational and non-representational oil and watercolor paintings, sculpture, photography and crafts.

The judge will select a best of show. There will also be a popular award to be selected by the public in balloting.

Young members of the United Church will display a large mosaic and show how it was made.

Children and adults may try their hand at collage or painting with materials provided at the show.

Nicasio 4-H Barbecue Set At Ranch House

The Nicasio 4-H Club will have its annual all-day fair and barbecue on May 28 at the Ranch House in Nicasio.

The club is also planning a clean-up day for sometime in May.

Young Actors To Audition

Preliminary audition for the Young Actors Co. will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday at the Festival Theater in San Anselmo, according to H. J. Susser, director.

Mitchell Named A Division Head For Bay Crusade

Michael Mitchell, auditor-controller of Marin, has accepted chairmanship of the countywide local government division for the 1966 United Bay Area Crusade campaign.

Appointment was announced by Alan K. Browne, vice president of Bank of America, five-county government division chairman for the 1966 campaign.

Mitchell, who lives at 22 Loma Vista, also is chairman of the building committee of Marin Aid to Retarded Children, a United Crusade-supported agency.

Premiere Set For Pantomime

"King Midas," a pantomine for children written by John David Lamb of Seattle, will have its world premiere Friday at 8 p.m. when it is performed by sixth grade students in the Marin Country Day School auditorium in Corte Madera.

Music for the production is derived from the school music of Carl Orff, German musician and teacher who revolutionized the study of music in elementary schools.

Cast for the production includes a narrator, speaking chorus, orchestra of recorders and percussion instruments, dancers and actors. Barry Mineah, head of the school's music department, will direct.

CLAMS—AND DIGGERS— ARE OUT

A series of minus tides through the weekend brought clamdiggers and abalone pickers out in force along the Marin coast. The Bolinas mud flats, where diggers find horseneck and Washington clams, were crowded. Eddie Mikkelsen (left), of San Francisco, has been digging clams at Bolinas for decades. He got his limit (10 of each variety) quickly, then gave advice to some novice diggers, the William Perry family from Hamilton Air Force Base.

TONS OF MEDICAL AID AWAIT TRIP

Alliance for Health Project Will Help Mexican Village; Doctor Seeks Money

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Five tons of X-ray and medical equipment and supplies are waiting in a Hamilton Air Force Base warehouse for clearance frorm Mexican authorities to be from Mexican authorities to be latest development of an international project born as the idea of one Marin doctor.

Sponsorship of Alliance for Health has grown far beyond the "one man's family" concept with which it began two summers ago. And its present sponsors hope it will soon grow much wider. It needs to, for the alliance's projects in Mexico this summer call for an outlay of $16,050—which is roughly $15,000 more than it has on hand.

The $16,050 wouldn't begin to buy the stuff that's in that Hamilton warehouse, though.

That five tons of equipment has all been either donated or picked up at "give-away" prices for Project Zacapu, the hands-across-the-border effort of a group of Marin doctors and others to carry modern health methods into the back country of Guanajuato state in Mexico.

PRISON X-RAY

There is a complete X-ray unit obtained for $600 as surplus from San Quentin Prison, dismantled and crated under supervision of Warden Lawrence G. Wilson.

There is a portable minifilm X-ray unit donated by the Peninsula Hospital Volunteers of San Mateo County.

There are 60 cartons of drugs given by the Marin Medical Society Auxiliary.

There is dark room equipment. There are chemicals, holders, etc., for use in developing the X-ray film. And there are cans and cans of film. Also there is a supply of BCG, the anti-tuberculosis vaccine which has been endorsed by the World Health Organization and is widely used except in the United States.

STORAGE DONATED

The packaging of all these supplies, except the big X-ray unit, was donated by W. K. McLellan Co., Santa Venetia contractor, along with temporary storage until it was taken to Hamilton.

The Air Force, through Maj. Gen. Carroll W. McColpin, Fourth Air Force commander, arranged for a mercy flight by a C-123 cargo plane to haul the whole five tons to the Zacapu airstrip. All that is awaited now is clearance from Mexican customs officials.

Don Bisenius, X-ray technician at Marin General Hospital, will accompany the shipment. The plane will be met at Zacapu by a crew under direction of the mayor and public health officer, who will unload and store it.

The big X-ray unit will be placed in the Zacapu Health Department's small hospital, directed by Dr. Godofredo Ortiz Hernandez. The small one will go to the free San Vicente Clinic operated by Sister Therese, a Roman Catholic nun.

TEAM TO TRAVEL

On July 1, a team will leave Marin to put in operation this latest phase of the Marin-to-Mexico health program which had its beginnings in Zacapu in the summer of 1964.

Dr. Michael J. Franzblau will be "jefe" of the team, which will stay three weeks. Two general practitioners, Dr. Thomas L. Grayson and Dr. Theo D. Hiatt, and a radiologist, Dr. Merall Roth, will complete the medical team.

Two nurses will be along—Marie Hensler and Edna Calvillo; and two X-ray technicians—Sue Denser and Erskine Bufano. Mrs. Roth and Mrs. Hiatt will take care of registration and records. Melanie Hahn, Mandy Outten, Bruce Pike and the three Roth children will be general assistants. Ken Molino plans to go along as photographer.

WHAT THEY'LL DO

They will show health education movies, distribute literature, give quick nurse training, give tuberculin skin tests, take chest minifilm of 500 positive reactors found in the Alliance for Health's skin testing in Zacapu last year and another 500 more expected to be found this year, take full-sized X-rays of those with "suspicious" minifilms, teach local public health workers to read the minifilms, give skin tests and BCG immunization in outlying pueblos.

On Aug. 1 a second team will descend on Zacapu. "Jefe" of this one will be Dr. Richard S. Hahn, the man who started it all. Accompanying him will be two general practitioners from Santa Rosa, the husband-and-wife team of Dr. Robert and Dr. Susan Massad, who expect to stay in Mexico about six months for follow-up work.

Nurses will be Al Carpenter and Teresa Ramirez; X-ray technicians, Sandy Becker and Sylvia Gern; registration and record. Kim Hahn; assistant, Melanie Hahn. There'll be a motion picture team of Victor Levine, Irving Cohn, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robinson, Dick Hahn and Laurie Gurnberg. And this team will take along two interpreters, Al Ramirez and Miguel Lopez.

It will follow through with the work begun by the initial team, and also will start a treatment program for tuberculosis sufferers, based on the Madras experiment.

This, explains Dr. Hahn, is drug treatment without hospitalization. In a poverty-ridden section such as that around Zacapu—as in Madras, India—it is impossible to hospitalize TB victims, The Indians have had good success with the home treatment. Dr. Hahn hopes to give it a year's demonstration tryout in Zacapu.

The entire operation, if undertaken as a government aid project, would require a huge staff, much overhead, and would run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

But Alliance for Health has no overhead. Its workers are all volunteers. They don't get paid. The $16,050 budget is to buy more films, chemicals, files, microscopes, etc., and pay transportation costs for the volunteer workers.

Dr. Hahn, who started the Zacapu project simply as a TB identification project with only his own family as helpers, heads the non-profit (very much so) Alliance for Health corporation. He hopes enough memberships ($15 and up) will be sent to its headquarters at 599 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, to make up the budget.

The goal is restoration to health of 5,000 cases of active tuberculosis in the Zacapu section of Michoacan, and detection of others in time to prevent the disease's inroads.

MERCY MISSION TO MEXICO—Five tons of X-ray and medical equipment have been assembled in a Hamilton Air Force Base warehouse to be flown to Mexico for Marin's Alliance for Health project. Checking to see that all is ready for takeoff as soon as Mexican customs clearance is received are (from left) Mrs. Merall Roth, Mrs. Austin W. Lea, Lt. Col. Harry F. Noble Jr., and Dr. Richard S. Hahn.

YOUR ACHING BACK

By HANS KRAUS. M.D.
(Seventh in Series)

Giving a patient therapeutic exercise is a craft, even an art, and so is the prescribing of exercises.

An exercise program should be based on specific reasoning, and it should follow a thorough investigation to see what has to be changed and why.

An exercise prescription should be regarded as potent medicine, and you should consult your doctor on it. You would not go to a drugstore with a prescription that simply said medicine or laxative. Instead you would expect your prescription to be fully detailed as to what you were to get, how much and when.

The same is true for therapeutic exercise. You should get the proper type, in the proper dosage.

The exercises we will describe for back pain are not spectacular or unusual. You will select those that fit your individual needs. You will do them the way they are prescribed, and you will build up your exercises gradually day by day until you have reached the full program.

The K-W tests detailed in the second article of this series will be your guide to what exercises you need, what sets of muscles need rebuilding.

But before going on, I want to give you the basic ground rules:

1. Check with your physician to make certain that you do not have an ailment that could be made worse by exercising now. Do NOT start exercising if you have back pain, or have had it in the past, without making sure that your condition does not require medical care.

2. It is imperative that, once you start exercising, you keep at it every day. It is better not to start exercising at all unless you do so regularly. Don't go looking for excuses to avoid exercising. If you start and then stop an exercise program, you quickly lose what you have gained.

3. Avoid fatigue which might cause undue stiffness and soreness. Start with very gentle movements and gradually ease into your full program. If you are stiff and tense, but strong, these exercises may seem "sissy stuff" to you, but you should still do them gradually. Do not try to acomplish everything in a short time. It is harder to learn how to relax, limber, and stretch, than it is to develop strength.

4. Set aside a half hour a day for your exercises. Make that a "holy" half hour when you are not subjected to visitors, phone calls, or interferences or distractions of any kind. You owe this to yourself and your own peace of mind.

5. Never say that you are "too irritated" to do the exercises. The day that you feel too harried or put upon is the day you need the exercises most of all, particularly if you are exercising to relieve tension. A busy day will make you and your muscles tense, but if you do your exercises properly, you will find the tension ebbing away. The tension that your muscles store up during a hectic day can be released through the exercises.

6. Get in a relaxed state of mind for the exercises. If you follow the instructions you will learn how to do this. In your half hour of exercise, put the cares of the world behind you, no matter how pressing or urgent they may seem to be. In this half hour, nothing is more important than the job at hand.

Live one day at a time. Exercise one session at a time. At first you will need only five or ten minutes for these sessions. They will gradually increase in time to approximately a half hour as you add exercises. Do not do a full program the first day, or even the first week. Do only three or four exercises the first day.

Never add more than one new exercise every two or three days. Add them less often if the last exercise seems hard to do. They are all planned in logical sequence, starting with a warmup, say the first three exercise, reaching a peak with the fourth, then working the way back, doing the first three exercises in reverse order. In this sequence, they will serve as cooling-off exercises.

Never do more than two or three of the same exercises in succession. If your program is complete, you may want to go through it twice in one day, if you feel you need extra work. Never do the exercises more frequently than that.

Your exercises must be performed slowly and smoothly. Do not do jerky movements. do not strain, do not "goose step." Be sure you stop after each exercise and rest for a second before starting the next one. That means a pause between each exercise, not only each set of exercises.

Always start with the first six exercises, regardless of how you did on the K-W tests. If you are tense, they will make you relax, and if you are weak, they will give you a very mild warmup. If you are strong, but need relaxing and stretching, they are doubly important.

If you are strong, but tense, remember that you are not trying to develop more powerful muscles.

Instead, you are trying to relax.

Tomorrow: Six general exercises to start on.

Opening lead — ♠ J

East won the first two spades and then followed the traditional rule. He led a diamond up to dummy's weakness.

West took the ace of diamonds and switched to clubs, but it was too late.

Declarer took the king of clubs, drew another round of trumps and led the jack of hearts for a finesse.

RETURN CLUB

East took the king of hearts and returned a club to dummy's ace. South then ran the hearts, discarding his losing club.

This brought the contact home.

East should defeat the contract by making the right switch at the third trick. He must lead a club even though this rides up to dummy's strength.

COUNTS TRICKS

East has two spades and expects to get a trick with the king of hearts. Since it is unreasonable to expect West to turn up with two trump tricks, East must get a club trick to defeat the contract.

Moreover, East must lead clubs at once before South has managed to set up and cash dummy's hearts.

If East leads a club at the third trick, declarer wins in dummy and leads a trump to force out the ace. West returns a club to dummy's ace.

Now when South tries the heart finesse, East can cash a club to defeat the contract.

Today is Tuesday, May 10, the 130th day of 1966 with 235 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter; the morning stars are Venus and Saturn; the evening star is Jupiter.

American motion picture Producer David Selznick was born on this day in 1902.

On this day in history:

In 1865, Confederate President Jefferson Davis was captured and arrested as he fled from Irwinville, Ga. He spent two years in prison.

In 1940, 89 divisions of the German army moved by land, air and water to invade Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands.

In 1941, Germany launched its biggest aid raid to date on London, damaging Westminister Abbey and the famous "Big Ben" clock.

In 1960, the U.S. nuclear submarine "Triton" completed an around the world voyage without surfacing.

Marshall Area Joins North Marin District

With only three protests received, the North Marin County Water District board voted 4-to-0 last night to annex approximately 10 square miles in the Marshall area to the district.

Emil Renati was absent.

This is the largest annexation to the district in its history, said Jerome B. Gilbert, district manager.

The district will proceed immediately with plans for water and sewage service to the 6,656-acre area. Consolidated Financial Corp. of Los Angeles will make a study and plan for the area, Gilbert said.

The three protests came from Osborn and Myrtle Hall of Petaluma, who own 350 acres; Mrs. Bessie Cole, who owns 3.49 acres, and Mrs. R. I. Carlson, who owns less than one acre, Gilbert said.

"It amounts to less than six per cent of the total assessed valuation" he reported.

The original proposed annexation had included the Tomales area, but residents there protested, so a smaller annexation was submitted and approved by the Local Agency Formation Commission.

About 15 people attended the hearing at Marshall School.

More Unification Discussion Set

Trustees of Dixie School District tomorrow will further discuss proposed unification of the district with the San Rafael School districts, to be on the June 7 ballot.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the district office at 35 Trellis Drive, San Rafael.

Supt. Dennie B. Willis has asked that the board hold a closed session during the evening to discuss a "personnel matter."

Judge Ends Marincello Hearing

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court late yesterday concluded a hearing on request by the City of Sausalito and two couples for an order temporarily halting development of Marincello.

He said he will announce on May 18 his decision on the request for a preliminary injunction restraining the County of Marin from issuing any building permits for Marincello.

Attorneys for Sausalito and co-plaintiffs John P. and Constance L. Erickson, and Herbert and Frances M. Perkins, contended in yesterday's final arguments that the controversial 2,100-acre tract among the Marin headlands was illegally rezoned by the county from residential-agricultural to planned community.

They specifically charge there was only six days legal notice instead of the required 10 days for the Jan. 19 public hearing before the board of supervisors, and also that the Marincello master plan was adopted by the board by resolution when it should have been adopted by ordinance.

Douglas J. Maloney, county counsel, argued the master plan was correctly adopted. He conceded only six days legal notice was given, but said this is not a sufficient defect to nullify the action.

Granting of the injunction by Judge Wilson would stop all Marincello development by Frouge Corp. until the issues can be resolved in a court trial.

Painters Cut International Payment Off

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Members of San Francisco Painters' Union Local 4, angry bitter over the murder of two bay area leaders, voted last night to cut off financial payments to the union's International headquarters.

Morris Evenson, acting secretary, said the decision to withhold $5,200 a month in contributions was designed to bring the international's officers "into a dialogue with us."

Evenson complained that international officials have failed to send "a single word of communications, a single word of condolence" regarding the recent murders of local union leaders Dow Wilson of San Francisco and Lloyd Green of Hayward.

An emergency meeting Monday night was attended by about 700 persons, including Mayor John F. Shelley, Assistant Police Chief Al Nelder, U.S. Rep. (D. Calif.) Philip Burton, Assemblyman John Burton (D-San Francisco) and representatives of almost every union in San Francisco.

The unions have expressed resentment because the FBI has found no legal reason to enter the cases of the two assassinated painters, who police believed were killed by imported executioners.

Park Board Budget

Plans for San Rafael's $511,738 share of the proposed $4.3 million county park bond issue will be discussed tomorrow at a public hearing by the San Rafael Park and Recreation Commission.

The hearing will be at 8 p.m. at Vallecito School, 50 Nova Albion Way. It will be the second of two such hearings intended to elicit citizens' reactions to proposed use of the money should the bond issue pass June 7.

Enlists In Navy

Thomas R. Simpson, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Simpson, 135 Meriam Drive, San Rafael, has enlisted in the Navy as a musician applicant. After eight weeks recruit training at San Diego he will go to the Naval School of Music in Little Creek, Va.

Many Apply For Sausalito School Post

Eighty-six persons have applied for superintendent of the Sausalito School District, which will be open on July 1 following resignation of Supt. Charles Lavaroni.

Three have withdrawn so the list stands now at 83, Sausalito School District trustees were told last night by County Supt. Virgil S. Hollis, chairman of the screening committee.

The screening committee completed its "paper screening," said Asst. Supt. Joseph Amato today, and will interview five or six applicants Friday and Saturday.

Trustees agreed to permit the Sausalito Teacher Education Project, temporarily housed in Marinship's industrial center building, to rent an apartment at Bayside School for headquarters. The project, operated by San Francisco State College, will pay utilities and maintenance cost and "minimal rent," said Amato.

The district's first instructional materials center will also be housed in the building. The apartment was formerly rented by a custodian who has moved to Hayward.

Budget for fiscal 1967 was discussed but no action was taken, Amato reported. The board will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at Bayside School to hear the building study committee report.

Teachers were announced for summer school, to be held July 5 through Aug. 5 at Richardson Bay School.

Mill Valley, Sausalito Plan Voted

Mill Valley School District trustees last night approved a program which will mean continued attendance of Mill Valley students at Sausalito's Richardson Bay School in September.

The difference between the current setup and next fall's program is that students, now partially integrated with Sausalito district pupils, will be completely integrated.

Trustees approved a report by the interdistrict committee headed by Henry Horowitz recommending that 30 pupils be sent from Mill Valley in fifth, seventh and eighth grades and 20 from sixth grade. This corresponds to the number being sent, on a volunteer basis, by bus now.

Four Mill Valley teachers, a half-time administrative assistant and a part-time clerk will accompany the Mill Valley contingent, Supt. G. W. McConnell reported. Mill Valley will pay a total of $8,200.

The board also adopted recommendations to encourage one-for-one exchanges of students in all grades throughout the regular year and during the forthcoming summer session, and continuing the interdistrict committee.

The Mill Valley School District also:

1. Selected Dr. J. Cecil Parker, director of the field service center, University of California, as educational consultant in connection with school district expansion plans.
2. Heard from a Parent-Teacher Assn. School study committee that enthusiasm among teachers, administrators and pupils is aroused by change and that the committee is "deeply ashamed" of poor physical facilities in Mill Valley, particularly at Edna Maguire school.
3. Adopted a fair employment practices clause to be inserted in all construction contracts.
4. Granted leave of absence for next school year to Karen L. Peterson and, for part of next school year to Mrs. Barnette Robinson.
5. Accepted resignations of teachers Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. F. C. Budds, Mrs. J. G. Eliot Jr., Mrs. E. J. Plocki and Sally Brush and hired teachers Joyce Blesi, Joan Rahm, Patricia Patterson, and Mary J. McKinley.

New trustee Joseph E. Bodovitz was seated for the first time.

Brown Thinks GOP Demand Can Be Met On His Budget

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The legislature's long budget deadlock crumbled today with Democratic Gov. Brown's offer to compromise on an Assembly Republican demand for a $63 million cut in state spending.

Brown's announcement came as Democrats brought his plan to balance the $4.62 billion budget without new taxes to an Assembly vote. Speaker Jesse M. Unruh predicted passage.

The governor, pushing California's longest election-year session since 1880 to a climax, said in a statement last night that he sees a good possibility of compromise on his budget of the lower house GOP delegation "will be as reasonable as we are prepared to be."

The 31 Republican assemblymen also had expressed willingness to settle the fight when their side called for the cuts.

So far, they've blockaded the budget, refusing to supply the five GOP votes needed for lower house passage of the record spending plan. The Assembly is 49-31 Democratic and it takes a two-thirds majority of 54 for approval of the money bill.

Some of the Republican economy demands, particularly the call for a $31 million cut in welfare spending, are "just differences in estimating the size of the caseload involved and it would be impossible to prove anyone is right or wrong at this time," Brown said.

"Certainly a compromise can be reached there, just aslong as both parties agree that no eligible case, whether blind, totally disabled, aged or on aid to needy children, can be denied," he said.

Assembly Speaker Jessie Unruh, (D-Inglewood) was confident of victory for the plan to avoid an election-year tax increase by changing the state's bookkeeping methods.

Under the plan, expected tax dollars would be counted as received before they reached the treasury — accrued, as the accountants say.

Unruh got behind the idea after revising it. He successfully fought for including advance counting of some $250 million in personal income tax.

Brown, who had resisted including personal income taxes at first, favored counting only about $423 million in sales, inheritance and other taxes. But he agreed to go along with Unruh to keep the bill moving.

As it now stands, some $493 million will be available to the Finance Department — with some $250 million going to balance the budget and the rest set aside for reducing the size of a state construction bond issue and other purposes.

McCarthy Averts Loss Of Revision Measure

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislators tried again today to deal with revising the State Constitution while at the same time raising their pay and pensions.

Attention shifted from the Senate, which almost, but not quite, brought itself to a vote yesterday,day over to the Assembly. The lower house prepared to vote on a bill that would raise legislative pay from its current $6,000 to $18,000 annually.

The same bill would clamp stiff conflict of interest rules on legislators and cut back on their lucrative mileage and pension benefits.

The pay raise for lawmakers can become a reality only if two things happen:

1. The constitutional revision amendment gets on the November ballot.

2. The voters approve it. That would bring the bill, which doesn't have to go on the ballot, into effect starting Jan. 1.

The argument is over which version of constitutional revision will make the ballot, if any.

The Assembly sent the Senate a measure incorporating much of the recommendations of a commission of leading citizens that worked two years on the matter.

It dealt not only with pay but with revisions in the judiciary and other matters, revising about a third of the document.

The Senate has cut into the bill so that it now has only three main effects:

—Setting up annual general legislative sessions of 166 days, as desired by all parties.

—Allowing the legislature to set its own pay on a two-thirds vote, also a wish of the commission and two houses.

—Letting a legislative commission call the legislature into special session, which only the governor now can do. This is the Senate's idea.

Yesterday, Senate Minority Leader John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, brought the upper house version up for a vote. But after three or four senators indicated they would vote no or had reservations and others were absent, he put the matter over for a day to let the Senate meet in private on its next move.

A two-thirds total of 27 votes is needed for passage, and with only 37 senators now in office, there is a small margin to work with.

McCarthy said the aim now is to get the different version to a two-house conference committee for compromise.

He was asked about a provision in the Senate measure — absent from the Assembly legislation — that would give current and past lawmakers higher pensions.

McCarthy admitted that in this form, the constitutional revision "would be defeated and defeated heavily" by voters.

But that could be handled in the conference, he added.

Opposition to the measure as changed by the Senate came from Sen. James Cobey, D-Merced, who said "in its present form this is almost completely a rejection of" the revision commission's work.

Bagley Raps Reagan View On Budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A supporter of George Christopher has denounced as "an insult to our intelligence" Ronald Reagan's call for $245 million in budget cuts.

Assemblyman William Bagley, R-San Rafael, said Reagan's proposal was "either deliberately phony or he does not know what he is talking about."

Christopher, former mayor of San Francisco, and actor-politician Reagan are both seeking the Republican nomination for governor.

Bagley noted yesterday the Assembly Republican caucus proposed cuts of $63.1 million in the budget. He said greater cuts could be made only if "constitutional provisions and statutes mandating certain expenditures" were changed first.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Vivacious Sue Stock, 19, Alabama's 37-24-36 contribution to the Miss Universe Beauty pageant, has definite ideas about the Beatle-hair fad among teen-age youths.

"I don't date boys with hair longer than mine," she said. "I want to see their faces."

Nightmare Drug Control Bill Changed

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Before assemblymen today was an administration-backed bill to control the hallucination producing drug LSD, toughened by an Assembly amendment.

On a 45-24 vote yesterday, the lower house made possession and use of the drug a criminal offense.

The previous lower house version of the controversial measure hadn't made that an offense, making it a crime only for illegal sale, transportation, possession for sale and sale to a minor.

Assemblyman Charles J. Conrad, R-Sherman Oaks, sponsored the amendment to extend the penalties with the backing of Democratic Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch.

Conrad said that without the amendment, "you will wipe out 90 per cent of law enforcement."

Leading opposition to the amendment was Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, who said that "5 to 10 per cent of college students are trying this thing."

Slum School Bill Has Assembly Approval

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislation to renovate slum schools and reduce the student-teacher ratio in poor school districts was before senators again today.

The bill by Sen. J. Eugene McAteer, D-San Francisco, was unanimously passed by the Assembly yesterday after a compromise amendment.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

No Preventive Vaccine Known For Stopping Venereal Disease

VAN DELLEN

The resurgence of venereal disease reminded me that there is no protective vaccine against infections such as syphilis and gonorrhea.

In all probability, research projects in this field were suspended when penicillin was discovered. The antibiotic also acts as a prophylactic when given within three to four hours after exposure.

IT IS DOUBTFUL whether a vaccine would be successful in preventing gonorrhea. After all, there is no evidence that the body builds up a defense mechanism against the disease is it does with measles or smallpox.

One attack does not confer everlasting immunity and a promiscuous person could have repeated bouts of the disease. To control gonorrhea with a vaccine as we now do with poliomyelitis is highly desirable but not too promising.

In the first decade after the discovery of penicillin, gonorrhea was easier to cure than the common cold. Drug resistance now is becoming a problem and it is estimated that a fourth of the different strains of gonococci are penicillin resistant. Some of these strains also are resistant to other antibiotics.

Women seldom are tested or treated for gonorrhea. The organisms are difficult to locate in women because they are not confined to one area as in men.

THE FEMALE gonorrhea victim does not feel any ill effects unless the tubes are involved. As a result women continue to be the main reservoir for the organisms and public health officials may be forced to concentrate on this source to bring the infection under control.

The body develops considerable immunity to syphilis but it takes time. Nowadays the disease is recognized early and treated so quickly that the body does not have a chance to develop protective antibodies. A recurrence usually represents a reinfection. The latter also accounts for the treatment failures that sometimes occur.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

CENTERED PAIN

A. H. writes: Could appendicitis cause pain in the center of the abdomen rather than on the right side?

REPLY

Yes, particularly in the early stages and when the organ is displaced toward the center. In a patient of mine with a gangrenous appendix, all the distress was on the left side yet inflammation was on the right. I would suggest an X-day study in the case you mention.

HYPERTENSION

M. K. writes: What causes high blood pressure?

REPLY

The causes vary but in the more common vascular type the blood vessels are narrowed owing to a contraction or spasm of the walls. This increases resistance against the flow of blood, and to overcome the handicap, pressure increases. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hypertension.

New Reed Superintendent Was To Have Been Pitcher

By WILLIAM F. ARNOLD

H. Joe Edgington, Reed School District's new superintendent, sought a baseball career until he hurt his pitching arm.

He pulled a tendon in his right elbow just before he was to try out with the Dodgers. "You hight have called me a thrower rather than a pitcher," he reminisced with an easy grin.

He decided to become a teacher and has taught in five school districts in two states since he graduated from Southwestern Missouri State College in 1950. "It sounds like I've been itinerant," he said with a slight drawl.

The 36-year-old Edgington ("everyone calls me Joe") arrived last week to prepare to relieve Edward C. Pino as Reed District superintendent on July 1. Pino has resigned to become superintendent of Cherry Creek School District near Denver, Colo.

For the last three years, Edgington was assistant superintendent of Pacific Grove Unified School District. Most of his career in education has been in southern California.

He was a junior high school biology teacher in Port Hueneme (Ventura County) and a junior high school principal in Bloomfield Elementary District (Los Angeles County) and in Newport Beach (Orange County).

He came to California in 1955 after three years of teaching high school in his native Missouri and two years of teaching college students "not much younger than I was" at his alma mater in a special program.

He became impressed with the Reed School District, he says, after a visit a few years ago, "But I didn't expect a job to open up then." When Pino's resignation became known, "It was the only position I applied for."

"Reed District offers everything I believe in education," said Edgington. To underscore his point he listed the interest of the community, the innovation in curriculum and the involvement of the teachers as impressive factors.

Edgington said he will continue such Reed programs as team teaching, placement of pupils by ability rather than by grades, and no report cards.

"What was holding us back in education was the lockstep advancement by grade because the child was one year older," he declared.

"Those who criticize innovation confuse it with experimentation. "You don't tamper with a child if you innovate. You focus on the individual."

Now staying with friends in Tiburon, he commutes to Monterey weekends to visit his wife, June, and his two daughters, Terri, 14, and Cindy, 6. He says he doesn't mind the driving because "after living in Los Angeles you become hardened to commuting."

Mrs. Edgington is a teacher in the Marina Elementary School District. "I hope she retires when we move up here this summer," Edgington said. They attended the same high school in Missouri but didn't meet until they got to college.

Edgington, who is writing a dissertation on the administration of special education programs, hopes to receive his Ed. D. degree from the University of Southern California this year. He has a master's degree in personnel administration from Los Angeles State College.

TV IN REVIEW

'Hill Country' Has Sensitive Pictures

By RICH DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —President Johnson last night guided, a one-hour NBC-TV tour of the central Texas hill country he calls home, and the result was an exceptional piece of genuine Americana.

The program, "The Hill Country: Lyndon Johnson's Texas," was not only of obvious historical interest, but fulfilled the function of legitimately enlightening the public mind about the sources that have partly shaped the President's outlook.

This would have been sufficient, but fortunately for the viewer—especially one with a color television set—the photography was immensely sensitive and beautiful in capturing the hard, basic yet lovely features of the Chief Executive's home country.

The nature shots, and those of the animals and weather, were often sheer visual poetry, yet always enhanced the overall porgram by relating importantly to the theme of the hour.

Likewise, the musical score by Glenn Paxton contributed heavily to the broadcast, and stayed as close to the land as does the President.

With this program, Mr. Johnson thus joined the First Lady in being a highly proficient guide of a video tour this season. Not long ago, Mrs. Johnson had her own one-hour documentary, her ABC-TV visit to Washington "On Behalf of a More Beautiful America."

The President's program was excellently conceived, taking the shape of a conversatioal tour with reporter Ray Scherer, blended with stops at landmarks of his life, and talks with persons he has known.

The natural, off-the-cuff talking approach, played off a veteran reporter with whom he seemd distinctly at ease, was the perfect choice for Mr. Johnson.

As with the late President Kennedy—who was at his best on television in an off-the-cuff chat with three reporters in an hour special—President Johnson was more at ease conversationally than in a formal statement.

The program was so worthwhile, in fact, that one wonders why it was not put on earlier, for youngsters to see as well—rather than airing at 10-11 p.m., EDT. When it is rerun, this should certainly be taken into consideration.

Gary R. Benedetti, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reno Benedetti, 55 Corte Alta, Novato, enlisted in the Navy's "Join Now, Go Later" program and will have a 120-day delay before reporting for recruit training at San Diego.

Leslie R. Wood, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Wood, 667 Orange Avenue, Novato, who enlisted Jan. 6 under provisions of the 120-day delay prorgram, started recruit training at San Diego last week.

Mrs. Dollahite To Parks Group

Fairfax Mayor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., with the city council concurring, last night appointed Mrs. Dolores Dollahite to the city park and recreation commission.

Mrs. Dollahite will fill the unexpired term of former commissioner Frank J. Egger, who was elected to the council last month.

Before appointing Mrs. Dollahite, Arrigoni said no one had requested to serve on the commission.

Freshman, Soph Cut Query Set

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Senate has requested that a study be made into the possibility of eliminating freshman and sophomore classes on some University of California campuses.

Miller's resolution, adopted Monday, asks the Coordinating versity of California campuses.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, said he had in mind, for example, the elimination of such classes on the big Berkeley campus.

Miller's resolution, adopted yesterday, asks the Coordinating Council for Higher Education to submit the study to the 1967 legislature.

Frogs Will Jump At Albert Field

The last Marin frog jumping contest preliminary to the Jumping Frog Jubilee in Angels Camp May 19-22 will be Sunday at 1 p.m. at Albert Field.

The frog jump will be held as a fund raising event for the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum. A pet show will precede the frog jump at 11 a.m.

Senate Requests Safe Sign Study

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Senate resolution asks the state to find out if Texas road signs are safer than California's because they collapse when hit by a vehicle.

The upper house approved the resolution for the study yesterday, noting Texas' new road signs have special joints allowing them to fall apart when struck.

Safety experts say this cuts the rate of injuries and deaths in such accidents.

M&M Strike Again! Yanks Come Alive

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The M & M boys strike again.

It had been a while — nearly a year — BUT Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris finally left their Mark on an opponent last night as the new New York Yankees edged Minnesota 3-2 for their third straight victory since Ralph Houk began his second reign as manger.

Mantle hit his first home run of the season and Maris recorded his second, marking the first time since June 18, 1965, that they had connected in the same game.

The Yankee outfielders gained the label of M&M because of their torrid homer hitting that made them baseball's most awesome twosome in the first half of this decade and powered the Yankees to five consecutive American League pennants.

Last year, however, injuries reduced their effectiveness to where they combined for only 27 homers and connected in the same game only twice.

It was his poor performance in 1965 and his weak start this season that Mantle referred to Saturday night when he talked privately to Johnny Keane after the Yankees fired him and renamed Houk as manager.

"I just told him that I was ashamed to look him in the face," Mantle said, "because since he came here he was the only man I played for that I felt I let down in baseball.

"I really feel like I let him down. I didn't do anything while he was here, and most of the ball club didn't. I still think we have a good ball club and hope we do well. I'm just sorry that if we start going good, he's not here with us."

The Yankees are going well compared with the first 20 games of the season when they won only four times. Mantle, in particular, is going well.

While he drove in only one run in the first 18 games he played, he now has knocked in five of the 11 the Yankees have scored in their three-game winning streak.

Elsewhere in the American League, California outslugged Washington 10-7 and Kansas City whipped Boston 6-1. Cincinnati defeated Atlanta 7-4 in the only National League game. Cold weather stopped St. Louis at Chicago, rain washed out Los Angeles at Philadelphia and snow stopped San Francisco at Pittsburgh.

Mantle's homer was a 370-foot drive in the fourth inning while Maris' 410-foot blow in the seventh was the 250th of his career and tied the game 2-2. Joe Pepitone then won it for Mel Stottlemyre when he led off the ninth with a homer against Al Worthington.

Bob Rodgers and ed Kirkpatrick each drove in three runs with a triple and a homer as the Angels made full use of their eight hits. The Senators, who had 14 hits, contributed eight walks to California's attack.

The Athletics rode a four-run fourth inning to their victory. Manny Jimenez tripled in one run and scored on a wild pitch by Boston's Pete Magrini. Jim Lonborg later came on and wild pitched another run across.

Two-run homers by Pete Rose and Art Shamsky in the third inning carried Cincinnati past Atlanta. Rose had four hits in all while Shamsky also singled and scored in the first on a single by Leo Cardenas. Denis Menke and Ed Mathews homered for the Braves.

S.F. INCLUDED IN NEW PRO SOCCER CIRCUIT

NEW YORK (AP) — Plans were announced today for a major professional soccer league involving 11 leading U. S. cities, including San Francisco, to begin play in the fall of 1967.

Robert R. Hermann of St. Louis, president of the North American Professional Soccer League, listed the 11 cities and their projected playing sites as:

San Francisco (Kezar Stadium), Atlanta (Braves Field), Los Angeles (Coliseum), New Orleans (Sugar Bowl), New York (Shea Stadium or Randall's Island), Philadelphia (Temple or University of Pennsylvania's Franklin Field), St. Louis (Busch Memorial Stadium), San Diego (Westgate), Hartford (new stadium to be built) and Boston (undecided).

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

By JIM GILMARTIN
I-J Sports Editor

Aces Look Easy At New Course; Little Leaguer's Big Inning

FLASH: Word just in from Chicago that Cubs' first baseman-outfielder John Boccabella, Marin's only major leaguer, may be out of action for as long as six weeks with the dislocated elbow he suffered last Friday night.

The San Anselman had his left wing placed in a cast and the team doctor informed him his inactivity may last longer than originally expected. Boc, who resides in a Chicago apartment with his wife, said he'll remain with the team and will start working out in a week or so to keep in shape.

IT REALLY isn't easy to score a hole-in-one at San Geronimo National Golf Course—it just seems that way.

During the past week three golfers scored aces at Marin's newest course—San Rafael attorney Jack Blaine, Sausalitan Jack Tappendorff and 11-year-old Danny McHugh of Fairfax.

That brought to five the number of aces registered at San Geronimo since the course opened last fall—two on the 222-yard No. 6 hole, two on No. 16 and one on No. 4.

Incidentally, pro Tom McHugh, Danny's dad, is a tough guy to convince. When Danny gushed out the news that he scored his ace Sunday while playing alone, pop wouldn't buy the story. "No witnesses, no hole-in-one- award," frowned the senior McHugh.

Just then two members of the club—John Morse and Jim Peggs—came by and said they had witnessed the youngster's great shot.

ANOTHER YOUNG Marin boy enjoyed quite an athletic achievement over the weekend. He is Kevin Brink of the Realtors team in the Mill Valley National Little League.

In a 24-6 victory over the Giants team over the weekend, Brink had four hits, and eight runs batted in.

But what makes the performance even greater was that in one inning Kevin cracked two homers—with the bases loaded and the other with two men on—for seven RBIs. In one inning, yet!

Kevin's father is auto dealer Larry Brink, the former All-Pro end for the L.A. Rams.

WHEN CATCHER John Komo of Marin Catholic homered to beat Drake 4-2 last Friday it was the parochial school team's first four-bagger in 20 games this year. It couldn't have come at a more opportune time, either, because it pushed the Wildcats right back into the thick of the Marin Athletic League pennant race.

FRED ARNOLD, College of Marin's fine basketball star, has signed a letter of intent to enroll at Kansas State University next September.

SICK LIST: Fred Hines, San Rafael's long time tennis coach and P.E. instructor, recuperating from heart trouble. His many friends and admirers wish him a speedy recovery.

LARRY McARDALL, principal of MacPhail School in Santa Venetia, won the California Elementary School Administrators Assn. low gross (78) golf trophy at a recent convention in Los Angeles.

Sadecki Expects Big Year

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Rain and a little snow came to Pittsburgh yesterday to wipe out the San Francisco Giants' shot at a ninth straight win. If the wild weather lets up, Bob Bolin (3-2) will hurl tonight against Steve Blass (2-0) of the second-place Bucs, who trail the Giants by 2½ games.

Meanwhile, the bespectacled southpaw Ray Sadecki, obtained from St. Louis in Sunday's big trade for Orlando Cepeda, arrived in Pittsburgh and said, "I'm ready to pitch." He said he had heard roumors of the trade, but said in baseball "you never believe rumor until it becomes a fact."

Sadecki was 20-11 in 1964 and skidded to 6-15 last year. But his solid 5-1 win at Candlestick Park this year and his 2-1 record convinced the Giants he was ready to pitch back to his 1964 style.

Sadecki agreed. He pointed out that he is a traditionally slow starter, even losing his first four decisions in 1964. This year, he feels, he can be a winner all the way especially with the Giants, whom he termed "a solid club. I'm glad to be here."

RAY OPTIMISTIC

Sadecki said he has always pitched well in Candlestick Park, which is another reason he is optimistic.

In St. Louis, meanwhile, former Cardinal pitching ace Dizzy Dean voiced the hopes of most of the Giant fans when he said that the trade will give the National League pennant to San Francisco.

Dean said that the Giants needed to improve their pitching staff and had done exactly that with the Cepeda-Sadecki swap. He predicted the hard-throwing lefty would be among the league's top five pitchers at the end of the year.

Yesterday Giant-Pirate rainout will be played as part of a July 17 twin bill. How the Giants do in Forbes Field could be a key to their pennant hopes since they won only once there last season and then fell just short of the flag.

Orlando Is Happy To Play Regularly

CHICAGO (AP)—Orlando Cepeda, one of the season's biggest trade baits, finally has been nipped off

At first, the 28-year-old slugger, who swatted 226 homers for the San Francisco Giants, was bitter about being sent to the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday for left-handed pitcher Ray Sadecki. But he was expected to be on first base for the Cardinals today in their game with the Chicago Cubs.

His start was delayed when cold weather postponed yesterday's contest.

Cepeda said Herman Franks, Giants' manager, "wanted to trade me badly," especially after he had knee surgery in 1964.

"Franks told me to show what I could do when I came to spring training this year in good shape and anxious to work," said Cepeda. "I played in 1955 for Franks as a rookie, and now he wanted me to prove myself.

"I realized that Willie McCovey or I had to go eventually. Franks said McCovey was a better first baseman than me and that's that."

The Giants said they traded Cepeda because they needed a left-handed pitcher and they had a duplication at first base with McCovey there.

Cepeda, amonth ago, nearly came to the Cubs in a deal that would have sent southpaw hurler Dick Ellsworth to the Giants.

"Cepeda then wasn't available to us on the terms the Cardinals obtained him," said Cub Vice President John Holland. "Horace Stoneham (Giants' owner) just would not part with him at that time. But now somebody convinced Stoneham that all the Giants need to win the pennant is a top rated starting left-handed pitcher. And I guess they got him in Sadecki."

Franks said in Pittsburgh that he rates Cepeda "a fine ball player and a good first baseman . . . and I think he will help the Cardinals tremendously."

Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst was elated with the trade.

"We will be right back in the first division fight now," he said, "Cepeda will give us the muscle we need in that No. 4 spot. We've been getting our share of hits, but we just haven't been able to muster that timely hit in the middle of the batting order."

Cepeda said today that he liked the trade.

"It is a good break for me," he said. "No longer will I have to look at the line-up every day to see if I'm playing or bench riding. First base is my favorite spot and thats where the Cardinals say they will play me. That's another thing I like about the deal. I have a set position.

"My knee is getting stronger each day and the hot weather in St. Louis will be another good break for me. At first I was bitter about the deal and it took some time to realize I no longer was a Giant, the only team I ever played with. But now I feel good and confident and maybe everything will be for the best."

New Coach For Bruins

BOSTON (AP) — Harry Sinden, player coach at Oklahoma City the past season, was named coach of the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey Lesague today.

Sinden was chosen to succeed Milt Schmidt, who resigned to devote full time to his duties as Bruins assistant general manager.

The 34-year-old Sinden will be the youngest coach in the NHL.

Working as a defenseman and coach, Sinden led the inexperienced Oklahoma City team to a second place finish in the Central League. The Okies won the playoffs with eight straight victories after an opening game defeat.

BRITONS TIP HATS
Clay A Gentleman

LONDON (AP) — It's Cass without the gas, or Gentleman Clay — and Londoners are raising their hats to the new-look champ.

Cassius Clay hasn't been invited to Buckingham Palace yet.

But he will be meeting Prime Minister Harold Wilson for a chat at the House of Commons before his May 21 heavyweight title fight with Britain's Henry Cooper.

Clay flew into London Monday and was so polite, modest and gentlemanly he had photographers biting their lips with frustration.

"Hey, Cassius, can you just put your hand up like this?" shouted a camerman, displaying four fingers.

"Nope, you'll say I'm making a prediction," countered Clay.

Then he popped into a black Rolls-Royce with British promoter Harry Levene and drove to his London hotel where a bobby had to help him through the waiting crowd.

Clay was tired after his flight from Miami, Fla., via New York, which was delayed for four hours by fog. He starts training today.

"I just want to sleep. But you can be sure I will take no chances against Cooper this time. Man, I learned a lesson," Clay said.

Cooper dropped Clay with a good left hook in their previous fight — a non-title affair in London in 1963. Clay came back and stopped Cooper with a cut eye in the fifth round.

Clay and his manager, Angelo Dundee, angrily denied suggestions that Clay's right glove was slashed to gain extra time between rounds in that fight, as a London columnist recently suggested.

"Let's face it, Cooper caught me with a good punch. I was wobbling on the way back to the corner. But to say anyone used a razor on my right glove to give me time to recover is nonsense," Clay said.

"I spotted the split in the glove as soon as we got him back to the corner," said Dundee. "I called over the Referee and told him what had happened. There wasn't another glove around and we carried on."

Of the coming outdoor fight Dundee said:

"The champ was a kid when he came here three years ago. He is older and more confident now.

"But he knows Cooper could be a tougher task than George Chuvalo. Cooper's a fighter who can take you with one shot."

Clay was a guest of honor at a club boxing tournament at a London hotel last night.

He told the black tie audience:

"I am very pleased for you to accept me in such a time of crisis as I am going through. You have treated me so nicely. I am hoping to stay in London for a few days after the fight."

Inman Quits San Jose Cage Post

SAN JOSE, AP — Stu Inman, 39, has resigned as head basketball coach at San Jose State after six years on the job.

Inman will become the Northern California representative for the Converse Rubber Co., makers of tennis and basketball shoes. First he'll take the San Jose squad on a 20-game tour of Australia and New Zealand, beginning June 10.

The school said yesterday that a new coach will be named within a few days. The resignation is effective Aug. 1

Inman piloted the Spartans to an 11-13 record last year and was 77-68 for six years.

He holds the three and four-year scoring records at San Jose. Inman played from 1947 through 1950. He returned as an assistant coach from 1957 through 1960 under Walt McPherson, now head of the school's physical education department and commission of the West Coast Athletic Conference to which the Spartans belong.

Gen. Sherman's Horse Might Have Won Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE — Fifteen horses, most of whom should get into some honest line of work, and hardly any of whom could corner a flatfooted cop in a desert, ran indifferently around Churchill Downs' famous race track Saturday.

It was less of a race than a canter. I have seen things try harder on the Griffith Park bridle path. You'd think if they were shopping for a price, they'd pick some place besides the Kentucky Derby for it.

KAUAI KING won it—it says here. But he'd get more of a contest from the statue of Gen. Sherman in the park. The other horses acted as if he had a communicable disease. I have seen kids move faster going to their Saturday night baths.

A KID from Kentucky, who learned his riding in the bull rings of the Middle West, won the first Kentucky Derby he ever saw. He's now one-for-one in this race and it's pretty hard to improve on that. Of course, he's had 1,000 rides around this pile of rocks and he might have won this thing side-saddle. Some of the other boys either had the kind of mounts that won't even make good glue under them, or they got their riding styles from old movies of Sabu.

YOU'RE NOT supposed to be able to "steal" a Kentucky Derby. It's kind of like stealing an elephant in broad daylight. But Don Brumfield put together the most larcenous ride in the history of this venerable old hunk of rotting timber.

THEY FINALLY got a field as ramshackle as the track, but even at that you can't beat a horse if all you do is wave goodbye to him at the gate. They weren't even close enough to throw confetti at him. He went down the backstretch so slowly I thought this race was going to slop over into June. I was going to call the hotel and get the room for another three weeks. When the other horses finally woke up to the fact they were in a race and not a king's funeral, Kauai King still had enough left to get home without staggering.

THEY GAVE one horse his own gate—Beau Sub—and he remained a recluse the rest of the afternoon. Abe's Hope is still the best horse ever bred in Illinois, but that's not saying as much as you might think. He ran like a guy going to the electric chair. I thought Bill Shoemaker was going to have to get off and push. Bill Harmatz was on a no-chance old plodder named Dominar and he not only finished last, he finished so far back he didn't even make the money in the next race.

THE CALIFORNIA horses showed once again they couldn't go a mile-and-a-quarter on the back of a truck. The post parade is about all the exertion they can be counted on for. Tragniew is "Weingart" spelled backwards, but he's slow any way you spell it. Weingart should get out an injunction against using the letters of his name in anyway.

THE WINNER cost Michael Ford $42,000, which he makes out of a saloon, grain door and steel business in Omaha. He is now ahead of the game which makes it look like an easy game to beat—an attitude which could fool you. Abe's Hope cost $7,500, and his interest may get in touch with the Better Business Bureau any day now.

The names of the horses who finished second and third don't matter because Man O'War's record is safe for them. "Stupendous" should be renamed "Stupidity."

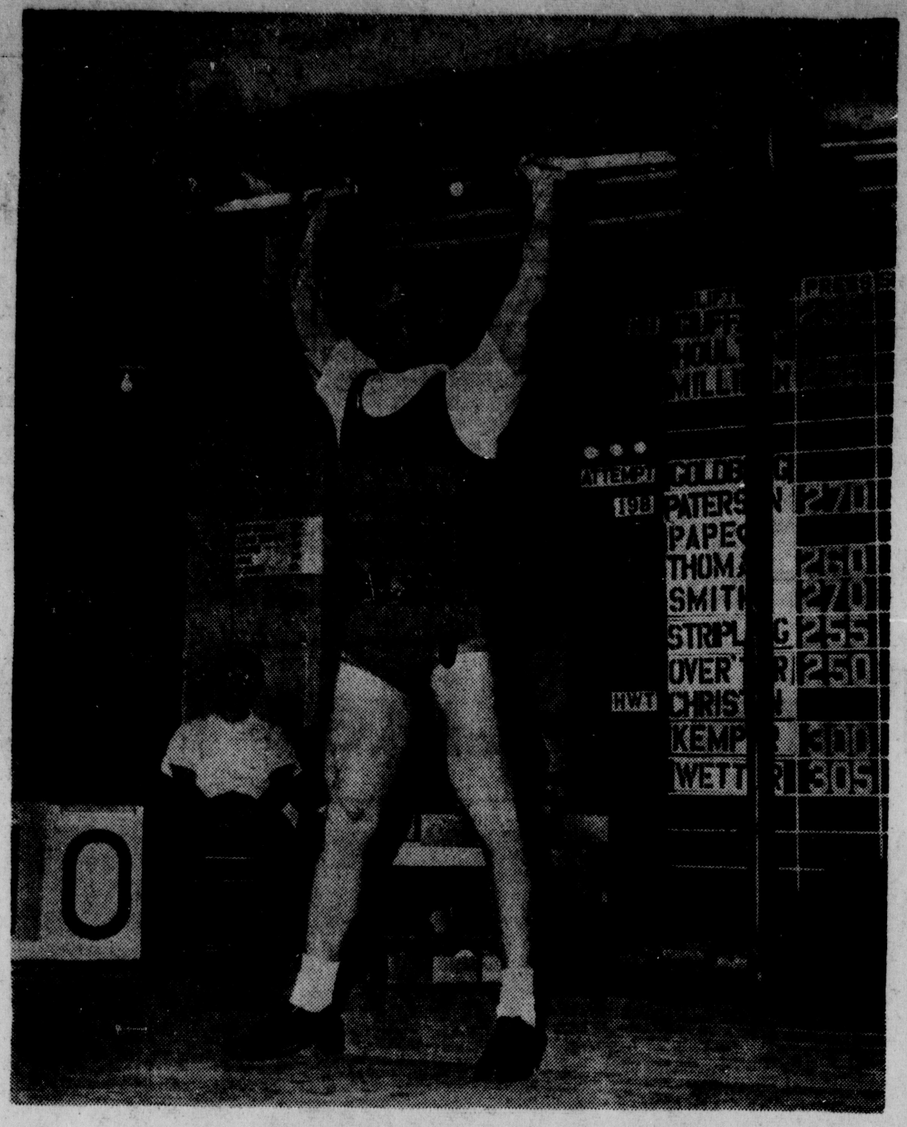
WELL, NOW they can throw the grass out of the drinks and put olives in them again and Bardstown Road can get ready for nice, sleepy summer. We can all dry out eyes from the playing of "My Old Kentucky Home." Stephen Foster would have to change the lyrics if he could have seen his Kentuckians chunk it in. By and by hard times may come a-knocking at the door, but not this week, babe. They let go of $2,127,000 for two minutes and two seconds of horse racing. They put $5 million through the windows altogether.

I don't know whether Kauai King is a Triple Crown winner or whether he won't even win three more races of any kind the rest of his career. But I'll tell you one thing—he's not going to lose many if they just have a race of their own back in the caboose and let him do a Garbo on the front end.

NEXT YEAR, I'm going to reach in a Caliente claimer and get a plug and ship him out here. If they're going to run that kind of nice-Nelly race I'm just going to give the jockey a clock and tell him to take the short way home. They told us Amberoid was a slow beginner, but they didn't tell us he didn't improve any as he went along. I think you could win this thing with Barney Google's horse—hobbled.

Kauai King's winning this thing is like getting the heavyweight championship by mail. He didn't have to fight much for it. He didn't win the race, he inherited it.

AS FOR the Fords—why they are fine broth of people from a darlin' little county in the old country called Sligo. Some of our finest people come from there. That's because hardly anybody stays there. Or so my grandfather told me. And the horse has the fine Gaelic name of "Kauai King" so I suppose he gets orchids with his breakfast from now on.



FRANK HOLTON IN ACTION

San Anselmo's 16-year-old Frank Holton is shown pressing 310 pounds, a world's junior record, at the 1966 California State Weightlifting Championships in Los Angeles. Holton, who weighs 180 pounds, is surpassing the marks of the heavyweights, as you can see on the right. Holton will put on a weightlifting demonstration at 3 p.m. at the Marin Car and Boat Show to be held at Drake High School on Sunday, May 23. The show is being put on by the Drake Scholarship Foundation.

Minor Leaguers To Play At Candlestick

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Candlestick Park will have its first major-minor league baseball doubleheader May 29 when the San Francisco Giants meet the Philadelphia Phillies in the opener followed by the Fresno Giants and the San Jose Bees.

Fresno is affiliated with the Giants and the Bees are part of the California Angels' farm system. Both are California League members.

The scheduling will shift the Giants' game from 1 p.m. to noon.

Fred Daniele Leads Marin In Hitting

Terra Linda High School shortstop Fred Daniele leads the Marin Athletic League in just about every hitting category.

He's the top hitter (.444), the ruuns batted in leader (12), home run king (2) and is tied for the lead in triples with 2. He's only one behind teammate John Clifford in runs scored, Clifford with 8 and Daniele 7.

No. 2 man in league hitting is first baseman Steve Congdon of Terra Linda at .412. That 1-2 punch is a good reason the Trojans lead the league in team hitting, .260.

Redwood's Mike Terry (2-0) has the best pitching percentage, while Tamalpais hurler Ron Gilliam has the most wins, 4, against 1 loss. Marin Catholic's Ben Burch leads in strikeouts with 42.

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
I-J Fish and Game Writer

Salmon, Striper Fishing Still In Doldrums; Evening Trolling Soon

STEVENS

Trout fishing reports are where you find 'em. For example: Bob Libby, affable keeper of bottles and smokes, just returned from a trip to the North Fork of the Yuba between Downieville and Sierra City and rated fishing A-okay.

Bob and his buddy, Jerry Baane, used helgramites to take limits of rainbows in quick order on their first day of fishing.

Local fishing for salmon and stripers remains fast in the doldrums. High winds and rough water kept many of the boats in the harbor over the weekend. The Lancer, out of Lee Anderson's Oakland bait and tackle shop, braved the elements and netted six salmon on Saturday. And shifting from the usual salmon trolling to bait-fishing for rockfish, the good ship Privateer No. 2 boated 22 limits of assorted rockfish.

ANSWERING SEVERAL requests for the lowdown on action of the Golden Hinde boatery at Inverness: according to Davis Campbell the action has slowed down considerably. It takes knowhow to pick the right lure and the right locale to connect. Like old timer George Smith, who rows his own skiff and manages to take fish consistantly. And, too, the knowhow of George Thompson and Marty Nedin paid off in Tomales Bay. Thompson weighed in a nice 24-pounder and Nedin a 22-pounder recently.

Any of my readers having a yen to try the waters out of the Golden Hinde should make a phone call to Campbell or Carlton at the Golden Hinde to get the current picture.

HISTORICALLY, AT this time of the year when we have a series of minus tides, the lower S. F. Bay comes to life, but so far no exciting reports have come in. The area to the north, primarily the San Pablo Bay, as well as the Napa River and the Carquinez Strait area, yield to late p.m. trolling. From Dowrelio's Crockett Harbor spot the word is out that the late evening trolling (from around 4 p.m. to sundown) will begin Saturday.

Carl Bennett of the Rodeo Marina will open the late trolling this week also.

THE LATE TROLLING for stripers is rather unique in that an angler can leave his home or place of business around 3:30 or 4 p.m., drive to Rodeo or Crockett, board the boat on which he has reserved a seat, troll 'til the sun sets and be back home for a late supper—very often with a limit of fresh run striped bass in the back of his car.

Strong winds have hampered the efforts of back country angling to a large extent, but enough fish have been caught to warrant an optimistic view of the action to come when the winds die down.

HAVE YOU signed a petition to cancel the experimental regulations allowing the commercial fishermen to take thousands of tons of anchovies to be ground up into fertilizer? Or, perchance, you have decided to let the other fellow do it, your name is not necessary? Believe me, fellows, you can't afford to "let the other fellow do it." If sufficient names are not accumulated to allow the measure to be voted upon, you may be mighty sorry. With no sardines off our shore, we must have anchovies to use as bait, so get your name on a petition!

Ex-Packer Signs With Atlanta '11'

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons announced today that Dan Grimm, a 245-pound guard, formerly with Green Bay, has signed a 1966 Atlanta contract.

The fledgling Falcons of the National Football League acquired Grimm in February's expansion draft. The 25-year-old lineman starred at the University of Colorado and was the Packers' fifth round draft choice in 1963.

Mays Faces A Long And Lonely Chase

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—The next home run Willie Mays hits will leave him ONLY 200 short of Babe Ruth's record of 714. If Willie, now 35, stays healthy and hits 40 a year until he is 40, he should make it by 1971.

Ted Williams' mark of 521 is sure to go in a few weeks. Jimmy Foxx, runner-up to Ruth with 534, should be passed by Labor Day.

And then there is that long, lonely road ahead.

Looking back through the records of Mays' 513 homers, dating back to No. 1 off Warren Spahn, May 28, 1951, it is interesting to note that Spahn, no longer in the majors, has been the chief victim.

Spahnie, now retired to his Oklahoma ranch of thinking of making a comeback in the minors, has given up 18 of Mays' homers. Of course, there are extenuating circumstances.

Spahn and Mays go back a long way together to the days when the Braves still were in Boston and the Giants played in the Polo Grounds. In 14 years, the 18 homers average out to only a bit more than one a season.

Vern Law, now on Pittsburgh's disabled list, is another favorite target of Mays. He hit 15 off the Deacon and 12 each off Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Lew Burdette, now of the California Angels.

Harvey Haddix, Johnny Podres and Bob Buhl each gave up 10.

Mays has hit only six off Sandy Koufax and only four off Robin Roberts, counting No. 5 of this season's total of eight.

The long list contains such names as Howie Pollet, Dutch Leonard, Kenny Raffensberger, Don Newcombe, Ralph Branca, Clem Labine and Warren Hacker, whose names no longer ring a bell with the younger generation.

Other paid up members of the now unknown club include Willie the Knuck Ramsdell, George Estock, Laurin Pepper, Corky Valentine and Bubba Church.

If Willie does hit 50 this year, he will be the second man to do it twice in a row. The other was the Babe in 1920-21 and 1927-28.

DODGER DEAL

Podres Excited To Join Detroit Club

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Veteran left-hander Johnny Podres of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who has been a National League pitcher for his entire 13-year major league career, is excited over the prospects of moving into the American League.

And one big reason is that he will be rejoining Detroit Tiger Manager Charley Dressen, whom Podres broke in under as a rookie with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Dodgers announced yesterday they had traded Podres to the Tigers for an unnamed player and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Podres has never played for any team but the Dodgers; first in Brooklyn and later in Los Angeles.

"I'm happy to be going with Charley Dressen," Podres said yesterday while the Dodgers were getting set for a series with Philadelphia.

"I've been with him before and he's one of the greatest managers I've ever played for," he said.

In Detroit, Dressen said he plans to get good mileage out of the 33-year-old pitcher.

"I might use him in the bullpen or I might use him as a spot starter," Dressen said. "I'll just have t wait and see how he throws."

Podres has pitched only 1 2-3 innings so far this season. In 27 games last year, he won seven and lost six with an earned run average of 3.43.

Podres has won 136 and lost 104 games lifetime with an earned run average of 3.63. He spent one year on the sidelines nursing a sore arm. He says it feels fine now.

"I threw the ball good all spring. It feels good now, but you get out of shape pitching only 1 2-3 innings in a month," he said.

Eckert To Visit Candlestick Park

SAN FRANCISCO (AP — Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert will visit Candlestick Park Saturday, May 21, the day the San Francisco Giants pay tribute to Frank (Lefty) O'Doul.

"It will be a particular pleasure to participate in this tribute to Frank O'Doul," said Eckert, who'll be paying his first visit to the Giants' home park.

O'Doul won the National League batting championship in 1929 and 1932. he helped coach San Francisco batters after the Giants moved from New York. O'Doul was a highly succesful manager of the Pacific Coast League San Francisco Seals before that.

FIGURING THE MAJORS

Matty Hottest Alou Boy; Al Dark A's Powerless

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Figuring The Majors:

MOTTY ALOU of Pittsburgh, the least publicized of the Alous, is leading his brothers in batting with a .333 average. Felipe Alou of Atlanta has a .300 mark while Jesus of San Francisco is at .213. The Pirates obtained Matty from the Giants last winter.

AL DARK, the new Kansas City manager, must be wondering what he has to do to get his players to hit one out of the park. In their first 20 games through Sunday, the last-place Athletics had a total of only one homer. It was hit by Larry Stahl, a pinch hitter, on April 28.

JIM LEFEBVRE of the Los Angeles Dodgers is considerably ahead of his home run pace of 1965 when he was named the National League's rookie-of-the-year. He had eight homers in his first 25 games this year. Last season, Lefebvre did not hit homer No. 8 until his 106th game on Aug. 5. He finished with 12.

LONG BASEBALL games are still considerably more frequent than short ones. Only eight games this season have been completed in less than two hours compared with 29 that have taken more than three hours to finish.

ED KRANEPOOL, the New York Mets' first baseman, has gone hitless in his last 24 times at bat covering eight gamtes. His batting average has dwindled from .303 to .175.

SONNY JACKSON, Houston's rookie shortstop, may threaten the National League stolen base supremacy of the Dodgers' Maury Wills. The latter, who has led the N.L. in each of the past six years, has eight steals this season. Jackson is the pacesetter with 11.

IN THEIR first 12 home dates through Sunday, the California Angels reached almost 50 per cent of their entire 1965 attendance in Chavez Ravine. Including the three-game weekend series with the Yankees which drew 100,801 in Anaheim Stadium, the Angels had attracted 270,161. Last year their final total was 566,727.

CINCINNATI'S Sammy Ellis, a 22-game winner in 1965, is likely to have a tough time catching up this year. His current record is 1-4. Last year, he did not lose his fourth game until July 11 by which time he had already been credited with 12 victories.

THE YANKEES are still the American League's best drawn on the road. They've played before 194,378, an average of 24,300, in eight road dates. At home, the Yanks' attendance for 12 dates is 144,345 for an average of only 12,000.

Henry Bormolini Branches Out Into Yet Another Business Idea

The many business activities of Henry Bormolini in Novato are about to become still more diversified and intensive.

He's a principal in the Louis Bormolini and Sons construction firm in Novato; teamed with Raymond H. Anderson in Bormolini-Anderson Co., Novato (heavy construction); aligned with John Velcich of San Rafael in Central States Concrete Pipe Co., Novato and Concord—and now Bormolini and Velcich are embarking on a new project to build manhole covers.

Name will be Western Manhole, Inc. and they have picked a plant site in Napa for easier accessibility to the North Bay hinterland and also Contra Costa County points.

TWICE I'VE BEEN credited with writing in this column that H. Koch and Sons, Corte Madera, has been sold.

I didn't, and it hasn't—quite. The article was in a recent issue of the Wall Street Journal, but in Corte Madera the deal is reported unconsummated. Negotiations are pending between the luggage firm and Gulf and Western Industries of Houston, auto parts distributor, and are said to be up in eight figures. The company also recently acquired New Jersey Zinc.

ROYCE FINANCE PLAN, San Rafael, is expanding into the credit card field. Marin residents will be able to charge local purchases to their Royce accounts for a single monthly billing. Should start soon.

Miss Eva Straube, who started with this firm when it opened for business five pears ago, has advanced to secretary of the corporation. She is in charge of office accounting and is a notary public.

New on the staff is Raymond M. Simmons, formerly in real estate, personal and automobile loans.

Royce has also been expanding its activities in the second mortgage field.

PETER T. WOLF, new arrival in San Rafael, has been appointed a copywriter for Hoefer, Dieterich and Brown, Inc. He was formerly creative director for the S. P. Wright Co., Springfield, Ill., and for the Peter T. Wolf and Associates Advertising Agency, Longview, Texas.

ROBERT O. SOMMARS of San Rafael has been appointed commercial and industrial manager at San Francisco Real Estate Co., active in the development, sale and financing of shopping centers, hospitals, industrial parks, hotels and offices in Northern California. Medicare Arrival Means Insurance Plan Changes

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Many insurance companies are girding for the July 1 advent of Medicare. It can affect their business in three ways:

First, health and hospitalization policies now in effect for at least 10 million Americans over 65 will lose much of their appeal and are now in process of being updated. Involved is a total of a billion dollars a year in premiums.

Second, new supplementary policies to cover costs that Medicare doesn't are being offered by a number of insurance companies, both to the elderly now covered privately and those who aren't but whose interest is aroused by the advent of medicare.

Third, at least 16 insurance companies and 32 Blue Shield plans will become contractors to the government in the operation of Medicare. They will determine reasonable doctor charges and pay these fees under the rules laid out by the Social Security Administration under the second part of Medicare—Plan B.

Plan A plan covers hospitalization. Plan B —to which the elderly must contribute $3 a month — reimburses them for many medical expenses, not included in Plan A.

After the insurance companies pay the doctors, hospitals, and others, they will collect from the Social Security Administration.

In addition, the 76 Blue Cross-Blue Shield operations in the nation, with 5.7 million subscribers, will offer some medicare supplements, both in and out of the hospitals.

Although most insurance companies with existing hospital and health policies are preparing new plans after medicare starts, some will push them hard while others will not. The latter will let present subscribers take the modified policies but won't go after new business.

Pushing for new sales to supplement medicare, which covers most but not all medical expenses, will be such companies as Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, Aetna Life and Casualty, Continental Casualty. The more passive approach will be taken by Bankers Life and Casualty, Metropolitan Life Insurance, and Mutual of Omaha. Some others are expected to get out of the field altogether as likely to be unprofitable after the government steps in.

Tidewater Sale To Phillips Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tidewater Oil should complete by June 30 its $309 million sale of its western marketing and refining facilities to Phillips Petroleum, says Tidewater president George F. Getty II.

Getty said yesterday the sale, announced March 29, was approved by company directors because Tidewater could not expand its assets and make capital expenditures at the same time.

The sale includes service stations in California, Oregon, Washington and Hawaii, the company's Los Angeles office building, a San Francisco refinery and several transportation terminals.

Wall Street Closes With Sharp Rebound

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed sharply higher today, interrupting a long string of declines. Trading was heavy.

It was the first all-out recovery drive in the past couple of weeks that ended with a substantial gain on average, one of the best this year.

The market rose from the start, reached a peak around mid-session, weathered some profit taking which cut many gains, then started on the upbeat again in the final hour.

Here was the picture toward the close:

Volume for the day was estimated at 9.5 million shares compared with 9.3 million yesterday.

The high-flying glamor stocks, pounded down unmercifully in the past two weeks of selling, recovered 1 to 5 points.

A wide spectrum of blue chips in most of the important groups moved higher as "bargain hunters" bought stock at relatively cheap prices.

Brokers called it "a technical recovery from an oversold condition."

IBM, Xerox, Eastern Air Lines and Teledyne were up about 5, Zenith, Polaroid and Delta Airlines 4, Admiral, Magnavox, Cincinnati Milling, Douglas Aircraft and Boeing 3 each.

Anaconda climbed almost 4. Motorola, Pan American World Airways, Continental Airlines and Hess Oil 2 apiece.

General Motors recovered a full point form its recent low and held it. Ford wiped out a gain and traded unchanged. Chrysler held only a fraction of a rise of about a point.

Top steelmakers maintained a string of fractional advances. Eastman Kodak rose 2, Union Carbide, Du Point, Pennsylvania Railroad, Merck, Radio Corp., International Harvester and many other market wheelhorses a point or better.

Sperry Rand was leading the list on a volume as it clung to a gain of virtually a point.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange recovered in heavy trading.

Corporate bonds were unchanged. U.S. Treasury bonds rose.

Distilling Firm Reports Income

James B. Beam Distilling Co., has reported both revenues and earnings for the nine month period ended March 31 at record breaking levels.

Sales for the period were $75,224,843 compared with $69,897,408 for the same period the previous year. Income before taxes was $11,259,200 compared with $10,318,397. Net income after taxes was $5,460,200 compared with $5,018,397. Earnings per share were equal to $2.07 compared with $1.79 for the comparable nine month period of the previous year.

President Everett Kovler said this year emphasis is being given to the creation of new, improved and more varied products. Beam recently introduced the first and only imported Martini under the brand name of V-J Martini, named after the English distilled Edward Vaughan Jones Gin that is used in the product. The other product recently introduced was the Jim Beam Manhattan cocktail.

Suit Asks Court To Remove Bank

An action has been filed in the U.S. District Court to remove the voting trustees of the Central Valley Bank, headquartered in Oakland.

The complaint, made by James P. McNeill, M.D. of Spokane, Wash., on behalf of himself and all other holders of trust certificates of the bank, alleges that the trustees have disregarded signed instructions from over 74 per cent of holders of outstanding trust certificates to terminate the voting trust.

Section 2231 of the California Corporations Code provides that the votes of a simple majority of trust certificate holders are sufficient to abolish a voting trust.

Dr. McNeill seeks a declaratory judgment setting aside the trust and the interim appointment of an independent trustee by the court in place of the defendent trustees pending the court's final determination of the suit.

Pan American Shows Profit

Pan American World Airways recorded a profit of $1,974,000 for the first quarter of 1966, compared with a loss of $6,914,000 during the same period a year ago, according to the company's preliminary and unaudited statement.

Net income per share was 13 cents, compared to a loss of 49 cents during the first three months of 1965. Operating revenues were up 23.3 per cent to $161,873,000; operating expenses up only 9.5 per cent to $155,890,000.

Juan T. Trippe, chairman and chief executive officer, said greater volume of business resulted from reduced fares and cargo rates.

Peter Rockwell of Fairfax, leader of the student organization at the college, said today: "What we want to talk about is what we can do to wipe out barriers to understanding."

Ministers, candidates for state offices, and county officials will be among those attending the forum scheduled from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in front of the student center.

Speakers will include Rev. Donald Schilling, pastor of St. Andrew Presbyterian Church, Marin City; Dr. Carlton Goodlet of San Francisco, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination; Philip Drath, candidate for First District congressman; James L. Pockrus, candidate for State Assembly, and Michael Alwyin, president of Mariners Group on the campus.

Kentfield Principal Asks For Teaching Assignment

George Stratton, principal of Wolfe Grade School in Kentfield School District for three years, will return to teaching next fall.

In a letter to the district board last night, Stratton said that, having experienced both school teaching and administration, "I feel my best contribution would be as a classroom teacher."

The board accepted Stratton's resignation as principal and assigned him to teach seventh and eighth grade social studies at Adaline E. Kent School next fall.

Stratton began his career teaching in the Kentfield School District, served as superintendent of West Marin School District, then returned as principal in Kentfield.

The board also received resignations from four teachers: Joyce Vickery, second grade at Wolfe Grade School; Lynn Anderson, eighth grade at Kent School; Valda Kulka, vocal music at all schools, and Mabel Fulker, Spanish at all schools.

Mrs. Dorothy Maringer of Long Beach was hired to teach second grade at Wolfe Grade School, and Charlene Imperatrice of Lake Tahoe to teach sixth grade at Greenbrae School, both at $7,125.

State Court Declares Vote On Proposition 14 Illegal

U.S. Funds Freed; Governor Race Roils

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — The California Supreme Court today ruled Proposition 14, which voided the state's fair housing law, is unconstitutional.

The court voted 5-2 on the issue.

Proposition 14, an initiative measure adopted by a 2 to 1 margin by the voters in the Nov. 3, 1964, election, nullified fair housing provisions of the Unruh and Rumford Acts.

Today's action was the second time the court struck down a vote of the people in the 1964 election.

The other case involved Proposition 15, in which the voters banned pay television.

ELECTION ISSUE

The decision on Proposition 14 was a bombshell thrown into the current election campaign in California. It meant that many candidates for the State Legislature may be forced to take a stand in the controversy.

The immediate effect of the ruling was to release $22 million in federal funds for redevelopment in California cities. The money had been held up because the state law conflicted with federal regulations which bar racial discrimination.

OPINION GIVEN

Justice Paul Peek wrote the majority opinion. He said the court was bound by the U. S. Supreme Court's civil rights rulings, based upon the equal protection and supremacy clauses of the U.S. Constitution.

Justice Peek decided this issue in the case of Mulkey vs. Reitman from Orange County. The ruling was applied to six companion cases, one filed by the Fresno Redevelopment Agency.

"It is now beyond dispute that the 14th Amendment, through the equal protection clause, secures the right to acquire and possess property of every kind," without discrimination because of color, race or religion, the court said.

The decision emphasized that Section 26 of Article 1 of the state Constitution added by Prop. 14 in November, 1964, must be measured against federal constitutional standards, even though it was adopted by a vote of the people.

JURY DEADLOCKS IN EAGLE TRIAL

Point Reyes Station Rancher Martinelli Faces Stuffed Bird In Federal Courtroom

By JOHN F. KEARNEY

A Federal Court jury of 11 men and a woman failed to agree on a verdict last night in the case of Leroy Martinelli, 37-year-old Point Reyes Station rancher who killed two government-protected eagles he said were attacking newly-born lambs.

After debating for five hours, jurors filed back to their seats in U.S. District Court in San Francisco at 10:40 p.m. and told Judge William T. Sweigert they were unable to decide whether Martinelli violated federal law by killing the birds.

Following announcement of the deadlock, the jury was discharged. It is now up to the government to press prosecution of Martinelli further if it wishes, but last night Asst. U.S. Atty. Jerrold Ladar would not say whether a new trial would be sought.

The jury was split 9-3 in favor of acquitting the rancher of violating law by killing the first bird on Jan. 25, 1965, but 9-3 in favor of convicting him for killing the second bird the following day.

Said one juror afterwards: "Most of us thought Martinelli had some justification for killing the first eagle. But he must have been aware it was breaking the law when he went out the following day."

Dominating the whole hearing was one of the birds which were the cause of the trouble. The bald eagle Martinelli killed on Jan. 25, 1965, was stuffed by a taxidermist and perched on a stand in front of the judge. It was exhibit number six.

Half way through his his testimony, Martinelli pointed at the bird, looked it straight in its eagle eyes, and said: "That was the boss. He ran the whole show."

Martinelli was describing what he saw that first day after driving out to check on an area on his 1,100-acre ranch where ewes were lambing.

At first he thought there was a dog among the ewes when he saw them scatter. He looked up and saw three eagles.

"One was picking up lambs and then dropping them," he

Court Delays Gas Chamber For Mitchell

A stay of execution was granted today to Aaron Mitchell, 36, who had been scheduled to die tomorrow in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber for killing a Sacramento policeman.

Told the news in his Death Row cell, Mitchell said: "God bless somebody."

If the execution had been carried out, it would have been the first at San Quentin since Jan. 23, 1963.

Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli of U.S. District Court in San Francisco granted the stay until the court can take further action. Mitchell had petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus and stay.

Mitchell, a former laundry worker at Mather Air Force Base, was condemned to death for the murder of a policeman in a Sacramento holdup on Feb. 15, 1963. Yesterday he said that if he was not granted clemency or stay of execution it "may start a long new line for the gas chamber."

He had already chosen the traditional last supper to be served in his cell today. The menu: Fried chicken, sweet potato pie, bread and butter and milk. But now he will be served the standard prison menu.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said the news of the stay of

Sharp Slash Ordered For Flood Budget

The proposed budget for the Corte Madera Creek flood control zone will have to be trimmed by 75 per cent, the zone's advisory board said last night.

The five-member board, representing Larkspur, Corte Madera and the Greenbrae boardwalk area, voted unanimously to ask the county board of supervisors to cut the budget so it will fall within a five cents per $100 assessed valuation property tax rate.

The budget proposed by Donald R. Frost, county director of public works, would require a 20-cent tax rate. That is too much, the board said.

After discussion with the board, Frost agreed to cut three items from the budget, reducing it by $55,000. These were $20,000 for local drainage, $15,000 for relocation of a pump near Redwood High School, and $20,000 for privilege of dumping spoils on private property.

The advisory board then recommended supervisors seek to trim about $24,000 more from the budget and suggested two ways it could be done.

Supervisors could, they said, seek a reduction or waiver of the requirement the zone pay five cents royalty for every cubic yard of spoils to the State Lands Commission. These royalties would cost the zone $32,000, they noted.

Supervisors could also seek a

Terror Bomb Brings Hail Of U.S. Bullets In Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong terrorists exploded a mine in the heart of Saigon today, and U.S. sentries turned one of the capital's busy streets into a blood-drenched battleground.

Five persons were killed and 29 to 32 were wounded, most of them by American fire. The dead included a Vietnamese policeman, three Vietnamese women and a child. Eight Americans and at least 21 Vietnamese civilians were reported wounded.

A U.S. Army spokesman said there was no evidence of Viet Cong fire in the half-hour fusillade that followed the mine explosion. He told a news conference that an American MP opened fire and that other MPs thought they were being fired on and began spraying the streets with machine guns and automatic weapons. Crowds of Vietnamese on their way to work ran in terror or fell under the hail of bullets.

Seven Vietnamese suspected of planting the bomb were arrested, but all were cleared and released, the spokesman said.

"It was a regrettable misjudgement that could happen anywhere, anytime, under similar circumstances," Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., said tonight in Saigon.

"It is a tragic situation," said Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich.

"It reflects the inherent tensions of the situation and it can happen again at any time," Moss told a reporter. "There is no assurance it won't happen again.

"Incidents such as this come about from having terrorism right in the city. It's a war without fronts.

"Our hearts go out to the innocent victims of this affair,"

Redwoods Funds Cut In Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Appropriations Committee followed the House lead Tuesday and refused to recommend funds for the proposed Redwoods National Park in California.

Instead, it took the $10 million in President Johnson's budget for he Redwoods Park and reallocated it to several Forest Service and National Park locations.

The action was seen as effectively killing any funding for the controversial park for this session of Congress. The Senate conceivably could write money for the Redwoods into the committee's recommended appropriations for the Interior Department when the bill reaches the floor. But such a possibility was seen as remote.

Money for the Redwoods was to come from the Land and Water Conservation Fund. The President recommended a total appropriation from this fund of $110 million.

Red Vessel May Anchor Off Marin

A Russian fishing ship, the Chernjakhovsk, may put into the sheltered waters of Marin's Drake's Bay later this week so the Coast Guard may board her and verify the master's claim of engine breakdown.

At sea 25 miles west north west of Point Reyes, the Chernjakhovsk, and her sister ship, the Skryplev, were being shadowed today by the Coast Guard cutter Taney.

At 9:40 last night, the Chernjakhovsk's master radioed the Coast Guard in San Francisco, saying that his vessel's engine breakdown had created an emergency, and requesting permission to enter San Francisco harbor to effect repairs. He reported the ship's single engine has broken rings, that disassembly is required to determine the full extent of the damage, and he cannot make repairs at sea, neither is he able to return to his home port, Vladivostok.

The master told Coast Guard officials he planned to transfer cargo to the Skryplev before entering, estimating this would take three days.

The Coast Guard refused permission, and radioed the Russian captain that he would be boarded if he attempted to en-

Countywide Police Tax District Is Discussed

A county service area covering all of Marin was discussed last night by a City-County Services Committee as a means of finding a more equitable spread for police protection costs.

Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows, who serves as staff for the committee, said the county-wide service area would support the patrolling costs of the sheriff's department.

With creation of the area, there would be agreements with each of the cities for county support for their police departments.

Barrows was instructed to seek figures on the actual costs involved.

He reported he had already consulted the county counsel's office and found that a county service area, though not customarily created for police protection, could serve.

The committee also asked Barrows to determine whether a county-wide service area could also be used to spread fire protection costs in the same manner. Barrows said this might be more complicated due to the many fire districts.

Either proposal would mean increased taxes for landowners in unincorporated areas.

The committee last year was instructed by supervisors to explore the possibility of a district which would exclude the cities and provide a tax base to support police protection in unincorporated areas. Barrows said that method would compound the already complicated situation caused by so many separate districts.

Under the present tax structure city taxpapers pay the same tax as those in unincorporated areas to support the sheriff's office and at the same time are taxed to support police departments.

Barrows was instructed to seek more figures on court costs in connection with collection of bail forfeitures. He suggested that all cities receive 75 per cent of the forfeitures while the county retains 25 per cent.

Under the present distribution,

Behr Will Go To Capital Seeking Fund

Marin County supervisors today agreed to go all-out in an attempt to have federal support of low interest loans for a Marin City commercial center reinstated.

The campaign will include a visit to Washington, D.C., by supervisor Peter H. Behr, who said he must go to New York anyhow on a business trip next week.

He volunteered to go to Washington May 23 to see high officials in the Department of Housing and Urban Development if the board would authorize the cost of a roundtrip ticket between New York and Washington.

This was approved, along with request that Chairman Byron W. Leydecker write a strong letter protesting the withdrawal of an

Rent Subsidy Bill, Teacher Corps Pass

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress passed and sent to President Johnson today a $2.8-billion supplemental money bill containing funds to finance the controversial rent subsidy and National Teacher Corps programs temporarily.

The funds for the two programs, both strongly urged by President Johnson, would be sufficient to get them under way in the current fiscal year ending June 30.

Dryer Weather Expected To Chase Raincloud Away

An unseasonable rainstorm which doused Marin County yesterday and last night is expected to give way to cloudy, dryer weather.

The Weather Bureau forecast calls for today's scattered sprinkles to dry up and the clouds to blow away by late tomorrow.

San Rafael had .21 of an inch of rain in the 24 hours to noon today.

Other rainfall readings at 8 a.m. included .22 of an inch in Tamalpais Valley; .2 in Terra Linda, Mill Valley and Sausalito; .18 in Ross and Santa Venetia, but only .07 in Novato.

An upper level low pressure system centered some 400 miles south of here was blamed for the storm, which was accompanied by lightning and thunder in some areas.

Lightning struck a Muni trolley coach at Chestnut and Fillmore in San Francisco yesterday, disabling the bus, but the 21 passengers were unharmed.

Winds up to 35 knots blew along the coast, but forecasters said the winds will slow to 15 to 25 knots tomorrow.

Supervisors Approve Bigger Job Corps Application For Net Depot

Marin county supervisors today approved an expanded application for a neighborhood job corps project which could hire 50 youths from throughout the county for summer work and also require an increase contribution in county taxes.

Failure to press a job corps application led to the firing three weeks ago of County Community Relations Director Walter Bremond.

The original proposal would have provided jobs for 30 youths, 16 and older, for three months, cleaning up and painting buildings at the U.S. Bureau of Mines station in Tiburon.

County Administrator Alan Bruce reported today that the project can be expanded to provide jobs for 50, with 30 at the Bureau of Mines, 15 working for the Marin Housing Authority and five for the county. Pay would be $1.30 an hour. The youths would work a 32-hour week for 11 weeks.

They would not have to be high school drop-outs, but would have to be from families with low incomes, Bruce said.

The original county contribution would have been $3,000, but under the new proposal it will be $9,240. Bruce said this was because union members will be hired to supervise carpentry and painting work. This need was not show in the original proposal.

India Hits China On Disarmament

GENEVA (AP)—India told the 17-nation disarmament conference today that Red China's explosion of another nuclear bomb gives "new ardioactive evidence of its hostility to peace and disarmament and its expansionist and militarist ambitions."

Speaking at the final conference session before a five-week recess, Indian Ambassador Vishnuprasad C. Trivedi said Peking has once again "placed the entire human society as well as generations yet unborn under far-reaching hazards of health and thermonuclear holocaust."

Soviet charges that the U.S. draft of a treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons would give West Germany access to nuclear arms were rejected in a strongly worded speech by Chief U.S. Delegate William C. Foster.

He told the Russians that as far as Western defense arrangements are concerned, they should mind their own business.

KENNEDY SEEKING MORE LATIN AID

New York Senator Asks 'Marshall Plan' For Inevitible Revolution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., today suggested a Latin American "Marshall Plan" to keep U.S. money — not Marines — in the forefront of the revolution he feels is inevitable there.

In the second of two Senate policy speeches, Kennedy said he believed the American people would support "a greatly increased aid effort—an effort equal to what we were willing to do 15 years ago.

At that time, the United States undertook an aid plan to help post-war Europe back to its economic feet. Congress authorized spending of $12 billion in its first 3½ years.

The United States now allocates about $1 billion to Latin American aid programs—$400 million for liberal development loans; the balance on surplus food shipments and loans from the export-import bank.

In his first report on his Latin American trip last November, Kennedy said yesterday revolution was coming to Latin America, and the only questions were when and whether they would be peaceful.

Kennedy said that only complete American identification with the aspirations of those that seek political, economic and social change, and opposition to those that oppose it, could keep change peaceful. This included, he said, abandonment of intervention in Latin American affairs.

He also called today for:

Formation of a type of Latin American common market for commodity marketing and other products to assure a steady export income for the region.

Creation of special inter-American machinery—perhaps under the inter-American development bank—to meet currency emergencies in Latin American countries.

Dissemination of population control information to any country wanting it to ease the pressure of fast growing populations on weak economies.

Yesterday Kennedy urged Americans to embrace those who seek to bring change to Latin America, and to withhold moral and material support from those who oppose it.

Sex Researchers Say Mail Response Amazes

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Two researchers who wrote a text on sex physiology have been flooded with hundreds of letters since the book was released three weeks ago.

Dr. William H. Masters and a psychologist, Virginia E. Johnson, wrote "Human Sexual Response." The book is based on an 11-year laboratory study at Washington University of sexual stimulation in 694 men and women.

Masters said about 30 per cent of the mail is divided evenly among unsigned crank criticism, honest disagreement, and encouragement. He said the other 70 per cent comes from people with problems of sexual inadequacy.

"In our age it takes courage to admit sexual problems," Masters said. "It has been our experience that after people gather their courage to write us once, they probably won't again unless they are directed toward help in the immediate future."

Mail to the Reproductive Biology Research Foundation, which the team helped to create, has increased measurably since their book's publication April 18. The first printing sold out in three days.

"We are amazed at the response to the book," Masters said. "It was totally unexpected, not only for us but the publishers. They were not prepared for it either. The text was written primarily for the medical and behavioral professions."

For 18 months, the two scientists have been studying data for a second volume, "Human Sexual Inadequacy." This book will involve clinical applications of their earlier findings.

FBI Boss Quietly Begins His 42nd Year On The Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) —FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover marked his 42nd year on the job today with no comment on the anniversary, no change in his work routine, and no talk about an eventual successor.

At 71 —One year past the mandatory retirement age for government employees — Hoover still arrives at this desk early and leaves late.

But he is, if anything, more shy of the limelight. In the last year he has made only four formal public appearances. One of these was to testify before a house appropriations subcommittee considering the FBI budget request.

As for his anniversary, a spokesman said Hoover had told him it will just be another workday with no special observance.

It was President Johnson himself who waived the mandatory retirement requirement for Hoover. Last month the President also asked Congress to give the FBI chief funds to hire 100 new agents to handle the influx of civil rights cases.

Hoover has made it plain that he plans to stay on the job as long as he can. Last year he said: "I enjoy my work and feel competent to carry out all the demands of my job — why should I think about retirement?"

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Federal Standard Hit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Michigan Gov. George Romney said today that Johnson administration auto safety proposals would "wipe out meaningful and creative state contributions toward improved vehicle safety" and substitute "absolute federal decision-making and control."

Union For Safety

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union came out today in support of federal auto safety standards, but UAW President Walter P. Reuther added that any legislation should include "sufficient latitude for creative and imaginative product design."

Soviet Leader Trips

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's two top leaders left today for visits abroad, apparently designed to bolster the Kremlin's influence in both the Communist and neutralist camps. Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev flew to Romania for a three-day visit. Premier Alexei N. Kosygin flew to Cairo for an eight-day visit.

Pennsylvania Official Killed

Allessandroni

Alessandroni, 51, managed Gov. William W. Scranton's unsuccessful battle to wrest the Republican presidential nomination from Barry Goldwater in 1964. He was flying while campaigning for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor in the May 17 state primary.

The four died Sunday when their private twin-engine plane fell in rugged Allegheny Mountain terrain.

The dead include James E. Staudinger of Abington Township, who was the Republican chairman of Montgomery County and a member of the State Liquor Control Board, and the pilot, Melvin E. Ladin, 28, of Collingswood, N.J.

Astronauts Rehearse Launch

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — America's next pair of astronauts entered their Gemini 9 spaceship today shortly before their Agena target satellite staged a make-believe blastoff on a launch pad 6,000 feet away.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said all was proceeding smoothly during today's rehearsal of the complex dual countdown that will send the spacemen rocketing aloft next Tuesday to test skills needed to land on the moon.

Pike Again Defends Church Views

HAYWARD (AP)—The Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Episcopal bishop of California, last night again met the thrusts of fellow Episcopalians who challenge his unorthodox views.

An overflow at Trinity Episcopal Church after the pastor, the Rev. Graham Lesser, circulated a letter charging Pike with violating his sacred vows.

The bishop was peppered with questions about his beliefs—on literal truth of the virgin birth, on the divinity of Christ and on the Trinity.

Pike often has been charged with heresy on those same questions. He has been cleared of the charge by the governing body of his church.

"There is only one essential," he said, "and that is Jesus Christ. Whom did Jesus worship? Whom did he pray to? He prayed to his father, God."

Cold Weather Hits Midwest With Snow

By UP INTERNATIONAL

Record-breaking cold covered a wide section of the country today from the Midwest to the mountains of New England, where icy rains and snow nipped spring blossoms in the bud.

The mercury dipped to an unofficial 19 degrees in suburban Chicago. It was 23 degrees at Lansing, Mich., and falling, the lowest temperature ever recorded there during the month of May.

Detroit had a 28, the lowest ever reported this late in spring, and a 24 at Milwaukee, Wis., matched the all-time low.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the polar blast would sweep through Dixie during the day. Warmer weather prevailed in the interior western states, and Presidio, Tex., boasted a 103 degree reading yesterday.

One inch of snow fell yesterday at Albany, N.Y., and at Burlington and Newport in Vermont. Several inches fell in the mountains of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont during the night.

A squall line ripped through Orange Park, Fla., yesterday with tornadic winds. Torrents of rain fell, the roofs were ripped from six houses and a dozen other homes were damaged. Only two minor injuries were reported.

Lightning Hits Bus

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Lightning struck a trolley bus yesterday but the driver and all 21 passengers escaped injury in a cracking shower of sparks and a fire alarm sounded in an adjacent school.

Korean Acquittal

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The District Court today acquitted 10 persons, including an opposition lawmaker, of charges that they plotted to overthrow the Chung Hee Park government. The prosecution said it will appeal to a higher court.

Gill Resigns Seminary Post For Study Job

Dr. Theodore A. Gill, president of San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo since 1957, has resigned to take charge of a study commission of the World Council of Churches.

He will start his new job July 1 in Geneva, Switzerland, headquarters of the council.

He has been on a leave of absence since Dec. 1, undergoing rest and treatment for a chronic ailment which was said to be the result of overwork and a rigorous travel schedule.

As director of the church council's joint study commission on education, he will organize its research, will supervise conferences in Europe, Asia, Africa and this country, and will write a book as well.

This will be a survey of public education facilities and how they relate to church-maintained schools and mission operations.

Gill's resignation was announced by James R. MacKay, chairman of the seminary board of trustees, who said Gill's administration had "significantly strengthened the seminary" during his eight years in the post.

MacKay further said Gill had "drawn together an eminent faculty," had "attracted increasing number of students of high quality," had been "a leading architect of the Graduate Theological Union, a co-operative venture in post-graduate theological studies," and had overseen revision of the curriculum.

Before becoming seminary president, he was managing editor of the Christian Century an influential non-denominational magazine, and editor of another magazine, the Pulpit.

He is a member of several important committees of the United Presbyterian Church and the World Presbyterian Alliance, and was an observer at world church meetings in Sao Paulo in 1957 and in New Delhi in 1961.

Arnold B. Come, dean of the seminary faculty, is serving as acting president until a new president is chosen.

Tiburon Council Fills Planning Commission

The Tiburon City Council last night congratulated the planning commission, now down to four members, then appointed three new members to it.

The new appointees, all members of the citizens planning advisory committee, are: John G. McChesney of 1875 Mountain Drive, co-chairman of the committee; John J. Berryman of 6 Southridge East Street, who specialized in special districts in the committee, and Alton S. Lee of 2040 Centro East Street, who specialized in community facilities.

McChesney, who is director of operation for Hills Brothers Coffee Co., was appointed for a two-third term. Berryman, assistant to the president of American President Lines, and Lee, an architect, were appointed to terms ending next year.

"They were our first choices," Mayor John S. Hoffmire said. "We're glad they could all take it."

The planning commission was expanded from five to seven members last year, BTU the former council never made the appointments. A third vacancy occurred last month when Mrs. Helen Newman, vice-chairman, resigned.

The Tiburon City Council also:

1. Continued until May 23 discussion of a new policy to do away with automatic council review of planning commission actions. The council could not agree on a time limit for appeal of the commission's decisions.

2. Established standing council committees and appointed to them: Administration and finance, Gordon W. Strawbridge, chairman, and Mayor Hoffmire; land and development, Thomas E. Drohan, chairman, and Brandwell D. Fanning; public services, William R. Bremer, chairman, and Strawbridge.

3. Postponed until May 23 public hearing on a proposed uniform traffic ordinance, because the legal notice had not been printed twice since its introduction.

4. Asked City Manager Lawrence D. Rose to invite the Tiburon Fire District and Tiburon Sanitary District to join the joint health insurance plan of cities of Tiburon and Belvedere.

5. Directed City Atty. Robert I. Conn to prepare an ordinance similar to the county's ordinance on abatement of public nuisances.

Mrs. Barnard To Aid Park Bond Campaign

Mayor Albert E. White of Mill Valley announced today appointment of Mrs. John R. Barnard as Mill Valley chairman of the $4.3 million county park bond issue campaign. The issue is to be voted upon at the June 7 primary.

Mrs. Barnard is vice chairman of the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission.

Coin Flip Determines State Senate Winner

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A State Senate candidate, Robert Haner of Albuquerque, has won his nomination by a head.

Haner and Mrs. Irene Mathias tied with 988 votes each in last Tuesday's Democratic primary election for the District 39 Senate nomination. They waived their right to a recount in favor of deciding the tie vote by a coin toss. Haner won.

Novato Adult Community Plan Gets Nod

Marin County's first all-adult community was approved last night by the Novato Planning Commission.

The development is planned in San Marin by Sunset International Petroleum Corp., with 770 units on 77 acres. The company plans more such developments in San Marin if the first is successful.

The Novato Planning Commission also concluded a long-discussed and much-postponed proposal for gasoline service stations on three corners of a San Marin intersection by granting permits. Harker Development Co. is to build the stations, which the commission ruled must not do repair work nor sell auto supplies.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

1. Approved rezoning from duplex to multiple family a lot at 1036 Third Street, asked by Joseph Horvath.

2. Continued until May 23 consideration of an amendment to the Loma Verde master plan to permit single family homes on what had been an elementary school site south of Carnoustie Drive, consideration of the tentative map of Hidden Horse Canyon by Marin Master Builders for 79 lots on 24 acres in Marin Golf and Country Club estates, request of Andrew Talbot for a use permit for a convalescent hospital at Hill and Indian Valley roads, and hearing on an amendment to the subdivision ordinance requiring dedication of land for school purposes, to implement the Kirk law.

Fund Review

Larkspur School District trustees will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the district office to hear reports on federal funds available to the district next year and review the proposed budget.

Novato Trustees Wrestle With Teacher Pay Requests

In more than two hours of discussion, Novato Unified School District trustees last night failed to reach agreement on increasing teacher salaries or how to fit their salary request into the proposed 6.5 million dollar budget for fiscal 1967.

The board asked that Supt. James G. Bunker meet with the salary negotiating committee of the Novato Teachers Assn. at 4 p.m. today to try to come up with a salary proposal which the district could afford.

Last week, the teachers association asked for increases of $180, from $5,520 to $5,700 per year, for beginning teachers, up to an increase of $1,354 or from $10,656 to $12,010, at the top of the pay scale. This was estimated to add $250,000 to the district's salary cost.

The American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, which does not have enough members to be on the salary committee, proposed a scale starting at $5,800 and going to $12,070.

A suggestion was made to cut the reserves which are $271,095 by $100,000 and give that to the teachers in salary increases, according to Bunker.

There was no discussion of salary increases for non-teaching personnel, Bunker said.

Anti-Red Society Running In The Red

BELMONT, Mass. (AP) — Robert Welch, founder of the ultraconservative John Birch Society, says the society won't cut back its program although it is operating in the red.

He acknowledged in a bulletin to members yesterday that the society's income totaled slightly more than $4 million last year, one million less than its expenditures. He also said that membership had not grown to anticipated levels.

TV Sets, Irons In Agreement For Seafarers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—West Coast sailors may be guaranteed shipboard 21-inch television sets, steam irons and automatic ice cube machines in their new labor contract.

Those items were included in a tentative agreement made public yesterday by the AFL-CIO Seafarers Union and the Pacific Maritime Association, an employer group.

Earlier they had announced agreement on $250 monthly pensions after 20 years service and $25 monthly pay boosts. Current pay rates are not available.

The latest fringe benefits made public also include $20,000 war risk insurance for those sailing into the Viet Nam area.

When you buy more life insurance stop and think first.

Let's say you've decided to invest an extra $200 a year in life insurance. What's the next step?

Careful now. Don't just order "another $10,000." That's like buying a house without seeing it first. A house has to fit your family, your family activities, your future plans.

So does your insurance program. Your problem is to fit that extra $200 worth into your overall plan for financial security and growth. Should you spend it on more family protection today? Or on providing cash for a child's education fifteen years from now? Or on a retirement fund for yourself? Or on a combination of these?

You can see how, without help, planning such a program can be complicated. But there is help. Your Manufacturers Life underwriter has an ingenious device called a Security Graph, which systematically pictures your overall financial position and objectives, and then indicates where that $200 will do the best job.

This is part of our Financial Planning Service for which there is no charge. So call your Man from Manufacturers soon.

Corte Madera Eatery Stymied By Planners

The Twin Castles Restaurant, proposed by Franchise Investment Corp. for the southwest corner of Montecito and Redwood avenues in Corte Madera, hit another town roadblock last night—the planning commission.

The restaurant was first rejected by the board of design because of a gaudy exterior color scheme. This was changed to a more sedate red brick-colored tile exterior and the design board approved the restaurant.

Last night planning commissioners ordered some more changes—a retaining wall and service windows in the rear instead of the front of the building.

Commissioners also said they will require the restaurant file a $2,545 deposit for upgrading Montecito Avenue.

Plans for the restaurant will now have to go back through the board of design before being resubmitted to the planning commission.

Commissioners rejected a board of design recommendation that a Humble Oil service station at Fifer and Nellen avenues have a front entrance to lubrication rack areas. The entrance should be in the rear, they said. The design was approved with that stipulation.

Norman Eatorn was re-elected as commission chairman. Jack Hauser was named to replace Albert J. Boro as vice chairman.

Held over for an on-site inspection was a tentative map of a six-lot subdivision proposed by John Fredericks at Redwood Avenue and Summit Drive.

Loan Approved For Roads, Over Financial Objections

Marin County supervisors, over protest of county financial officers, today approved an intereset-free loan of $17,400 to Monte Cristo Permanent Road Division.

County Auditor - Controller Michael Mitchell and Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Fontez said interest of the six-year period proposed would come to $3,000 if the same funds were on deposit.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney argued, however, that the use should not be thought of as a loan, but a means of financing road work that would otherwise have to be done at county cost.

Attorney Roger P. Garety, representing a resident of the road division, E. P. Franklin of 22 Bosque Avenue, questioned the operation of the district.

Public Works Director Donald R. Frost recommended that no loans be approved exceeding one per cent of the total road fund in any year. This policy was adopted by the board.

execution was taken to Mitchell immediately after it was announced at 10 a.m. He termed the condemned man "extremely happy."

The American Friends Society of San Francisco had notified the prison that it intended to maintain a traditional silent prayer vigil outside the prison gates, starting at midnight tonight.

Born in Mississippi, Mitchell quit school after the eighth grade when his father lost his right hand in an accident. He picked cotton on an Arkansas plantation, and came to California when his mother got him a job at the Mather Air Force Base laundry.

He attempted to rob a Sacramento restaurant and bar, but was caught in the act by police. In the ensuing fight, Policeman Arnoll Gamble was killed by a bullet fired from another officer's gun in Mitchell's hand.

He has been out of prison five of the past 19 years, it was disclosed at his trial. His attorneys contended that he was denied fair trial because he was forced to take the witness stand in his own defense and admit the lengthy prison record.

set by state law, each city receives an amount based on its early justice court costs. Thus the county retains only 11 per cent of forfeitures collected from San Anselmo and 30 per cent from those in Larkspur and Fairfax.

Barrows said putting it on a 25 per cent formula for all cities would increase county revenue from fines by $20,000 a year.

He told the committee it would be possible for cities to collect their own parking meter fines.

The committee delayed consideration of County Administrator Alan Bruce's suggestion that the county civil defense office be discontinued.

Supervisor William A. Gnoss, a member of the committee, was absent. Those present were City Councilmen Michael Wornum of Mill Valley and Douglas M. Merrill of Novato and Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen.

heaval. People aren't going to suddenly start moving into neighborhoods or anything."

That was the reaction today of Assemblyman Byron Rumford, D-Berkeley, to the State Supreme Court decision overturning Prop. 14 — the 1964 initiative that nullified Rumford's own anti-discrimination housing law.

Rumford said low incomes still keep many Negroes from moving into white neighborhoods.

Nathaniel Colley, the lawyer who fought the case before high court for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said "as far as I'm concerned, this is the final judgement.

"The court action nullifies the proposition completely," he said. "There is no automatic appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court . . ."

Colley said he doesn't know if the California Real Estate Assn., a main backer of Prop. 14, will take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court or not.

Rumford, however, said he thinks it definately will be appealed.

Assemblyman Charles J. Conrad, R-Sherman Oaks, an opponent of the Rumford bill, compared the court's action to the U.S. Supreme Court's legislative reapportionment decision.

"Once again the judiciary has substituted its opinion for the expressed will of the people," he said.

Ronald eRagan, a Republican candidate for governor, said: "The court has made its decision. It is up to the governor now to enforce the Rumford act until the legislature decides whether it wants to take some further action reflecting the will of the people."

Committee Acts On Resignation

Resignation of Walter Bremond as director of the Marin County community relations service was accepted last night by the Marin City Community Action Committee.

The committee had not previously acted on Bremond's departure from office last month.

The committee appointed Beatrice Dukes of Marin City as temporary assistant to Douglas J. Quiett, acting community relations director.

Study Asked On Complaints By Teacher

Complaints on a variety of subjects, raised recently by a part-time teacher at Tomales High School, may be farmed out to at least five persons or groups for more detailed study, a six-member committee concluded last night.

Supt. Anthony Matulich, a committee member, said the group broke the complaints of Robert de la Vergne down into eight categories, then decided who was best suited to delve into each.

Their recommendations will go before the board at its next regular meeting May 18. If the plan is approved, some of the complaints will go to Matulich, others to the board members themselves, and still others to committees made up of parents, teachers or counselors.

Matulich said members of the original committee "will consider ourselves dismissed" unless the board decides to give them further work in the study of De la Vergne's comments.

With Matulich on the committee were board members Jean Adams and Joseph Tremari and teachers Gwendolyn Gibson and Carl Anaclerio, as well as De la Vergne himself.

After that meeting, the entire board went into a closed session for two hours on Matulich's contract and duties. The superintendent said he expected no formal action as a result of the board meeting.

the U.S. Embassy said in a statement.

An embassy spokesman said the families of victims would be paid compensation in accordance with normal procedure in such cases.

The military spokesman said it had not been determined yet how many of the casualties resulted from the mine explosion and how many were victims of the American fire.

In the air war, meanwhile, U.S. B-52 bombers from Guam attacked the Viet Cong's C Zone near the Cambodian border for the 10th straight day. Their target was a Viet Cong troop concentration area 70 miles northwest of Saigon, but a U.S. spokesman said he had no assessment of the result of the repeated strikes.

Ground warfare continued at a low ebb, with the U.S. command reporting only light, sporadic contact with the Viet Cong yesterday and no major action.

reduction or waiver of an Army Corps of Engineers requirement that the zone pay $18,000 for land enhancement brought about through use of spoils.

In another motion, the board urged supervisors to investigate the possibility of using the spoils on land east of Highway 101 in Corte Madera and if it is possible, resubmit the fill proposal to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Theft Series In Mill Valley

Thefts of $51 in fishing reels and a stereo set and tape recorder console were reported to Mill Valley police yesterday.

Byron Reynolds told police someone had lifted his garage door at 62 Millay Place and stole two spinning reels from a cabinet.

Marty Staubb of 30 Glen Drive reported his son, who had been feeding cats of a vacationing neighbor, Robert Moore of 28 Glen Drive, found the front door of Moore's house open and radio equipment missing.

He said phonograph records were scattered on the walk and steps, a window had been broken, a lamp broken in the room and a tire iron left on the rug.

J. R. Vigurs of 521 West Blithedale Avenue reported $10 worth of wood in front of his house had been stolen.

said. It must have been two minutes later, he said, when he turned his vehicle around and headed home to pick up his 12-gauge shotgun.

On his return, the rancher said, he saw the bald eagle feeding off a lamb. He aimed at the bird and killed it.

"I figured I had the right," said Martinelli. "The eagles were destroying my livelihood."

He said when he called Sheriff's Deputy William Christensen, he "laughed over the phone." The officer went out later that evening and the two men talked about the dead bird.

Questioned by defense attorney W. O. Weissich, Christensen recalled he did not advise Martinelli not to kill further birds. The officer said he was not sure whether the rancher had committed a crime under these circumstances.

The single witness for the government, Jack E. Downs of the Game and Wild Life Management Agency, said that in an emergency it would have taken "a matter of a few hours" to get a permit to kill the birds. He visited the Martinelli ranch after the shootings and saw no eagles threatening the sheep.

The golden eagle, which Martinelli admitted he killed Jan. 26, was taken out of cold storage for the hearing and placed on the witness stand.

Ladar said the eagles, national symbol of America, were becoming increasingly rare and the law protected them to ensure "everything else was done to frighten them off instead of killing them."

Weissich said there was no dispute over whether Martinelli had killed the eagles. He admitted he did. The question was whether he violated the law by protecting his own property from attack, said the attorney.

Referring to the penalty of $500 fine and six months in jail for shooting eagles illegally, Weissich said:

"I don't think that Congress has conferred upon the eagle the right to kill sheep willynilly and to provide the property owner with no protection if attacked."

Martinelli said the Department of the Interior gave him a device for frightening off the birds, but claimed it was not practical for use near ewes that were about to lamb.

ter American territorial waters.

According to a Coast Guard spokesman, the Russian master promptly radioed back that he had no objection to being boarded or having his machinery inspected.

Now the Coast Guard will probably agree to these plans. The spokesman said the Russian ship will wait for favorable weather, transfer her cargo to the Skryplev for two or three days, then sail—under Coast Guard escort—to Drake's Bay.

"We will direct the vessel into sheltered water at Drake's Bay for the purpose of investigation and verification that a true emergency does exist," said the Coast Guard, "before we allow the vessel to enter San Francisco Bay," under international distress laws.

The two Russian vessels are believed to belong to the fleet that has been fishing off the West Coast in recent weeks.

San Anselman Injured On 101

A 52-year-old San Anselmo man was injured when his car ran into an auto that had slid sideways across Highway 101 near the Lombard Street off-ramp south of the Golden Gate Bridge at 10 a.m. yesterday.

Gerald A. De Matei of 248 San Francisco Boulevard was reported in fair condition today with a broken knee in Marin General Hospital.

The California Highway Patrol reported that Raymond Wong, 30, of San Francisco was driving north on the highway around a curve when his car slid sideways across the two inside southbound lanes and in the path of De Matei's car.

Tiburon To Relocate City Offices

Tiburon "City Hall" has outgrown its cramped suite of offices in 1610 Tiburon Boulevard and will move this summer into a new two-story building at 80 Main Street.

The city council last night instructed City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose to negotiate a five-year lease at $575 a month with Fred G. Zelinsky for new building, which has 2,700 square feet of floor space. The move would consolidate the city offices and the Tiburon sheriff's substation, now in separate buildings.

Rose told the council that Zelinsky agreed to partition the building to provide offices for the city staff, sheriff's substation, library and conference room, storage rooms, and a small council chamber seating 25 persons. He said rental would be approximately 20 cents a square foot against the 37 cents $443 a month) the city now pays for 1,200 square feet.

Parking would be available weekdays on Main Street and for the city staff in Zelinsky's lot behind the building, Rose said. Special provision for the sheriff's cars in front of the building would be made on weekends.

Councilman Gordon W. Strawbridge questioned the convenience during winter of an outside stairway. The council instructed Rose to work an inside one into the plan if possible. It also told him to prepare an escape clause that the city could move out if need be.

"All things favor 80 Main," Mayor John S. Hoffmire said. Rose and Samuel Shapero, city treasurer, had been negotiating with several property owners for five months.

Rose said that since the city now leases its present space quarterly the staff would move into the now vacant new building by June 30.

insured loan at 3 per cent interest for the $400,000 Oak Knoll Shopping Center.

Richard Adams, representing California Development Corp., which will build the shopping center, said none of the objections listed in a recent letter from the federal department "went to the point."

P. N. Brownstein, assistant secretary for the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said cost of the center was 45 per cent of the cost of housing in the area.

Adams also told supervisors that the Department of Housing and Urban Development "is running scared" over a critical article recently printed in Readers' Digest. The article criticized Asst. FHA Commissioner Frank Daniels, who has since resigned.

It was Daniels who gave original approval for federal loan backing for the shopping center, Adams said.

Leydecker said that the shopping center is a vital part of the Marin City development. "Until we have it, its' not a community," he said.

Adams said that the shopping center could not be developed without approval from the federal department for the low-interest loans.

Property Appraisals Bring Cries Of Pain

Marin County property appraisal increases had early repercussions last night before the Fairfax City Council.

The property tax issue arose when Raymond A. Beierle, president of the Manor Hill Homeowners Assn., requested better protection and services for the Manor Hill area.

"In view of the property tax increase," residents expect improved services, he said.

Mayor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said, "Now I know what the people in Belvedere were complaining about last year." (There were strong protests when property appraisals were boosted in Tiburon and Belvedere last year).

Arrigoni said the council might want to ask the county why the appraisals were boosted "so much" in Fairfax.

The council also received a request from George M. Cowell, secretary of the Fairfax Merchants Assn., to permit the association to have free use of the city-owner Fairfax Women's Club building for its meetings. The association now pays a $10 fee per meeting.

"We have about 50 members and nobody is trying to benefit himself directly, but trying to benefit the town. This is a town of small merchants," he said.

Arrigoni designated Councilmen George Pagni and Adelaide Wilson and City Administrator David J. Sumbardo to review the request and the fee policy.

The Fairfax City Council Also:

1. Welcomed and congratulated 80-year-old Mrs. Alice Powers, who was selected Fairfax Senior Citizen of 1966. She described the award "as one of the greatest honors I ever had."

2. Awarded W. K. McLellan Co. of San Anselmo, lowest of six bidders, a contract for two street resurfacing projects, on Bothin Road and Marin Road, at $3,942.

3. Unanimously adopted the 1964 uniform traffic ordinance fashioned by the League of California Cities.

4. Introduced amendments to the zoning ordinance changing the planned district development zoning regulations.

5. Introduced an amendment to the zoning ordinance rezoning a parcel owned by Mrs. Helen Piecznski at 87 Park Road from single-family residential to duplex.

6. Introduced an anti-litter ordinance which prohibits the sweeping of debris into city streets.

7. Set for May 31 at 8 p.m. public hearing on a proposed change in building site requirements which would prohibit building on a site unless it is contiguous to a city street for at least 35 feet.

8. Proclaimed July 4 "Old Fashioned Fourth of July" in Fairfax and waived rental fees for the city park and pavilion for organizations participating in the celebration.

9. Passed resolutions commending former Mayor Frank L. Lawrence Sr. and former Councilman Waldemar E. Radtke for their service to the city.

10. Passed a resolution granting Sumbardo access to the records of the State Board of Equalization so he can study sales tax records.

11. Passed a resolution designating City Clerk Frances Lestanguet as the city's Social Security agent.

12. Appointed Cooper and Kerr of San Rafael as auditors for the 1966 fiscal year.

13. Declared a swimming pool on property owned by Dr. A. R. Sanchez-Corea at 150 Forrest Avenue to be a private nuisance and authorized City Atty. Wallace S. Myers to proceed with abatement action.

14. Received the resignation of Charles F. Tobin from the board of review, and requested interested citizens to apply for appointment to the board.

15. Agreed with a suggestion by Mayor Arrigoni that police and fire volunteers, past and present, be awarded certificates of appreciation for their efforts.

16. Authorized councilmen George Pagni, Robert R. Souza and Adelaide P. Wilson to attend the League of California Cities institute for mayors and councilmen in Monterey, May 22-25, at a cost of $300.

17. Set June 3 and 6 at 7:30 p.m. for special meetings to discuss city salaries.

18. Adjourned until May 31 at 8 p.m. at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Stop Payment Order Asked By Companies

Two more firms have filed for a stop payment order over work done for Bel Marin Keys Special Assessment District No. 2.

Eugene Luhr and Co. and Elmer G. Wendt., Inc., which did the grading of streets under the $520,246 assessment district project, say $50,326 is due them for claims and labor.

Asst. County Public Works Director Arthur T. Knutson said that an earlier request for stoppage of payment filed by Brown-Ely of San Rafael resulted in agreement that the assessment district would pay funds into United California Bank and the bank would pay contractors.

However, the bank is covering obligations to other firms for earlier work done and the two firms filed the stop payment order to seek direct payments from the district.

We started with a simple plan.

It all began with the notion that a wagon should hold a lot, and no notion about how it should look.

So when we sat down to design the VW Station Wagon we started by drawing a big box with 170 cubic feet of space.

(Roughly two times the room of an ordinary station wagon.)

This gave us room to seat 9 people comfortably and 13 pieces of luggage.

(13 bags more than you could ever fit into most wagons that hold 9 people.)

Once we got the people in we couldn't just let them sit there in a dark box.

So we cut 21 windows to let the light in, a big hole in back to put the luggage in, and 4 doors to let the people out.

To make the thing go we put the air-cooled Volkswagen engine in back.

And what we ended up with is what you see in the picture.

A sensible wagon that holds a lot, parks easily, and doesn't drink much gas.

What could be simpler than that?

War On Poverty Program Not Living Up To Billing

The War on Poverty was hailed as a noble, humanitarian effort to help rid the country of social and physical ills.

Most of us held out high hopes for what the War on Poverty could do in the way of helping distressed areas and giving hope to the uneducated and the underprivileged.

But now, we are beginning to seriously doubt whether this anti-poverty program is going to be any more effective or beneficial than the countless other government efforts to solve problems by allocating money and money alone.

Outside of the White House and Sargent Shriver's splendorous building in Washington, D.C., we hear little else but growing criticism of all aspects of the War on Poverty. Such criticisms are leveled from all segments of society. The poor themselves are beginning to feel they are political pawns rather than recipients of the benefits. Taxpayers, who thought they would see concrete evidence of improvement, can see no observable headway made in the much ballyhooed War Against Poverty.

We even begin to wonder if the anti-poverty war is aiming at the correct targets. The spending of a sizable chunk of anti-poverty funds in Kentfield School District is not exactly the finest example of how poverty funds are being channeled to the most urgent and deserving areas of the county.

One of the benefits of our two-party system is that the opposition party keeps the party in power on its toes and prevents the administration from glossing over its deficiencies.

This is the valuable function that Republican Sen. George L. Murphy is performing when he challenges the effectiveness of the War on Poverty. Senator Murphy also suggests that the program is being used for political purposes rather than for helping the needy.

Governor Brown, offended by Murphy's criticism, charged that "Senator Murphy himself has done more than any other person to undermine public confidence" in the poverty program.

We feel Governor Brown should be expending his energy and resources to channel the War on Poverty into productive and less wasteful lines, rather than in criticizing Senator Murphy.

No amount of soothing press releases and facts and figures to bolster the contention that all's well on the anti-poverty war fronts can dispel the fact that the Great War on Poverty has made little or no impact on the local level. Salvos that are being fired in Washington to combat poverty just don't seem to be hitting their ultimate local targets—the slums and the pockets of poverty. Somewhere along the line, the shots are being dissipated, either in administrative cost or duplication of effort.

We would hate to see the War on Poverty deteriorate into another bureaucratic agency that spins its wheels in administrative red tape, eating up taxpayers' money without producing tangible results.

COLLEGE GRADS WANT MEANINGFUL JOBS

A job in which to do "good" instead of merely doing "well" seems to be high on the list of growing numbers of women college graduates. This is the hopeful finding of several large corporations.

"The girls don't really want a lot of money or long-range security," said the head of one agency. "They're much more aware than they used to be of helping others, of doing something meaningful."

One graduate put it this way: "I want to feel that what I'm doing matters."

The desire to give of oneself in service to others is a universal characteristic of human nature, however much it may be chilled by indifference or stifled by selfishness.

The Lord made you and everybody else to achieve your full stature by an outgoing and practical interest in others, in public as well as private matters.

"Whatever good each does, the same he will receive back from the Lord."

(Ephesians 6:8)

Grant me the largeness of heart, Lord, to make something of my life.

Governor's Statements On Farm Workers Defy Comprehension

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — The reasoning of Gov. Edmund G. Brown in his efforts to promulgate the "great society" at the expense of California taxpayers and producers at times defies comprehension.

In a recent Southern California speech, the governor sought to carry on the myth of the "pitiful plight" of California farm workers, by declaring they are "the most deprived, poorly housed, and least secure members of our working society."

THIS STATEMENT was made in the face of the fact that last year, farmers all over the state were begging for farm workers to replace Mexican labor kept out of California by the national administration with the aid of the Brown administration.

And this year, it was reported from the early crop harvests in San Joaquin and Monterery counties, that shortages of workers existed.

Along with the report, an assemblyman stated workers were earning from $2 to $3.50 an hour harvesting asparagus, which is dropping in total production because of labor shortages.

Governor Brown decried the fact unemployment insurance has not been extended to farm workers, stating "there can be no argument that farm workers are any less in need of protection against wage loss than other workers.

"There has been no justice and little logic in their exclusion from unemployment insurance coverage."

IT MAY BE RECALLED that at one time, cannery workers were not covered by unemployment insurance. When coverage was extended to these workers, who are employed seasonally, the insurance turned into a subsidy for the canneries, as the insurance payments were made during the off-seasons and had the effect of keeping cannery workers in the areas of seasonal employment.

This may have been good for both workers and canneries, but the fact remains the subsidies are being paid by all the employers of the state, rather than the canning industry. This could happen were the insurance extended to agricultural workers.

"We have not done enough," says the governor. "We cannot allow one-fourth of our people to live in or on the fringes of poverty."

Perhaps we haven't "done enough." But on the other hand, there is always the possibility that we have done as much as we can with the tax money we have, and that eventually, in the effort to support the non-producing population in first class style, the well will run dry.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

'No' VOTE Is Explained

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I would like to explain my "no" vote on the Mill Valley City Council's endorsement of the county park bond issue.

. . . We know there will be an increase in taxes due to demands of the sheriff's office, courts, transit requirements, civic center, schools and city requirements. These taxes foster high property values, which by proclamation will be even higher if the bond issue passes.

Several months ago, various statements were made about the "lily white nature of Marin County and that every effort should be made to correct this situation. There is no doubt that the main reason for this condition is the high property value in Marin, yet the same people who advocate that corrective measures should be taken are the ones who continuously propose plans to raise the property values.

A portion of the community lives on retirement incomes and is finding it extremely difficult to meet rising taxes. Statements have been made to the effect that these people should move out of Marin if they can't pay their share. This may sound "progressive," but I think it is very unrealistic. Many of these people are the ones who made "Marvelous Marin" long before some of the present talent knew where Marin was.

Several cities have initiated their own park programs and feel they can proceed on their own. Mill Valley has a fair start on its Project 17 and hopefully, its yacht harbor. This, plus the 26 per cent of the total area of Marin which is held in public ownership, should be adequate for park needs in the forseeable future. Approximately one-half of the proposed county park land acquisitions will be tidelands which are entirely unsuited for recreational purposes.

I realize that we're talking of a drop-in-the-bucket compared to over-all spending of public monies, but some time, some place, we're going to have to stop and decide what we want and need most for our tax dollars. Under the circumstances, I think a "no" vote is in order.

Black Point's Beauty Known Many Years

Editor, Independent-Journal:

There are many newcomers to Marin County who have never yet "discovered" the beautiful, tree-covered Black Point Hills. When they first see it, their reaction usually is, "It's a beautiful country." . . .

For many years Black Point has been known and designated as a community or population center separate and distinct from Novato. It still remains separate, as Novato is now incorporated and Black Point is not.

Black Point is not square but irregular in shape. Roughly, it extends from San Pablo Bay to Bugeia Lane — now the entrance road to the big subdivision — Bahia del Norte. Black Point is about four miles long, east and west, and one-and-a-half miles wide, north and south. As it is zoned, limited agricultural and residential, many of the local residents keep a few head of saddle horses, freezer beef, or sheep. They can't have much livestock as their acreages are small.

Black Point was named after James Black, a Scottish sailor, who settled here before 1850. He was the first county assessor and justice of the peace for the early Novato Township. He owned a general merchandising store in Novato. As Black Point juts out into the bay, it was called "Black's Point" in early days. The letter "S" was dropped and the nam "Black Point" stuck. At one time it was called "Grandview," a name well suited to the many splendid views seen from its high hills and tree-covered knolls.

Old-time Black Point residents own their homes and acreages lock, stock, and barrel. The third generation is living here now.

School Road is about the middle of Black Point. It was well named. For many years, there was a small country grade school on School Road near Atherton Ave. It has recently been converted into a private residence. School buses now take grade school kids and high school students to public schools in Novato. A few people call this road "School Lane," which is a misnomer, as the name 'School Road'' is plainly marked on all county maps and road markers. School Road is about 1 mile long. In past years there were a dozen homes on School Road, each with an acreage. There are a few more homes today. There will never be many, as the old-timers don't want other people to move right in on top of them.

It seems rather odd to me to hear people say they have just "discovered" Black Point. It was "discovered" many years ago when San Francisco was a small town. As I have lived here on School Road, for only 30 years, I am still a "Johnny-come-lately." One of my neighbors, who sold his property here and moved to Petaluma, was born here more than 70 years ago. His father operated a dredge on the Petaluma River in early days.

Wildlife has all but disappeared in Black Point because of the increasing population. Twenty years ago it was common to see 8 or 10 Columbian Black-tailed Deer at a time, and large coveys of California Quail and many Pheasants. Dogs and guns have about wiped them out.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

THE C.O. of a certain army base took a dim view of personnel who went AWOL and straggled back to camp with phony excuses and alibis. "After this," he promised, "I'll only listen to original excuses. The old ones just bore me." Two weeks later, the C.O. got his original excuse. "I was counting on getting back to base ahead of time," explained one college-bred recruit with a perfectly straight face, "but just as I was about to board my plane, they began playing the National Anthem over a loud speaker. While I turned around to salute, the plane flew off without me."

The C.O. stifled a laugh and gave the recruit an extra 24-hour leave.

CHIDED FOR his almost perpetual smile and cheery good humor, Educator Robert M. Hutchins was quick to point out to stuffy campus associates, "Nothing ever looks more serious and thoughtful than a monkey. Yet do you know the only thing that a monkey is thinking about? Where to scratch himself next!"

ROAD SIGNS designed to slow up madcap drivers: In Wisconsin: "Leave your blood at the Red Cross—not on the highway!" In California: "Drive slowly. This is a one-hearse town." In Philadelphia: "Cross the street carefully, and avoid that run-down feeling." And in Alabama: "You're not driving your car after you exceed seventy miles an hour. You're AIMING it!"

Bouquet Offer For Reporter

Editor, Independent-Journal:

When you're handing out those bouquets, how about a BIG one for your own Barbara Hosmer?

Her enlightening series on the teen-age marriage and divorce conference at U. C. Medical Center is filling a real need for bewildered, perplexed parents.

While the city papers chose to dismiss the whole thing with a few curt paragraphs, Miss Hosmer has given it the attention and importance it truly deserved.

What's more, her writing is clear, sympathetic and human.

Congratulations are in order.

Vietnamese Must Believe U. S. Infighting Is A Bit Confused

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Americans consider the Vietnamese a little confused, with their anti-one-another scuffling in the midst of war, some of the things going on here must look a little mixed up to the Vietnamese.

For months they've heard President Johnson's Viet Nam policy scolded in and out of Congress, with no one more than Sen. J. W. Fulbright doing the berating.

This Arkansas Democrat is chairman of th powerful Senate Foreign Relations Committee and "arrogant" has become one of his favorite words to describe U.S. foreign policy.

THROUGH IT ALL, Johnson has maintained a starchy silence, more or less, never tangling head-on with Fulbright although this week at a White House reception he tried to be humorous indirectly.

He did it not with a speech but with a note which, he said, his cook wrote. Fulbright and his wife were there and Johnson told Fulbright.

If there's any arrogance of power in the White House it's in the kitchen. He pulled a pencilled note out of his pocked, the one he said was written by his cook, Zephyr Wright.

The cook told her boss, Johnson, that she was going to be his boss for a while and ordered him to take off weight by eating the food she put in front of him.

THIS DIDN'T DISCOURAGE Fulbright, as he proved last week in another attack. But, meanwhile, Johnson suddenly found a sturdy supporter against Fulbright in Barry Goldwater, whom Johnson defeated for the presidency in 1964.

Goldwater in a very blunt speech Thursday demanded that Fulbright resign as the committee's chairman. No American, Goldwater said, has the right to call the United States "immoral, imperialistic and arrogant."

This was turning the tables on Fulbright who, after the Republicans won control of Congress in the 1946 elections, suggested President Harry S. Truman follow the British parliamentary system and resign so a Republican could take over.

Truman ignored Fulbright's advice then, just as Fulbright most surely will ignore Goldwater's now.

HAVING TRIED to massacre Fulbright, Goldwater then tried to take the skin off Johnson from a dozen different directions which ranged from criticizing his handling of the Vietnamese war to criticizing his handling of problems at home.

Paying no attention to the take-charge cook in the White House or to Goldwater, either, Fulbright was at it again Thursday night in a 19-page speech in which he said the Vietnamese capital of Saigon has become an American brothel.

He said it was the result of the "fatal impact" of the "rich and strong on the poor and the weak."

Doubting the ability of a strong nation to create stability in a small and chaotic Asian one, Fulbright resorted to a Chinese proverb to make his point: "In shallow waters dragons become the sport of the shrimps."

THEN HE OUTLINED a policy of conciliation toward Red China but never got around to explaining what should be done if the Chinese ignore such efforts and insist on a Communist world.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Fulbright Must Fish Or Cut Bait On CIA

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — It is now squarely up to Sen. J. William Fulbright to fish or cut bait on his demand for a voice in supervising the activities of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Flatly rebuffed by the Senate's joint CIA "watchdog" committee, Fulbright is faced with either dropping his proposal or taking it to the full Senate. Inside indications are the Arkansan will resort to the latter.

THIS LIKELY public clash was precipitated by a letter Fulbright sent the joint "watchdog" committee asking that it be expanded to include five members of the Foreign Relations Committee, which he heads.

That was unanimously rejected by the bi-partisan seven-member joint committee, headed by Sen. Richard Russell, D-Ga.

The committeemen also agreed among themselves to oppose an alternative move threatened by Fulbright — to introduce a resolution calling for the setting up of a special 15-member committee with jurisdiction over the CIA if his expansion plan was turned down. In effect, the joint committee challenged Fulbright to raise this issue in the full Senate. The committee has been assured of the full backing of President Johnson.

COMMITTEEMEN have been told Senator Russell was personally given this word by the President. The latter is credited as saying he is against "having Fulbright meddling in the affairs of the CIA."

This hostility is no surprise. In recent weeks, the Arkansan has been increasingly critical of administration foreign policies, with resulting severely strained relations between him and the President. Fulbright's attitude also has antagonized Russell and other strong supporters of the war in Viet Nam.

Indicative of this backstage feeling is the caustic comment attributed to Russell, who is also chairman of the Armed Services Committee:

"If the Foreign Relations Committee was given representation on the joint 'watchdog' committee, there would be nothing to prevent Fulbright from designating such foes of the CIA as Wayne Morse and Eugene McCarthy. That's the last thing the President wants."

IN ADDITION to Russell, members of the joint committee are senators Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee; John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the armed services preparedness subcommittee; Stuart Symington, D-Mo.; Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass.; Margaret Chase Smith, R-Me., and Milton Young, R-S.D.

The "watchdog" committee meets with CIA authorities on an average of once a month for a report on and discussion of the agency's activities.

Senator Fulbright had no better luck in trying to pressure CIA Director William Raborn into answering certain questions.

This polite but firm rebuff occurred at a closed-door meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee, which Raborn was to brief on a wide range of information. He had barely gotten started when Fulbright began questioning him. Raborn balked at answering some of them.

VISIBLY ANNOYED, Fulbright testily demanded whether the CIA head would answer those questions if asked by the joint "watchdog" committee. Raborn readily admitted he would.

"I will answer any questions by that committee," he said, 'because it has jurisdiction over our operations." Glaring angrily at Raborn, Fulbright curtly announced the meeting was over.

Stock Market, Sweat Shirt, House Sales Take A Nose Dive

The stock market is supposed to be a mirror of the economy of the country. During the past few years, it went up and up and up. Last week it took a nose dive.

If this is a reflection of the economy of the country, it is also a reflection of the economy of North Marin.

Novato, which has been a city with a booming business in building new homes and selling them, suddenly sees that come to a grinding near-halt.

BUILDING PERMITS do not give a true picture of the situation. They have held up for the first part of this year, but that has been due to several large commercial buildings. The number of permits for new house construction is way down.

The large developers who this time of year in the past were taking out permits for blocks of houses, just aren't doing it.

This is reflected in the rows and rows of unsold houses in some of the developments in the city. A glance at the classified ads or listening to the talk of real estate dealers shows how the prices of houses has gone down. Older houses can be bought for several thousand dollars less than was asked for them a year or two ago. Some ads read: "Make an offer," showing how desperately some people want to get rid of them.

Lee Wise of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. said that his company is shutting off more meters than it is connecting.

THERE ARE VACANT apartments all over Novato. This has been true for about a year and already the rents have started coming down.

In view of these facts about the decline in real estate values, comes the word that the assessor's office is going to reappraise North Marin next year. Home owners are groaning at the thought of increased taxes through increasing the assessed valuation of their properties.

It has been suggested by some real estate dealers that in light of the bust qualities of the present boom in Novato, the assessor might give serious consideration to a blanket decrease in all property valuations in the North Marin area, say a 20 per cent decrease.

NOVATO WILL hold its annual cleanup campaign the last two weeks in May and the first in June.

The trouble is that the city does not stay clean. Certain businesses do not seem to care how much litter they add to the city streets. Some individuals are in the same lackadaisical mood.

The cleanliness of any city depends on the pride of each individual to keep his share of debris from making a mess.

The other day I witnessed something that brought the entire problem into focus. There was a little white haired old lady going down South Novato Boulevard picking up the papers that were in the street.

I know that she was not cleaning up just in front of her house because I watched as she picked up in front of two houses and one empty lot.

That is the secret of any yard, area, city or county keeping clean. It is up to each individual to do his own, or a little more, than his share.

AS THE SCHOOL YEAR nears an end, the public should be told of the fantastic record of the Hill Junior High School Parent-Teachers Assn. under the inspired leadership of John Novak, its president.

The organization had several very successful money raising events, including an art show.

Then the enterprising Mr. Novak (not related to the television teacher) conceived the most brilliant idea of his career as a president of a P-TA: They would buy sweat shirts with a thunderbird and name of Hill Junior High School on them. So 300 of them were purchased, thinking that his would just be a start to supply the demand of the 850 students for them.

For some reason they did not go over. So some were presented to the school officers. Still they did not catch on.

By now the supplier wanted his money, so the profits from the other events were used to pay for the sweatshirts.

Total sales: 30 sweat shirts.

Someone has figured out that John and his two sons have a 147-year supply of sweat shirts.

One Word, If It's Right One, Effectively Quiets A Liberal

Though this administration uses the spoils system Old Hickory inaugurated — over 100,000 federal employees will be added to the payroll this year — it would obviously be misleading to call this the Age of Jackson. Besides, LBJ has thrown in some gimmicks of his own and I suspect future historians may call it the Age of Chutzpah.

I take it that word is now fairly well-known, for Lucille Ball sang a song about it on TV the other night. But is wasn't always so. And I flatter myself I had a small hand in popularizing it.

ABOUT FIVE YEARS AGO, composing an essay on the patently false Alice-in-Wonderland prescriptions the liberal con men were hawking as new revelations from Sinai, I groped for the right word to describe their utter brazenness. This was before the Free Speech Movement, so I had to discard some Anglo-Saxon four letter words that came to mind. And, though I had had some small Latin and less Greek, both were rusty and completely unequal to the occasion.

Then out of my subconsicous leaped the one definitive word, Chutzpah, that glorious Yiddish term of contempt which signifies arrogance, effrontery and gall carried to the nth degree. The perfect word for a government that keeps living beyond its means while exhorting the citizens to tighten their own belts.

But I realized many of my readers had been brought up in underprivileged homes where Yiddish was not spoken. So I was careful to explain what it meant, give assurances it could be used in mixed company, and offer meticulous instructions on how to pronounce it.

BAD SPEECH HABITS are hard to correct and may injure one socially, I knew. So I was firm in pointing out that the accent was on the first syllable; and that the initial "ch" was neither the one of "chore" nor of "chorus" but rather like the Greek "chi" or the Scottish "loch." And I stressed the necessity of getting the throat muscles into the act in order to attain the withering contempt the bizarre combination of unlikely consonants was meant to convey.

My conscientiousness paid off. I am rarely able to boast of any success, but that particular column brought considerable response. The day it appeared locally, I had an early morning call from my good friend of blessed memory, Hedda Hopper. "Chutzpah!" she said. "Morrie, am I pronouncing it right? This is important!"

It was important indeed to her because she was scheduled for a party that night and she was to be seated at dinner, she had learned, next to a prominent Hollywood liberal, well known not only for his ideas but for spouting them at any opportunity.

So we had a 10-minute drill over the phone. Hedda had been on the stage and was a quick study and by the time we were through she was letter perfect. But, just to make sure, she called again later for a refresher course.

THE NEXT MORNING, Hedda phoned again. "Consider yourself kissed, teacher," she crowed. "It was fabulous! I waited till everybody was listening to him and right in the middle of it, I let him have it. 'Chutzpah!' I said loud and clear.

"That stopped him cold. He hesitated and asked 'What did you say?' 'Chutzpah!' I repeated. 'You understand English, don't you?' and I don't think the creep opened his mouth again till he left."

And I have another happy reminscence about that essay. A couple of years later, some hospitable Texans—if that isn't redundant—invited me to a GOP dinner in Amarillo. And after the dinner they plied me with their native branch water, to which they had added something pleasant-tasting — obviously not fluoride, which is tasteless.

NOW I DO NOT SAY Amarillo branch water is good for your teeth, but I can testify that two or three glasses of it will make even a confirmed pessimist look at the world more kindly. At any rate, I was in an unusually good mood when one of the Texans pulled out a copy of the old "Chutzpah" column and asked would I mind teaching them the correct way to pronounce the strange word.

How could I refuse? And I'm prepared to say that though "Chutzpah!" is a powerful imprecation in its own right, you haven't known its full impact till you've heard it delivered in unison in the rich accents of Texas. I've adopted it myself for use whenever the administration comes up with another panacea.

Which is every day, including Sundays.

Tomales Bay Marina Gets Permit Despite Protests

A use permit for a 60-slip marina on Tomales Bay north of Inverness was approved yesterday by County Zoning Administrator Thomas E. Cordill.

Cordill heard the application for the permit by Larry H. Marks Jr. of Novato on April 11. It was protested then by members of the Inverness Improvement Assn. and residents of Sea Haven subdivision. Backing the proposal were the Marin Visitors' Bureau and Marin Property Owners' Assn.

Cordill would not approve a proposed parking lot and picnic area and said that the marina would have to be as close as feasible to the present Golden Hind Boatel, which also includes a marina.

Opponents will have until next Tuesday to file protest if they want the issue heard before the county planning commission.

BUDGET GOES UP FOR KENTFIELD

But Harmon Sees No Tax Rate Increase In $1,136,000 Proposal For Schools

Kentfield School District trustees were handed a $1,136,171 budget for fiscal 1967 last night and said they did not see how they can alter it in any significant way, according to Supt. Howard C. Harmon.

The budget, proposed by Harmon, calls for $56,171 more than this year's budget of $1,080,000. It should not change the district's total tax rate of $3.34 per $100 assessed valuation, Harmon said.

Last week, Harmon said the preliminary budget would be $1,126,835. The proposal was recalculated before last night, he said, and "a lot of little items" account for the $9,336 increase.

Harmon said he based the budget on a 20 per cent increase in secured property tax revenues, the amount he estimates the assessed valuation has risen in the district.

Trustees postponed until May 23 any decision on salary increases for the district's eight administrators — Harmon plus three principals, a vice principal, a guidance consultant, an administrative assistant, and a bookkeeper.

Harmon's budget allows for five per cent raises for the six. Under that formula, the superintendent's salary would rise $925, from $18,550 to $19,475. Five per cent raises for all would cost the district $5,380.

The Kentfield School Board Also:

1. Agreed to call for bids on remodeling at Adaline E. Kent School as soon as state agencies approve the plans. The multi-use room will be changed to a gymnasium and teacher work rooms, and administrative office and kindergarten area will be remodeled.
2. Accepted landscaping at Wolfe Grade School as complete.
3. Agreed to advertise a surplus government truck for sale at a cost of $125.
4. Agreed to purchase accident insurance for sixth, seventh and eighth grade students participating in interscholastic athletics at total cost of $55.

West Marin Budget Totals $224,000 In Proposal

West Marin School District trustees last night were presented a preliminary budget for the 1967 fiscal year totaling $224,000.

The budget proposed by Supt. Howard Brose would be an increase of $32,000 from this year's $192,000.

Brose said an increase in the tax rate of about 5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation might be necessary. The district's rate this year is $2.21 per $100 assessed valuation.

The budget includes $12,000 for purchase of a new school bus. Teachers' salaries will go up $6,100 to a total of $96,700. Other increases were allotted largely to purchase of furniture and some remodeling of Inverness School.

The trustees voted unanimously to increase Brose's salary next year from $10,500 to $12,000.

All teachers in the district were offered contract renewals.

Trustees approved sale of $246,000 in bonds recently voted in a district election.

The board adopted the school calendar for the 1966-67 school year, which will follow that of Tomales High School.

S&W Pickets Under Arrest

VERNON, Calif. (UPI)—Two pickets, including a 21-year-old Los Angeles college coed were arrested following a demonstration at the S&W Fine Foods warehouse.

No serious injuries were reported in a running tussle yesterday as pickets repeatedly hurled themselves in front of the huge trucks leaving the warehouse yards.

The coed, Marian Gordon, a student at Los Angeles State College, was arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace.

The second picket arrested was identified as Conrad Villamyer, 26.

The pickets delayed ten trucks of the Di Giorgio Corp. subsidiary for more than seven hours before police moved in to clear a path.

The picketing by members of the National Farm Workers Assn. was in support of the union's eight-month strike against Di Giorgio and 40 other growers in the Delano Grape District.

Fairfax Bond Group Chairman Selected

Mrs. Walter E. Olson has been named co-chairman of the Fairfax Grass Roots Committee for the Marin County park bond issue.

Stanley W. Little, committee chairman, also announced that a Fairfax Youth Committee for the $4.3 million park bond issue has been formed. The youth committee's slogan is "Parks Are the Best Way to Keep Children Off the Street," he said.

City Buys Furniture From Eight Companies

Eight bidders will share in supplying furniture for San Rafael's new city hall.

Among the five bidders unsuccessful as the San Rafael City Council reviewed bids and voted to award contracts last night was Ray's Office Supply of San Rafael, owned by Ray Trenchard, who had objected to the specifications on the first call for bids. His firm was low on much of the steel furniture, but councilmen who had inspected it agreed with Milton Schwartz, hired by the city to handle the furnishings design, that the line it offered did not meet specifications.

The contracts were approved by 3-to-1 vote, with Councilman Charles W. Aby absent and Councilman Fred Jensen declaring, "I don't think anybody who is a principal of a company and writes specifications for a municipality should be allowed to bid on it."

Jensen referred to the fact that R. D. Ralsten, engaged by Schwartz to draw the specifications, is employed by Western Design Associates, which is owned jointly with Western Contract Furnishers of San Francisco.

Western Contract Furnishers got the lion's share of the metal furniture, with contracts for most of the wooden furniture going to California Correctional Industries for the San Quentin Prison factory.

The council threw out a few items, including desk sets for department heads. They decided the $168 low bid for a desk set for the city manager and $967 for desk sets for 13 other offices was a bit too high. At Councilman Louis H. Baar's suggestion, it was decided the city would buy uniform desk pads and waste baskets for all the offices, and let department heads buy their own desk sets from department budgets.

Sharing in the awards was Marin Office Supply Co. of San Rafael. Other successful bidders, besides California Correctional Industries and Western Contract Furnishers, were Frederick Post Co., M. G. West Co., Stevenson and Son, James Hill and Co., and Robert Morry Inc.

There was one other item of new city hall business at the adjourned council meeting: change orders Nos. 20 and 21 on the construction, totaling about $2,700.

The council voted 3-1, over Councilman Harry A. Barbier's objection, to purchase two 350-horsepower Fords, with special police equipment, through the state for the police department. Barbier argued long that the city should stick to Dodges, which it started buying two years ago on his insistance.

The San Rafael City Council also:

1. Granted Robert L. Thompson Jr. an extension until next Monday to clear wrecked cars off the lot at 51 Jordan Street for which his use permit was revoked two months ago. Thompson said Pacific States Steel Corp., his only buyer, had been closed by the Bay Area Air Pollusion Control Board but expected to reopen shortly. He asked a 30-day delay but was given until next Monday to learn whether the company reopens. If not, said councilmen, he will have to cut up the cars and dispose of them elsewhere.
2. Adopted a resolution calling for a State Finance Department census estimate.
3. Set for next Monday's regular meeting nomination of a San Rafael resident for the "Senior Citizen of the Year" award.

U.S. Approves State Medical Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — California's costly and controversial medicare program, aimed at providing full health care for 1.4 million people with low incomes, has been given federal approval.

The Health, Education and Welfare Department's approval provides $15 million a month in matching funds under 1965 revisions of the Social Security Act. The total state program is estimated to cost $580 million a year.

Formosa has 12 million people.

Grandmother Is Tiburons' 'Senior Citizen Of Year'

Mrs. Agnes Kircher, 78, of 1899 Mar West Street, a grandmother 17 times over, was named Tiburon's "Senior Citizen of the Year" by the City Council last night.

"She's certainly the grand old lady of Tiburon," proclaimed Mayor John S. Hoffmire.

Mrs. Kircher, who knew nothing about the nomination and was not present at the council meeting, became the city's entrant for outstanding senior citizen of Marin County for 1966.

Mrs. Kircher, a longtime resident of Tiburon, has been widely active in civic affairs. The widow of Charles A. Kircher, she has eight children.

She has served as chairman and secretary of the Tiburon Sanitary District board, is a former manager of the Village Salvage Shop, and has served on the juvenile probation committee, the citizens advisory committee for planning, and election boards. She is a charter member of the Tiburon Peninsula Club and Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society and a member of the Redwood Garden Club.

Mayor Hoffmire instructed City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose to prepare an official scroll for later presentation to her.

The countywide award is sponsored by the Senior Coordinating Council of Marin County.

Is The New Math A Rain Dance? It's Swingin', Students Agree

DEAR HELEN:

Even our teachers admit they don't see much point to New Math and they don't like having to study up in special classes to learn what they already know—the old way.

I am in sixth grade and every night I have loads of new math homework that I could have done in half the time if I didn't have to go through all that funny business. One night I stayed up till midnight and still didn't get it all done.

What I want to know is: If teachers don't like New Math, how do they expect us to like it? What do others think?—MAD

DEAR MAD

Here is what a few of my friends and acquaintances think:

Space project engineer: "New Math is a rain dance! I prefer the simple things."

Fifth Grade Teacher: "If I'm lucky I stay one jump ahead of the students. Sometimes I'm not lucky."

A Neighbor: "Yipes!!!"

High School Male: "Old math is better—you know: 36-24-36."

But, when I asked third, fourth and fifth-grade students who learned New Math before Old Math got a good toe-hold, the story was different. "It's swingin'" most agreed. And any method that makes youngsters think arithmetic is fun must have something going for it.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Is there anything wrong in giving a boy-girl dance party for 12-year-olds if your mother chaperons?—12

DEAR 12:

If your mother agrees, who am I to say? But don't expect to stir up an "instant mix." At age 12, it's not a "boy-girl" party but a boy——girl party. You girls will have loads of fun, dancing with each other. And the boys won't think it is a total loss, if you serve lots of food.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have been going out with a boy for three weeks and I like him lots. Other night he called my friend and told her he wasn't coming to see me any more because he knew I liked him and doesn't want to get involved. He broke a date and now he doesn't even notice me. He has done this same thing with three girls before me. Never tells them to their faces, but has somebody else relay the message. What do I do? —LOST

DEAR LOST:

You won, honey. Who wants a scalp-hunting cowardy-cat? I'd guess he builds up a weak ego by dropping girls dead and then treating them as if they were. Mix pity with anger and you'll be over that crush by day after tomorrow. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

My problem is that my voice is too darn low for a girl. I cringe every time I utter a word, and I never yell at games cause I can't reach the high notes. My boyfriend says he's never heard a girl with a voice as deep, and you can just guess how that made me feel. My mother says even when I was a baby the first thing people noticed about me was my voice. Should I just give up talking?

—DEEP DEPTHS

DEAR D.D.:

One of these days—I hope soon—you'll realize that anything which makes you different will also make you remembered. Play that voice of yours for all it's worth. Look what throaty tones did for Tallulah Bankhead!

—H.

"EUREKA! I've found it!" exclaims Old Prospector Ringo King, otherwise known as Principal John King of Lucas Valley School. He refers, of course, to the annual carnival sponsored by the Home and School Clubs of Mary E. Silveira, Lucas Valley and Dixie schools. This year's carnival will be held Sunday, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the Silveira School grounds.

Gold Rush, Spanish Fiesta Theme For Sunday Carnival

Two vivid elements of California's heritage, the Gold Rush and Spanish fiesta, will set the theme of the Sunday Carnival sponsored by the Home and School Clubs of Dixie, Lucas Valley and Mary E. Silveira Schools.

Seven committees are putting final touches to a day of entertainment beginning at 10 a.m. and running six hours at the Silveira School grounds in Marinwood.

A parade, starting at 10 a.m., will include among its marchers the horses and riders of the Valley Vaqueros.

The Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District Non-Marching Band will perform. Faculty members and parents will present the "Golden Nugget Follies" at 1, 2 and 3 p.m. The show, written and directed by Mrs. R. G. Grace, will include a barbershop quartet, a singing group of 16 Forty-Niners; a piano player, can-can dancers and pantomimists.

A puppet show, "Cinderella," will be presented by Pat Trimble, Heidi Thalman, Carolyn Potter, and Amy Hobbs, students who have created the marionettes as their Girl Scout service project.

Co-chairmen of the carnival committee are A. F. Kerr, of Lucas Valley School and Maj. George S. Benjamin, of Dixie School.

Committee chairmen are R. P. Stroganoff, construction; Stanley S. Clawson, decorations; Robert Farnham and George Johnson, booths and food, all of Silveira School; Mrs. R. G. Grace, entertainment, and Mrs. R. G. Chamberlain, publicity, both of Lucas Valley School; and Leo Noah, personnel, Dixie School.

Use For Band Aid

To prevent stocking snags created by worn or cracked shoe linings, smooth a plastic band-aid over the worn lining.

Sisterhood Sets Spaghetti Dinner Sunday Evening

The Sisterhood of Temple Rodef Sholom will have its "Spaghetti Social" on Sunday beginning at 5:30 p.m. at the temple, San Pedro Road, San Rafael. The open house event is sponsored by the sisterhood, and also features movies after dinnner. One film will be shown for the youngsters while another is shown for adults in another room, the committee announced.

Reservations chairmen are Mesdames Fred Kirschner, Robert Slate and Carl Lee. The annual event is open to all Marinites.

ON THE MOUNTAIN—Janet Gauder and Gordon Townsend rehearse a scene for "Pear Gynt," the 49th annual play to be performed in the natural setting of the Mountain Theater on top of Mount Tamalpais May 15 and 21. Play will be directed by Dan Totheroh, playwright and author, whose children's books have been reprinted throughout the world.

Office Shuffle At Civic Center Is Worked Out

Allocation of space in the Civic Center, worked out after several conferences in the wake of the departure last month of the county schools office, has been completed.

Most of the space occupied by the schools office will be taken over by the social services department, but several other moves are involved, Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows explained.

Also involved is outlay of about $35,000 for new partitions and utility outlet changes in connection with the re-allocation. The changes will not be completed until about Aug. 1.

The schools office occupied both sides of the fourth floor at the south end of the building.

Offices of the social service department on the east side of the third floor and a portion of those on the west will move to the west and east side of the fourth floor, filling most of the schools office space, including the area occupied by the schools curriculum library.

The veterans service office will move from the west side to the east side of the fourth floor.

Some of the social service offices will remain on the west side of the third floor, but the change will allow the planning department to double its office space on the third floor and give the parks and recreation department office space between planning and social services.

The space now held by the parks and recreation department will be taken over by expanded offices of the personnel department. The area on the east side of the third floor now occupied by social services will be taken over by the department of economic development, systems branch of the data processing department, employment counselors, and the proposed health and welfare administration agency.

Saint-Raphael Seeks San Rafael Agreement

By PAT PERRY

A personable couple from Saint-Raphael, France, arrived in San Rafael yesterday, presented their credentials, and left with a promise that the city council will consider setting up a sister-city scheme.

Dr. and Mme. Pierre Vigier brought brochures on their home town, and greetings from their mayor and the local president of France-USA Assn.

The president wrote: "We would like to be twinned with your city . . . Not only similar names but also identical standing as tourist attractions stimulated this idea."

Mme. Vigier, an attractive mother of five, is acting as Saint-Raphael's ambassador in the twin city project. The idea was originated by Mms. Germaine Kanova, a former war correspondent, who is a friend of Daniel Silverman of 745 San Pedro Road San Rafael.

Silverman conducted the Vigiers on a quick tour of the city yesterday, and introduced them to City Councilman Louis H. Baar, vice mayor, and Sig K. Herzog, president of the chamber of commerce.

Baar, in turn, took them on a tour of the new city hall under construction. Despite heavy rain, the French couple plodded gamely through earth and timber to admire the building, sheltering under an enormous black umbrella held aloft by the vice mayor.

The Vigiers are on vacation, their second trip to America. They left today for Hawaii, but Mme. Vigier will return to California in a few weeks to stay with a friend in Los Angeles for a month.

The twin city project, as envisaged by the French town, would involve cultural exchanges and activities between families. The France-USA Assn. wrote that local families already receive as weekend guests many American students who are attending the University of Aix-En-Provence nearby—"and would be able to give special attention to students from California."

What is our proposed sister city like? Very much like San Rafael, according to Mme. Vigier. Located on the Cote D'Azur, some 20 miles from Cannes, Saint-Raphael enjoys the same equable climate with sunny summers, and mild winters.

A handsome town, encircling a fine port on the Mediterranean, it attracts thousands of tourists annually.

Boating enthusiasts favor Saint-Raphael, which has a "Club Nautique" and a "Motor Yacht-Club." The chamber of commerce brochure is labelled "Saint-Raphael, Pays de Vacances" (vacation country).

The Vigier's eldest daughter, 17, will attend University of Colorado next year, and the family will take a student from there to live with them. It is this type of family exchange which the French city considers would be most beneficial in a twinning program, reported the Vigiers.

There are also plans afoot to send a redwood tree to France, said Silverman, tying in the sister city proposal with San Francisco's Bastille Day celebration on July 14.

Vice Mayor Baar promised to introduce the sister city suggestion at a council meeting—and just smiled when Mme. Vigier exclaimed that he was Charles de Gaulle's double.

'Annie, Get Your Gun' Set Friday

Redwood High School's musical production of "Annie, Get Your Gun" will open Friday at 8 p.m., in the high school's Little Theater.

Cindy Greaves and Cheryle Hope, doubling in the title role, will perform the songs from the Broadway musical, including "You Can't Get a Man with a Gun," "Doing What Comes Naturally," and "No Business Like Show Business."

Clay Roni in the male lead will sing "The Girl That I Marry."

Supporting actors are Ted Herrmann, Dan Kreps, Kim Cameron, Judy Mock, Steve Carroll and Juli Therriault. A special chorus will perform in the musical.

Tickets are on sale ta the high school.

Quintet To Give School Concerts

The California Wind Quintet will give half-hour concerts May 20 for students at Santa Margarita and Vallecito Schools.

The group, composed of members of the Oakland and San Francisco symphony orchestras, will perform at 9:15 a.m. at Santa Margarita School in Terra Linda and at 10:30 a.m. at Vallecito School in San Rafael.

The program for oboe, clarinet, bassoon, French horn and flute is sponsored by the Dixie School District Council of Music and Arts, a parent organization that finances cultural activities in the district, with the assistance of Joe Curatilo, district music director.

Nature Lends Mountain Play Scenery Hand

The weather is proving an efficient stage-hand for the 49th annual Mountain Play "Peer Gynt" which will be presented in the natural amphitheater atop Mount Tamalpais Sunday and May 21.

Spring will give the grassy slopes a fresh green look and wild flowers are expected to be in abundance for the event which attracts more and more residents and tourists to the ideal spot each year.

Nowadays it is possible to drive there, but when the site was deeded to the Mountain Play Assn. in 1915 the way lay along stiff primitive hiking trails.

All the same, the first performance—a miracle play called "Abraham and Isaac"—drew a crowd of 600 husky outdoorsmen and theater lovers who set off hours ahead to climb the steep mountain tracks.

Since that time, 48 plays and outdoor pageants have been presented in the mountain theater, ranging from Shakespeare's "As You Like It" and "The Tempest" to adaptations of "Alice in Wonderland" and "Robin Hood."

All has not been smooth sailing. During World War II the site was turned over to the Army and in 1964 the power lines were condemned as dangerous because of deterioration.

The severed cables presented an almost insurmountable problem until a five-kilowatt gasoline generator was installed off stage to supply the necessary power for microphones.

"Peer Gynt" will be directed by Totheroh of Mill Valley, a Broadway playwright and Hollywood scriptwriter with such movies as "Dawn Patrol" and "The Virginian" to his credit.

Movie On Hawaii

"Hawaii," a color travel film, will be shown at 8 p.m. Thursday at Olney Hall, College of Marin, under joint sponsorship of the college's Associated Students and the Explorers Club of San Francisco. Earl Brink, the film's producer, will narrate.

Novato Triangle Art Show To Aid Scholarship Fund

"Triangle of Colors" is the title given to an art show all day Saturday at the Tresch Triangle in Novato, sponsored by the North Bay Artists and merchants of the triangle.

Proceeds from the sale of nine paintings which have been donated will be given to the scholarship fund of the North Bay Artists. A scholarship will be presented to a student at Novato High School who wants to further his art education.

Paintings for exhibit at the show will be accepted starting at 9 a.m. with the show opening at 10 a.m.

Gilbert C. Wheat, art instructor at the College of Marin, will judge the show. There will be awards for representational and non-representational oil and watercolor paintings, sculpture, photography and crafts.

The judge will select a best of show. There will also be a popular award to be selected by the public in balloting.

Young members of the United Church will display a large mosaic and show how it was made.

Children and adults may try their hand at collage or painting with materials provided at the show.

Nicasio 4-H Barbecue Set At Ranch House

The Nicasio 4-H Club will have its annual all-day fair and barbecue on May 28 at the Ranch House in Nicasio.

The club is also planning a clean-up day for sometime in May.

Young Actors To Audition

Preliminary audition for the Young Actors Co. will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday at the Festival Theater in San Anselmo, according to H. J. Susser, director.

The summer theater program is co-sponsored by the Festival Theater and College of Marin. College credit will be given.

Students will write, perform, administer, do the stage work and handle publicity for the productions. Technical direction will be by Edward K. School.

Mitchell Named A Division Head For Bay Crusade

Michael Mitchell, auditor-controller of Marin, has accepted chairmanship of the countywide local government division for the 1966 United Bay Area Crusade campaign.

Appointment was announced by Alan K. Browne, vice president of Bank of America, five-county government division chairman for the 1966 campaign.

Mitchell, who lives at 22 Loma Vista, also is chairman of the building committee of Marin Aid to Retarded Children, a United Crusade-supported agency.

Premiere Set For Pantomime

"King Midas," a pantomine for children written by John David Lamb of Seattle, will have its world premiere Friday at 8 p.m. when it is performed by sixth grade students in the Marin Country Day School auditorium in Corte Madera.

Music for the production is derived from the school music of Carl Orff, German musician and teacher who revolutionized the study of music in elementary schools.

Cast for the production includes a narrator, speaking chorus, orchestra of recorders and percussion instruments, dancers and actors. Barry Mineah, head of the school's music department, will direct.

CLAMS—AND DIGGERS— ARE OUT

A series of minus tides through the weekend brought clamdiggers and abalone pickers out in force along the Marin coast. The Bolinas mud flats, where diggers find horseneck and Washington clams, were crowded. Eddie Mikkelsen (left), of San Francisco, has been digging clams at Bolinas for decades. He got his limit (10 of each variety) quickly, then gave advice to some novice diggers, the William Perry family from Hamilton Air Force Base.

TONS OF MEDICAL AID AWAIT TRIP

Alliance for Health Project Will Help Mexican Village; Doctor Seeks Money

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Five tons of X-ray and medical equipment and supplies are waiting in a Hamilton Air Force Base warehouse for clearance frorm Mexican authorities to be from Mexican authorities to be latest development of an international project born as the idea of one Marin doctor.

Sponsorship of Alliance for Health has grown far beyond the "one man's family" concept with which it began two summers ago. And its present sponsors hope it will soon grow much wider. It needs to, for the alliance's projects in Mexico this summer call for an outlay of $16,050—which is roughly $15,000 more than it has on hand.

The $16,050 wouldn't begin to buy the stuff that's in that Hamilton warehouse, though.

That five tons of equipment has all been either donated or picked up at "give-away" prices for Project Zacapu, the hands-across-the-border effort of a group of Marin doctors and others to carry modern health methods into the back country of Guanajuato state in Mexico.

PRISON X-RAY

There is a complete X-ray unit obtained for $600 as surplus from San Quentin Prison, dismantled and crated under supervision of Warden Lawrence G. Wilson.

There is a portable minifilm X-ray unit donated by the Peninsula Hospital Volunteers of San Mateo County.

There are 60 cartons of drugs given by the Marin Medical Society Auxiliary.

There is dark room equipment. There are chemicals, holders, etc., for use in developing the X-ray film. And there are cans and cans of film. Also there is a supply of BCG, the anti-tuberculosis vaccine which has been endorsed by the World Health Organization and is widely used except in the United States.

STORAGE DONATED

The packaging of all these supplies, except the big X-ray unit, was donated by W. K. McLellan Co., Santa Venetia contractor, along with temporary storage until it was taken to Hamilton.

The Air Force, through Maj. Gen. Carroll W. McColpin, Fourth Air Force commander, arranged for a mercy flight by a C-123 cargo plane to haul the whole five tons to the Zacapu airstrip. All that is awaited now is clearance from Mexican customs officials.

Don Bisenius, X-ray technician at Marin General Hospital, will accompany the shipment. The plane will be met at Zacapu by a crew under direction of the mayor and public health officer, who will unload and store it.

The big X-ray unit will be placed in the Zacapu Health Department's small hospital, directed by Dr. Godofredo Ortiz Hernandez. The small one will go to the free San Vicente Clinic operated by Sister Therese, a Roman Catholic nun.

TEAM TO TRAVEL

On July 1, a team will leave Marin to put in operation this latest phase of the Marin-to-Mexico health program which had its beginnings in Zacapu in the summer of 1964.

Dr. Michael J. Franzblau will be "jefe" of the team, which will stay three weeks. Two general practitioners, Dr. Thomas L. Grayson and Dr. Theo D. Hiatt, and a radiologist, Dr. Merall Roth, will complete the medical team.

Two nurses will be along—Marie Hensler and Edna Calvillo; and two X-ray technicians—Sue Denser and Erskine Bufano. Mrs. Roth and Mrs. Hiatt will take care of registration and records. Melanie Hahn, Mandy Outten, Bruce Pike and the three Roth children will be general assistants. Ken Molino plans to go along as photographer.

WHAT THEY'LL DO

They will show health education movies, distribute literature, give quick nurse training, give tuberculin skin tests, take chest minifilm of 500 positive reactors found in the Alliance for Health's skin testing in Zacapu last year and another 500 more expected to be found this year, take full-sized X-rays of those with "suspicious" minifilms, teach local public health workers to read the minifilms, give skin tests and BCG immunization in outlying pueblos.

On Aug. 1 a second team will descend on Zacapu. "Jefe" of this one will be Dr. Richard S. Hahn, the man who started it all. Accompanying him will be two general practitioners from Santa Rosa, the husband-and-wife team of Dr. Robert and Dr. Susan Massad, who expect to stay in Mexico about six months for follow-up work.

Nurses will be Al Carpenter and Teresa Ramirez; X-ray technicians, Sandy Becker and Sylvia Gern; registration and record. Kim Hahn; assistant, Melanie Hahn. There'll be a motion picture team of Victor Levine, Irving Cohn, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robinson, Dick Hahn and Laurie Gurnberg. And this team will take along two interpreters, Al Ramirez and Miguel Lopez.

It will follow through with the work begun by the initial team, and also will start a treatment program for tuberculosis sufferers, based on the Madras experiment.

This, explains Dr. Hahn, is drug treatment without hospitalization. In a poverty-ridden section such as that around Zacapu—as in Madras, India—it is impossible to hospitalize TB victims, The Indians have had good success with the home treatment. Dr. Hahn hopes to give it a year's demonstration tryout in Zacapu.

The entire operation, if undertaken as a government aid project, would require a huge staff, much overhead, and would run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

But Alliance for Health has no overhead. Its workers are all volunteers. They don't get paid. The $16,050 budget is to buy more films, chemicals, files, microscopes, etc., and pay transportation costs for the volunteer workers.

Dr. Hahn, who started the Zacapu project simply as a TB identification project with only his own family as helpers, heads the non-profit (very much so) Alliance for Health corporation. He hopes enough memberships ($15 and up) will be sent to its headquarters at 599 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, to make up the budget.

The goal is restoration to health of 5,000 cases of active tuberculosis in the Zacapu section of Michoacan, and detection of others in time to prevent the disease's inroads.

MERCY MISSION TO MEXICO— Five tons of X-ray and medical equipment have been assembled in a Hamilton Air Force Base warehouse to be flown to Mexico for Marin's Alliance for Health project. Checking to see that all is ready for takeoff as soon as Mexican customs clearance is received are (from left) Mrs. Merall Roth, Mrs. Austin W. Lea, Lt. Col. Harry F. Noble Jr., and Dr. Richard S. Hahn.

By HANS KRAUS. M.D.

(Seventh in Series)

Giving a patient therapeutic exercise is a craft, even an art, and so is the prescribing of exercises.

An exercise program should be based on specific reasoning, and it should follow a thorough investigation to see what has to be changed and why.

An exercise prescription should be regarded as potent medicine, and you should consult your doctor on it. You would not go to a drugstore with a prescription that simply said medicine or laxative. Instead you would expect your prescription to be fully detailed as to what you were to get, how much and when.

The same is true for therapeutic exercise. You should get the proper type, in the proper dosage.

The exercises we will describe for back pain are not spectacular or unusual. You will select those that fit your individual needs. You will do them the way they are prescribed, and you will build up your exercises gradually day by day until you have reached the full program.

The K-W tests detailed in the second article of this series will be your guide to what exercises you need, what sets of muscles need rebuilding.

But before going on, I want to give you the basic ground rules:

1. Check with your physician to make certain that you do not have an ailment that could be made worse by exercising now. Do NOT start exercising if you have back pain, or have had it in the past, without making sure that your condition does not require medical care.

2. It is imperative that, once you start exercising, you keep at it every day. It is better not to start exercising at all unless you do so regularly. Don't go looking for excuses to avoid exercising. If you start and then stop an exercise program, you quickly lose what you have gained.

3. Avoid fatigue which might cause undue stiffness and soreness. Start with very gentle movements and gradually ease into your full program. If you are stiff and tense, but strong, these exercises may seem "sissy stuff" to you, but you should still do them gradually. Do not try to acomplish everything in a short time. It is harder to learn how to relax, limber, and stretch, than it is to develop strength.

4. Set aside a half hour a day for your exercises. Make that a "holy" half hour when you are not subjected to visitors, phone calls, or interferences or distractions of any kind. You owe this to yourself and your own peace of mind.

5. Never say that you are "too irritated" to do the exercises. The day that you feel too harried or put upon is the day you need the exercises most of all, particularly if you are exercising to relieve tension. A busy day will make you and your muscles tense, but if you do your exercises properly, you will find the tension ebbing away. The tension that your muscles store up during a hectic day can be released through the exercises.

6. Get in a relaxed state of mind for the exercises. If you follow the instructions you will learn how to do this. In your half hour of exercise, put the cares of the world behind you, no matter how pressing or urgent they may seem to be. In this half hour, nothing is more important than the job at hand.

Live one day at a time. Exercise one session at a time. At first you will need only five or ten minutes for these sessions. They will gradually increase in time to approximately a half hour as you add exercises. Do not do a full program the first day, or even the first week. Do only three or four exercises the first day.

Never add more than one new exercise every two or three days. Add them less often if the last exercise seems hard to do. They are all planned in logical sequence, starting with a warmup, say the first three exercise, reaching a peak with the fourth, then working the way back, doing the first three exercises in reverse order. In this sequence, they will serve as cooling-off exercises.

Never do more than two or three of the same exercises in succession. If your program is complete, you may want to go through it twice in one day, if you feel you need extra work. Never do the exercises more frequently than that.

Your exercises must be performed slowly and smoothly. Do not do jerky movements. do not strain, do not "goose step." Be sure you stop after each exercise and rest for a second before starting the next one. That means a pause between each exercise, not only each set of exercises.

Always start with the first six exercises, regardless of how you did on the K-W tests. If you are tense, they will make you relax, and if you are weak, they will give you a very mild warmup. If you are strong, but need relaxing and stretching, they are doubly important.

If you are strong, but tense, remember that you are not trying to develop more powerful muscles.

Instead, you are trying to relax.

Tomorrow: Six general exercises to start on.

Today is Tuesday, May 10, the 130th day of 1966 with 235 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter; the morning stars are Venus and Saturn; the evening star is Jupiter.

American motion picture Producer David Selznick was born on this day in 1902.

On this day in history:

In 1865, Confederate President Jefferson Davis was captured and arrested as he fled from Irwinville, Ga. He spent two years in prison.

In 1940, 89 divisions of the German army moved by land, air and water to invade Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands.

In 1941, Germany launched its biggest aid raid to date on London, damaging Westminister Abbey and the famous "Big Ben" clock.

In 1960, the U. S. nuclear submarine "Triton" completed an around the world voyage without surfacing.

Opening lead — ♠ J

East won the first two spades and then followed the traditional rule. He led a diamond up to dummy's weakness.

West took the ace of diamonds and switched to clubs, but it was too late.

Declarer took the king of clubs, drew another round of trumps and led the jack of hearts for a finesse.

RETURN CLUB

East took the king of hearts and returned a club to dummy's ace. South then ran the hearts, discarding his losing club.

This brought the contact home.

East should defeat the contract by making the right switch at the third trick. He must lead a club even though this rides up to dummy's strength.

COUNTS TRICKS

East has two spades and expects to get a trick with the king of hearts. Since it is unreasonable to expect West to turn up with two trump tricks, East must get a club trick to defeat the contract.

Moreover, East must lead clubs at once before South has managed to set up and cash dummy's hearts.

If East leads a club at the third trick, declarer wins in dummy and leads a trump to force out the ace. West returns a club to dummy's ace.

Now when South tries the heart finesse, East can cash a club to defeat the contract.

Marshall Area Joins North Marin District

With only three protests received, the North Marin County Water District board voted 4-to-0 last night to annex approximately 10 square miles in the Marshall area to the district.

Emil Renati was absent.

This is the largest annexation to the district in its history, said Jerome B. Gilbert, district manager.

The district will proceed immediately with plans for water and sewage service to the 6,656-acre area. Consolidated Financial Corp. of Los Angeles will make a study and plan for the area, Gilbert said.

The three protests came from Osborn and Myrtle Hall of Petaluma, who own 350 acres; Mrs. Bessie Cole, who owns 3.49 acres, and Mrs. R. I. Carlson, who owns less than one acre, Gilbert said.

"It amounts to less than six per cent of the total assessed valuation" he reported.

The original proposed annexation had included the Tomales area, but residents there protested, so a smaller annexation was submitted and approved by the Local Agency Formation Commission.

About 15 people attended the hearing at Marshall School.

More Unification Discussion Set

Trustees of Dixie School District tomorrow will further discuss proposed unification of the district with the San Rafael School districts, to be on the June 7 ballot.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the district office at 35 Trellis Drive, San Rafael.

Supt. Dennie B. Willis has asked that the board hold a closed session during the evening to discuss a "personnel matter."

Judge Ends Marincello Hearing

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court late yesterday concluded a hearing on request by the City of Sausalito and two couples for an order temporarily halting development of Marincello.

He said he will announce on May 18 his decision on the request for a preliminary injunction restraining the County of Marin from issuing any building permits for Marincello.

Attorneys for Sausalito and coplaintiffs John P. and Constance L. Erickson, and Herbert and Frances M. Perkins, contended in yesterday's final arguments that the controversial 2,100-acre tract among the Marin headlands was illegally rezoned by the county from residential-agricultural to planned community.

They specifically charge there was only six days legal notice instead of the required 10 days for the Jan. 19 public hearing before the board of supervisors, and also that the Marincello master plan was adopted by the board by resolution when it should have been adopted by ordinance.

Douglas J. Maloney, county counsel, argued the master plan was correctly adopted. He conceded only six days legal notice was given, but said this is not a sufficient defect to nullify the action.

Granting of the injunction by Judge Wilson would stop all Marincello development by Frouge Corp. until the issues can be resolved in a court trial.

Painters Cut International Payment Off

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Members of San Francisco Painters' Union Local 4, angry bitter over the murder of two bay area leaders, voted last night to cut off financial payments to the union's International headquarters.

Morris Evenson, acting secretary, said the decision to withhold $5,200 a month in contributions was designed to bring the international's officers "into a dialogue with us."

Evenson complained that international officials have failed to send "a single word of communications, a single word of condolence" regarding the recent murders of local union leaders Dow Wilson of San Francisco and Lloyd Green of Hayward.

An emergency meeting Monday night was attended by about 700 persons, including Mayor John F. Shelley, Assistant Police Chief Al Nelder, U.S. Rep, (D. Calif.) Philip Burton, Assemblyman John Burton (D-San Francisco) and representatives of almost every union in San Francisco.

The unions have expressed resentment because the FBI has found no legal reason to enter the cases of the two assassinated painters, who police believed were killed by imported executioners.

Park Board Budget

Plans for San Rafael's $511,738 share of the proposed $4.3 million county park bond issue will be discussed tomorrow at a public hearing by the San Rafael Park and Recreation Commission.

The hearing will be at 8 p.m. at Vallecito School, 50 Nova Albion Way. It will be the second of two such hearings intended to elicit citizens' reactions to proposed use of the money should the bond issue pass June 7.

Enlists In Navy

Thomas R. Simpson, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Simpson, 135 Meriam Drive, San Rafael, has enlisted in the Navy as a musician applicant. After eight weeks recruit training at San Diego he will go to the Naval School of Music in Little Creek, Va.

Many Apply For Sausalito School Post

Eighty-six persons have applied for superintendent of the Sausalito School District, which will be open on July 1 following resignation of Supt. Charles Lavaroni.

Three have withdrawn so the list stands now at 83, Sausalito School District trustees were told last night by County Supt. Virgil S. Hollis, chairman of the screening committee.

The screening committee completed its "paper screening," said Asst. Supt. Joseph Amato today, and will interview five or six applicants Friday and Saturday.

Trustees agreed to permit the Sausalito Teacher Education Project, temporarily housed in Marinship's industrial center building, to rent an apartment at Bayside School for headquarters. The project, operated by San Francisco State College, will pay utilities and maintenance cost and "minimal rent," said Amato.

The district's first instructional materials center will also be housed in the building. The apartment was formerly rented by a custodian who has moved to Hayward.

Budget for fiscal 1967 was discussed but no action was taken, Amato reported. The board will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at Bayside School to hear the building study committee report.

Teachers were announced for summer school, to be held July 5 through Aug. 5 at Richardson Bay School.

Mill Valley, Sausalito Plan Voted

Mill Valley School District trustees last night approved a program which will mean continued attendance of Mill Valley students at Sausalito's Richardson Bay School in September.

The difference between the current setup and next fall's program is that students, now partially integrated with Sausalito district pupils, will be completely integrated.

Trustees approved a report by the interdistrict committee headed by Henry Horowitz recommending that 30 pupils be sent from Mill Valley in fifth, seventh and eighth grades and 20 from sixth grade. This corresponds to the number being sent, on a volunteer basis, by bus now.

Four Mill Valley teachers, a half-time administrative assistant and a part-time clerk will accompany the Mill Valley contingent, Supt. G. W. McConnell reported. Mill Valley will pay a total of $8,200.

The board also adopted recommendations to encourage one-for-one exchanges of students in all grades throughout the regular year and during the forthcoming summer session, and continuing the interdistrict committee.

The Mill Valley School District also:

1. Selected Dr. J. Cecil Parker, director of the field service center, University of California, as educational consultant in connection with school district expansion plans.
2. Heard from a Parent-Teacher Assn. School study committee that enthusiasm among teachers, administrators and pupils is aroused by change and that the committee is "deeply ashamed" of poor physical facilities in Mill Valley, particularly at Edna Maguire school.
3. Adopted a fair employment practices clause to be inserted in all construction contracts.
4. Granted leave of absence for next school year to Karen L. Peterson and, for part of next school year to Mrs. Barnette Robinson.
5. Accepted resignations of teachers Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. F. C. Budds, Mrs. J. G. Eliot Jr., Mrs. E. J. Plocki and Sally Brush and hired teachers Joyce Blesi, Joan Rahm, Patricia Patterson, and Mary J. McKinley.

New trustee Joseph E. Bodovitz was seated for the first time.

Brown Thinks GOP Demand Can Be Met On His Budget

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The legislature's long budget deadlock crumbled today with Democratic Gov. Brown's offer to compromise on an Assembly Republican demand for a $63 million cut in state spending.

Brown's announcement came as Democrats brought his plan to balance the $4.62 billion budget without new taxes to an Assembly vote. Speaker Jesse M. Unruh predicted passage.

The governor, pushing California's longest election-year session since 1880 to a climax, said in a statement last night that he sees a good possibility of compromise on his budget of the lower house GOP delegation "will be as reasonable as we are prepared to be."

The 31 Republican assemblymen also had expressed willingness to settle the fight when their side called for the cuts.

So far, they've blockaded the budget, refusing to supply the five GOP votes needed for lower house passage of the record spending plan. The Assembly is 49-31 Democratic and it takes a two-thirds majority of 54 for approval of the money bill.

Some of the Republican economy demands, particularly the call for a $31 million cut in welfare spending, are "just differences in estimating the size of the caseload involved and it would be impossible to prove anyone is right or wrong at this time," Brown said.

"Certainly a compromise can be reached there, just aslong as both parties agree that no eligible case, whether blind, totally disabled, aged or on aid to needy children, can be denied," he said.

Assembly Speaker Jessie Unruh, (D-Inglewood) was confident of victory for the plan to avoid an election-year tax increase by changing the state's bookkeeping methods.

Under the plan, expected tax dollars would be counted as received before they reached the treasury — accrued, as the accountants say.

Unruh got behind the idea after revising it. He successfully fought for including advance counting of some $250 million in personal income tax.

Brown, who had resisted including personal income taxes at first, favored counting only about $423 million in sales, inheritance and other taxes. But he agreed to go along with Unruh to keep the bill moving.

As it now stands, some $493 million will be available to the Finance Department — with some $250 million going to balance the budget and the rest set aside for reducing the size of a state construction bond issue and other purposes.

McCarthy Averts Loss Of Revision Measure

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislators tried again today to deal with revising the State Constitution while at the same time raising their pay and pensions.

Attention shifted from the Senate, which almost, but not quite, brought itself to a vote yesterday,day over to the Assembly. The lower house prepared to vote on a bill that would raise legislative pay from its current $6,000 to $18,000 annually.

The same bill would clamp stiff conflict of interest rules on legislators and cut back on their lucrative mileage and pension benefits.

The pay raise for lawmakers can become a reality only if two things happen:

1. The constitutional revision amendment gets on the November ballot.
2. The voters approve it. That would bring the bill, which doesn't have to go on the ballot, into effect starting Jan. 1.

The argument is over which version of constitutional revision will make the ballot, if any.

The Assembly sent the Senate a measure incorporating much of the recommendations of a commission of leading citizens that worked two years on the matter.

It dealt not only with pay but with revisions in the judiciary and other matters, revising about a third of the document.

The Senate has cut into the bill so that it now has only three main effects:

—Setting up annual general legislative sessions of 166 days, as desired by all parties.

—Allowing the legislature to set its own pay on a two-thirds vote, also a wish of the commission and two houses.

—Letting a legislative commission call the legislature into special session, which only the governor now can do. This is the Senate's idea.

Yesterday, Senate Minority Leader John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, brought the upper house version up for a vote. But after three or four senators indicated they would vote no or had reservations and others were absent, he put the matter over for a day to let the Senate meet in private on its next move.

A two-thirds total of 27 votes is needed for passage, and with only 37 senators now in office, there is a small margin to work with.

McCarthy said the aim now is to get the different version to a two-house conference committee for compromise.

He was asked about a provision in the Senate measure — absent from the Assembly legislation — that would give current and past lawmakers higher pensions.

McCarthy admitted that in this form, the constitutional revision "would be defeated and defeated heavily" by voters.

But that could be handled in the conference, he added.

Opposition to the measure as changed by the Senate came from Sen. James Cobey, D-Merced, who said "in its present form this is almost completely a rejection of" the revision commission's work.

Bagley Raps Reagan View On Budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A supporter of George Christopher has denounced as "an insult to our intelligence" Ronald Reagan's call for $245 million in budget cuts.

Assemblyman William Bagley, R-San Rafael, said Reagan's proposal was "either deliberately phony or he does not know what he is talking about."

Christopher, former mayor of San Francisco, and actor-politician Reagan are both seeking the Republican nomination for governor.

Bagley noted yesterday the Assembly Republican caucus proposed cuts of $63.1 million in the budget. He said greater cuts could be made only if "constitutional provisions and statutes mandating certain expenditures" were changed first.

"I don't date boys with hair longer than mine," she said. "I want to see their faces."

Nightmare Drug Control Bill Changed

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Before assemblymen today was an administration-backed bill to control the hallucination producing drug LSD, toughened by an Assembly amendment.

On a 45-24 vote yesterday, the lower house made possession and use of the drug a criminal offense.

The previous lower house version of the controversial measure hadn't made that an offense, making it a crime only for illegal sale, transportation, possession for sale and sale to a minor.

Assemblyman Charles J. Conrad, R-Sherman Oaks, sponsored the amendment to extend the penalties with the backing of Democratic Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch.

Conrad said that without the amendment, "you will wipe out 90 per cent of law enforcement."

Leading opposition to the amendment was Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, who said that "5 to 10 per cent of college students are trying this thing."

Slum School Bill Has Assembly Approval

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislation to renovate slum schools and reduce the student-teacher ratio in poor school districts was before senators again today.

The bill by Sen. J. Eugene McAteer, D-San Francisco, was unanimously passed by the Assembly yesterday after a compromise amendment.

Combat Training

Marine Pvt. Jeffrey K. Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Olson of 25 Los Cerros Drive, San Rafael, has completed individual combat training at Camp Pendleton.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

No Preventive Vaccine Known For Stopping Venereal Disease

VAN DELLEN

The resurgence of venereal disease reminded me that there is no protective vaccine against infections such as syphilis and gonorrhea.

In all probability, research projects in this field were suspended when penicillin was discovered. The antibiotic also acts as a prophylactic when given within three to four hours after exposure.

IT IS DOUBTFUL whether a vaccine would be successful in preventing gonorrhea. After all, there is no evidence that the body builds up a defense mechanism against the disease is it does with measles or smallpox.

One attack does not confer everlasting immunity and a promiscuous person could have repeated bouts of the disease. To control gonorrhea with a vaccine as we now do with poliomyelitis is highly desirable but not too promising.

In the first decade after the discovery of penicillin, gonorrhea was easier to cure than the common cold. Drug resistance now is becoming a problem and it is estimated that a fourth of the different strains of gonococci are penicillin resistant. Some of these strains also are resistant to other antibiotics.

Women seldom are tested or treated for gonorrhea. The organisms are difficult to locate in women because they are not confined to one area as in men.

THE FEMALE gonorrhea victim does not feel any ill effects unless the tubes are involved. As a result women continue to be the main reservoir for the organisms and public health officials may be forced to concentrate on this source to bring the infection under control.

The body develops considerable immunity to syphilis but it takes time. Nowadays the disease is recognized early and treated so quickly that the body does not have a chance to develop protective antibodies. A recurrence usually represents a reinfection. The latter also accounts for the treatment failures that sometimes occur.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

CENTERED PAIN

A. H. writes: Could appendicitis cause pain in the center of the abdomen rather than on the right side?

REPLY

Yes, particularly in the early stages and when the organ is displaced toward the center. In a patient of mine with a gangrenous appendix, all the distress was on the left side yet inflammation was on the right. I would suggest an X-day study in the case you mention.

HYPERTENSION

M. K. writes: What causes high blood pressure?

REPLY

The causes vary but in the more common vascular type the blood vessels are narrowed owing to a contraction or spasm of the walls. This increases resistance against the flow of blood, and to overcome the handicap, pressure increases. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hypertension.

Today's Health Hint — Headaches are less likely to occur after 50.

CHILD ABANDONED

This cheerful lad, who says his name is Jimmy Hoskins, 10, tells River Grove, Ill., police of being abandoned by his parents about 10 days ago and of subsisting on a diet of leaves. Listening is juvenile officer Thomas. Jimmy said he came home from school 10 days ago and found $30 and a note from his parents saying they had left for Arizona. He said he spent the money at a nearby amusement park. He said he doesn't remember where he lives. (UPI Telephoto)

New Reed Superintendent Was To Have Been Pitcher

By WILLIAM F. ARNOLD

H. Joe Edgington, Reed School District's new superintendent, sought a baseball career until he hurt his pitching arm.

He pulled a tendon in his right elbow just before he was to try out with the Dodgers. "You hight have called me a thrower rather than a pitcher," he reminisced with an easy grin.

He decided to become a teacher and has taught in five school districts in two states since he graduated from Southwestern Missouri State College in 1950. "It sounds like I've been itinerant," he said with a slight drawl.

The 36-year-old Edgington ("everyone calls me Joe") arrived last week to prepare to relieve Edward C. Pino as Reed District superintendent on July 1. Pino has resigned to become superintendent of Cherry Creek School District near Denver, Colo.

For the last three years, Edgington was assistant superintendent of Pacific Grove Unified School District. Most of his career in education has been in southern California.

He was a junior high school biology teacher in Port Hueneme (Ventura County) and a junior high school principal in Bloomfield Elementary District (Los Angeles County) and in Newport Beach (Orange County).

He came to California in 1955 after three years of teaching high school in his native Missouri and two years of teaching college students "not much younger than I was" at his alma mater in a special program.

He became impressed with the Reed School District, he says, after a visit a few years ago, "But I didn't expect a job to open up then." When Pino's resignation became known, "It was the only position I applied for."

"Reed District offers everything I believe in education," said Edgington. To underscore his point he listed the interest of the community, the innovation in curriculum and the involvement of the teachers as impressive factors.

Edgington said he will continue such Reed programs as team teaching, placement of pupils by ability rather than by grades, and no report cards.

"What was holding us back in education was the lockstep advancement by grade because the child was one year older," he declared.

"Those who criticize innovation confuse it with experimentation. "You don't tamper with a child if you innovate. You focus on the individual."

Now staying with friends in Tiburon, he commutes to Monterey weekends to visit his wife, June, and his two daughters, Terri, 14, and Cindy, 6. He says he doesn't mind the driving because "after living in Los Angeles you become hardened to commuting."

Mrs. Edgington is a teacher in the Marina Elementary School District. "I hope she retires when we move up here this summer," Edgington said. They attended the same high school in Missouri but didn't meet until they got to college.

Edgington, who is writing a dissertation on the administration of special education programs, hopes to receive his Ed. D. degree from the University of Southern California this year. He has a master's degree in personnel administration from Los Angeles State College.

TV IN REVIEW

'Hill Country' Has Sensitive Pictures

By RICH DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —President Johnson last night guided, a one-hour NBC-TV tour of the central Texas hill country he calls home, and the result was an exceptional piece of genuine Americana.

The program, "The Hill Country: Lyndon Johnson's Texas," was not only of obvious historical interest, but fulfilled the function of legitimately enlightening the public mind about the sources that have partly shaped the President's outlook.

This would have been sufficient, but fortunately for the viewer—especially one with a color television set—the photography was immensely sensitive and beautiful in capturing the hard, basic yet lovely features of the Chief Executive's home country.

The nature shots, and those of the animals and weather, were often sheer visual poetry, yet always enhanced the overall porgram by relating importantly to the theme of the hour.

Likewise, the musical score by Glenn Paxton contributed heavily to the broadcast, and stayed as close to the land as does the President.

With this program, Mr. Johnson thus joined the First Lady in being a highly proficient guide of a video tour this season. Not long ago, Mrs. Johnson had her own one-hour documentary, her ABC-TV visit to Washington "On Behalf of a More Beautiful America."

The President's program was excellently conceived, taking the shape of a conversatioal tour with reporter Ray Scherer, blended with stops at landmarks of his life, and talks with persons he has known.

The natural, off-the-cuff talking approach, played off a veteran reporter with whom he seemd distinctly at ease, was the perfect choice for Mr. Johnson.

As with the late President Kennedy—who was at his best on television in an off-the-cuff chat with three reporters in an hour special—President Johnson was more at ease conversationally than in a formal statement.

The program was so worthwhile, in fact, that one wonders why it was not put on earlier, for youngsters to see as well—rather than airing at 10-11 p.m., EDT. When it is rerun, this should certainly be taken into consideration.

Deadline Told On Photography Show In Ross

Closing date for the Bay Area Salon of Photography at the Marin Art and Garden Fair is June 14, Mrs. Inez Doyal of San Rafael, chairman, announced today.

The salon is sponsored by the fair and the Ross Valley Camera Club.

Stewart Naschke of Sacramento, and James W. Ross of San Francisco. Entry forms are obtainable from Bay Area Salon of Photography, P.O. Box 427, San Anselmo, or Marin County Fair, Box 437, Ross.

The fair will be June 30 through July 4.

Senate Requests Safe Sign Study

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Senate resolution asks the state to find out if Texas road signs are safer than California's because they collapse when hit by a vehicle.

The upper house approved the resolution for the study yesterday, noting Texas' new road signs have special joints allowing them to fall apart when struck.

Safety experts say this cuts the rate of injuries and deaths in such accidents.

The famed Cedars of Lebanon, used for King Solomon's temple and Egyptian pharaoh's funeral boats, have dwindled to 400 trees, guarded as a national treasure and depicted on the Lebanese flag.

Fairfax Mayor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., with the city council concurring, last night appointed Mrs. Dolores Dollahite to the city park and recreation commission.

Before appointing Mrs. Dollahite, Arrigoni said no one had requested to serve on the commission.

Freshman, Soph Cut Query Set

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Senate has requested that a study be made into the possibility of eliminating freshman and sophomore classes on some University of California campuses.

Miller's resolution, adopted Monday, asks the Coordinating versity of California campuses.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, said he had in mind, for example, the elimination of such classes on the big Berkeley campus.

Miller's resolution, adopted yesterday, asks the Coordinating Council for Higher Education to submit the study to the 1967 legislature.

Auto Firm Plan Before Council

The Novato City Council will consider the master plan for the proposed Novato Auto Mart when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House.

The planning commission deadlocked 3-3 to deny approval for the mart on 25 acres beside Highway 101 between Novato Creek and Yukon Way.

The city council also will set dates and plans for the spring cleanup campaign, set May 24 as "Student Government Day," consider the application of IDESI for a parade on May 22, hear a report on acquisition of the right of way for the Novato Creek bridge at Diablo Avenue, and approve the gasoline tax budget.

Three Counties Have Pony Winners

Ponies from Sonoma, Contra Costa and Napa counties won all the first place trophies at the Redwood Empire Shetland Pony Club pony show Sunday at the Atherton Club on Atherton Avenue east of Novato.

Highlights of the show included a riding class and gig-driving class for children six years and under.

Gen. Sherman's Horse Might Have Won Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE — Fifteen horses, most of whom should get into some honest line of work, and hardly any of whom could corner a flatfooted cop in a desert, ran indifferently around Churchill Downs' famous race track Saturday.

It was less of a race than a canter. I have seen things try harder on the Griffith Park bridle path. You'd think if they were shopping for a price, they'd pick some place besides the Kentucky Derby for it.

KAUAI KING won it—it says here. But he'd get more of a contest from the statue of Gen. Sherman in the park. The other horses acted as if he had a communicable disease. I have seen kids move faster going to their Saturday night baths.

A KID from Kentucky, who learned his riding in the bull rings of the Middle West, won the first Kentucky Derby he ever saw. He's now one-for-one in this race and it's pretty hard to improve on that. Of course, he's had 1,000 rides around this pile of rocks and he might have won this thing side-saddle. Some of the other boys either had the kind of mounts that won't even make good glue under them, or they got their riding styles from old movies of Sabu.

YOU'RE NOT supposed to be able to "steal" a Kentucky Derby. It's kind of like stealing an elephant in broad daylight. But Don Brumfield put together the most larcenous ride in the history of this venerable old hunk of rotting timber.

THEY FINALLY got a field as ramshackle as the track, but even at that you can't beat a horse if all you do is wave goodbye to him at the gate. They weren't even close enough to throw confetti at him. He went down the backstretch so slowly I thought this race was going to slop over into June. I was going to call the hotel and get the room for another three weeks. When the other horses finally woke up to the fact they were in a race and not a king's funeral, Kauai King still had enough left to get home without staggering.

THEY GAVE one horse his own gate—Beau Sub—and he remained a recluse the rest of the afternoon. Abe's Hope is still the best horse ever bred in Illinois, but that's not saying as much as you might think. He ran like a guy going to the electric chair. I thought Bill Shoemaker was going to have to get off and push. Bill Harmatz was on a no-chance old plodder named Dominar and he not only finished last, he finished so far back he didn't even make the money in the next race.

THE CALIFORNIA horses showed once again they couldn't go a mile-and-a-quarter on the back of a truck. The post parade is about all the exertion they can be counted on for. Tragniew is "Weingart" spelled backwards, but he's slow any way you spell it. Weingart should get out an injunction against using the letters of his name in anyway.

THE WINNER cost Michael Ford $42,000, which he makes out of a saloon, grain door and steel business in Omaha. He is now ahead of the game which makes it look like an easy game to beat—an attitude which could fool you. Abe's Hope cost $7,500, and his interest may get in touch with the Better Business Bureau any day now.

The names of the horses who finished second and third don't matter because Man O'War's record is safe for them. "Stupendous" should be renamed "Stupidity."

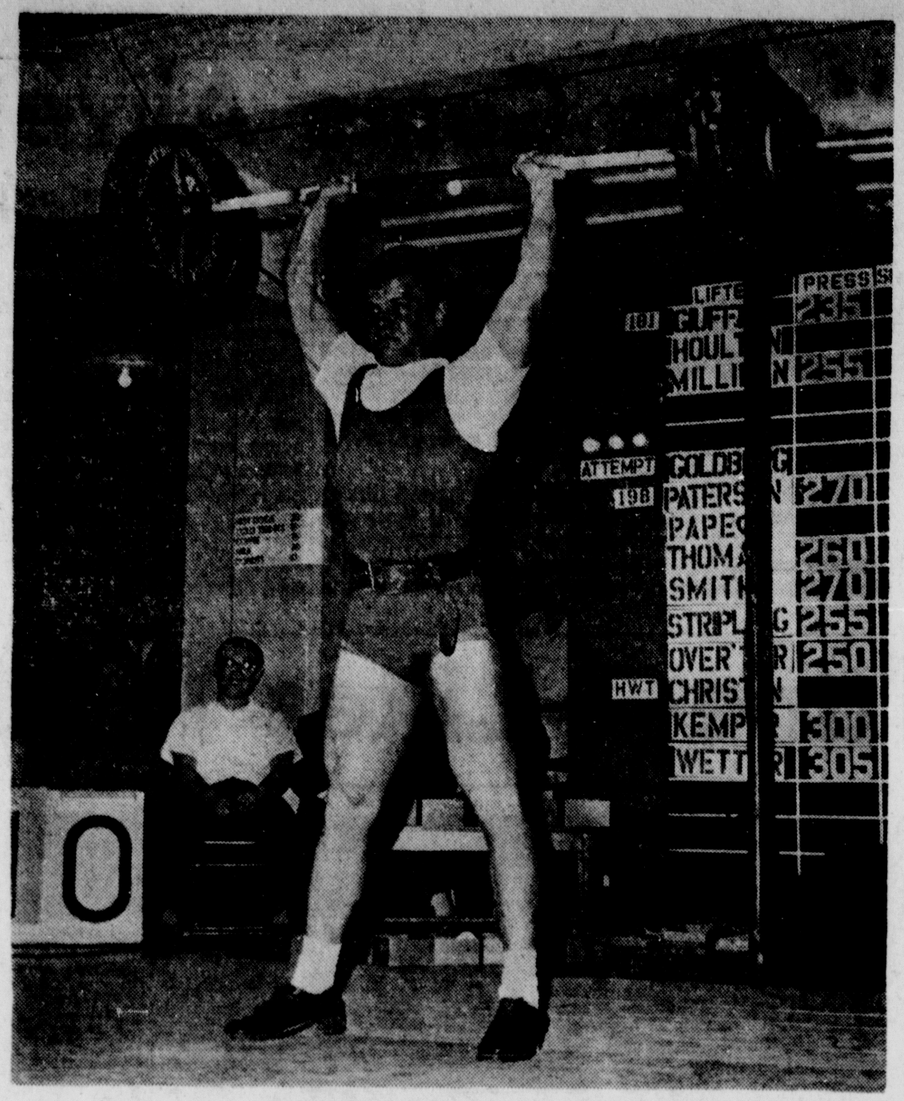
WELL, NOW they can throw the grass out of the drinks and put olives in them again and Bardstown Road can get ready for nice, sleepy summer. We can all dry out eyes from the playing of "My Old Kentucky Home." Stephen Foster would have to change the lyrics if he could have seen his Kentuckians chunk it in. By and by hard times may come a-knocking at the door, but not this week, babe. They let go of $2,127,000 for two minutes and two seconds of horse racing. They put $5 million through the windows altogether.

I don't know whether Kauai King is a Triple Crown winner or whether he won't even win three more races of any kind the rest of his career. But I'll tell you one thing—he's not going to lose many if they just have a race of their own back in the caboose and let him do a Garbo on the front end.

NEXT YEAR, I'm going to reach in a Caliente claimer and get a plug and ship him out here. If they're going to run that kind of nice-Nelly race I'm just going to give the jockey a clock and tell him to take the short way home. They told us Amberoid was a slow beginner, but they didn't tell us he didn't improve any as he went along. I think you could win this thing with Barney Google's horse—hobbled.

Kauai King's winning this thing is like getting the heavyweight championship by mail. He didn't have to fight much for it. He didn't win the race, he inherited it.

AS FOR the Fords—why they are fine broth of people from a darlin' little county in the old country called Sligo. Some of our finest people come from there. That's because hardly anybody stays there. Or so my grandfather told me. And the horse has the fine Gaelic name of "Kauai King" so I suppose he gets orchids with his breakfast from now on.



FRANK HOLTON IN ACTION

Minor Leaguers To Play At Candlestick

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Candlestick Park will have its first major-minor league baseball doubleheader May 29 when the San Francisco Giants meet the Philadelphia Phillies in the opener followed by the Fresno Giants and the San Jose Bees.

Fresno is affiliated with the Giants and the Bees are part of the California Angels' farm system. Both are California League members.

The scheduling will shift the Giants' game from 1 p.m. to noon.

Fred Daniele Leads Marin In Hitting

Terra Linda High School shortstop Fred Daniele leads the Marin Athletic League in just about every hitting category.

He's the top hitter (.444), the ruuns batted in leader (12), home run king (2) and is tied for the lead in triples with 2. He's only one behind teammate John Clifford in runs scored, Clifford with 8 and Daniele 7.

No. 2 man in league hitting is first baseman Steve Congdon of Terra Linda at .412. That 1-2 punch is a good reason the Trojans lead the league in team hitting, .260.

Redwood's Mike Terry (2-0) has the best pitching percentage, while Tamalpais hurler Ron Gilliam has the most wins, 4, against 1 loss. Marin Catholic's Ben Burch leads in strikeouts with 42.

The FISHIN' FOOL

STEVENS

Trout fishing reports are where you find 'em. For example: Bob Libby, affable keeper of bottles and smokes, just returned from a trip to the North Fork of the Yuba between Downieville and Sierra City and rated fishing A-okay.

Bob and his buddy, Jerry Baane, used helgramites to take limits of rainbows in quick order on their first day of fishing.

Local fishing for salmon and stripers remains fast in the doldrums. High winds and rough water kept many of the boats in the harbor over the weekend. The Lancer, out of Lee Anderson's Oakland bait and tackle shop, braved the elements and netted six salmon on Saturday. And shifting from the usual salmon trolling to bait-fishing for rockfish, the good ship Privateer No. 2 boated 22 limits of assorted rockfish.

ANSWERING SEVERAL requests for the lowdown on action of the Golden Hinde boatery at Inverness: according to Davis Campbell the action has slowed down considerably. It takes knowhow to pick the right lure and the right locale to connect. Like old timer George Smith, who rows his own skiff and manages to take fish consistantly. And, too, the knowhow of George Thompson and Marty Nedin paid off in Tomales Bay. Thompson weighed in a nice 24-pounder and Nedin a 22-pounder recently.

Any of my readers having a yen to try the waters out of the Golden Hinde should make a phone call to Campbell or Carlton at the Golden Hinde to get the current picture.

HISTORICALLY, AT this time of the year when we have a series of minus tides, the lower S. F. Bay comes to life, but so far no exciting reports have come in. The area to the north, primarily the San Pablo Bay, as well as the Napa River and the Carquinez Strait area, yield to late p.m. trolling. From Dowrelio's Crockett Harbor spot the word is out that the late evening trolling (from around 4 p.m. to sundown) will begin Saturday.

Carl Bennett of the Rodeo Marina will open the late trolling this week also.

THE LATE TROLLING for stripers is rather unique in that an angler can leave his home or place of business around 3:30 or 4 p.m., drive to Rodeo or Crockett, board the boat on which he has reserved a seat, troll 'til the sun sets and be back home for a late supper—very often with a limit of fresh run striped bass in the back of his car.

Strong winds have hampered the efforts of back country angling to a large extent, but enough fish have been caught to warrant an optimistic view of the action to come when the winds die down.

HAVE YOU signed a petition to cancel the experimental regulations allowing the commercial fishermen to take thousands of tons of anchovies to be ground up into fertilizer? Or, perchance, you have decided to let the other fellow do it, your name is not necessary? Believe me, fellows, you can't afford to "let the other fellow do it." If sufficient names are not accumulated to allow the measure to be voted upon, you may be mighty sorry. With no sardines off our shore, we must have anchovies to use as bait, so get your name on a petition!

Mays Faces A Long And Lonely Chase

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—The next home run Willie Mays hits will leave him ONLY 200 short of Babe Ruth's record of 714. If Willie, now 35, stays healthy and hits 40 a year until he is 40, he should make it by 1971.

Ted Williams' mark of 521 is sure to go in a few weeks. Jimmy Foxx, runner-up to Ruth with 534, should be passed by Labor Day.

And then there is that long, lonely road ahead.

Looking back through the records of Mays' 513 homers, dating back to No. 1 off Warren Spahn, May 28, 1951, it is interesting to note that Spahn, no longer in the majors, has been the chief victim.

Spahnie, now retired to his Oklahoma ranch of thinking of making a comeback in the minors, has given up 18 of Mays' homers. Of course, there are extenuating circumstances.

Spahn and Mays go back a long way together to the days when the Braves still were in Boston and the Giants played in the Polo Grounds. In 14 years, the 18 homers average out to only a bit more than one a season.

Vern Law, now on Pittsburgh's disabled list, is another favorite target of Mays. He hit 15 off the Deacon and 12 each off Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Lew Burdette, now of the California Angels.

Harvey Haddix, Johnny Podres and Bob Buhl each gave up 10.

Mays has hit only six off Sandy Koufax and only four off Robin Roberts, counting No. 5 of this season's total of eight.

The long list contains such names as Howie Pollet, Dutch Leonard, Kenny Raffensberger, Don Newcombe, Ralph Branca, Clem Labine and Warren Hacker, whose names no longer ring a bell with the younger generation.

Other paid up members of the now unknown club include Willie the Knuck Ramsdell, George Estock, Laurin Pepper, Corky Valentine and Bubba Church.

If Willie does hit 50 this year, he will be the second man to do it twice in a row. The other was the Babe in 1920-21 and 1927-28.

DODGER DEAL

Podres Excited To Join Detroit Club

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Veteran left-hander Johnny Podres of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who has been a National League pitcher for his entire 13-year major league career, is excited over the prospects of moving into the American League.

And one big reason is that he will be rejoining Detroit Tiger Manager Charley Dressen, whom Podres broke in under as a rookie with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Dodgers announced yesterday they had traded Podres to the Tigers for an unnamed player and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Podres has never played for any team but the Dodgers; first in Brooklyn and later in Los Angeles.

"I'm happy to be going with Charley Dressen," Podres said yesterday while the Dodgers were getting set for a series with Philadelphia.

"I've been with him before and he's one of the greatest managers I've ever played for," he said.

In Detroit, Dressen said he plans to get good mileage out of the 33-year-old pitcher.

"I might use him in the bullpen or I might use him as a spot starter," Dressen said. "I'll just have t wait and see how he throws."

Podres has pitched only 1 2-3 innings so far this season. In 27 games last year, he won seven and lost six with an earned run average of 3.43.

Podres has won 136 and lost 104 games lifetime with an earned run average of 3.63. He spent one year on the sidelines nursing a sore arm. He says it feels fine now.

"I threw the ball good all spring. It feels good now, but you get out of shape pitching only 1 2-3 innings in a month," he said.

Eckert To Visit Candlestick Park

SAN FRANCISCO (AP — Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert will visit Candlestick Park Saturday, May 21, the day the San Francisco Giants pay tribute to Frank (Lefty) O'Doul.

"It will be a particular pleasure to participate in this tribute to Frank O'Doul," said Eckert, who'll be paying his first visit to the Giants' home park.

O'Doul won the National League batting championship in 1929 and 1932. he helped coach San Francisco batters after the Giants moved from New York. O'Doul was a highly succesful manager of the Pacific Coast League San Francisco Seals before that.

FIGURING THE MAJORS

Matty Hottest Alou Boy; Al Dark A's Powerless

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Figuring The Majors:

MOTTY ALOU of Pittsburgh, the least publicized of the Alous, is leading his brothers in batting with a .333 average. Felipe Alou of Atlanta has a .300 mark while Jesus of San Francisco is at .213. The Pirates obtained Matty from the Giants last winter.

AL DARK, the new Kansas City manager, must be wondering what he has to do to get his players to hit one out of the park. In their first 20 games through Sunday, the last-place Athletics had a total of only one homer. It was hit by Larry Stahl, a pinch hitter, on April 28.

JIM LEFEBVRE of the Los Angeles Dodgers is considerably ahead of his home run pace of 1965 when he was named the National League's rookie-of-the-year. He had eight homers in his first 25 games this year. Last season, Lefebvre did not hit homer No. 8 until his 106th game on Aug. 5. He finished with 12.

LONG BASEBALL games are still considerably more frequent than short ones. Only eight games this season have been completed in less than two hours compared with 29 that have taken more than three hours to finish.

ED KRANEPOOL, the New York Mets' first baseman, has gone hitless in his last 24 times at bat covering eight gamtes. His batting average has dwindled from .303 to .175.

SONNY JACKSON, Houston's rookie shortstop, may threaten the National League stolen base supremacy of the Dodgers' Maury Wills. The latter, who has led the N.L. in each of the past six years, has eight steals this season. Jackson is the pacesetter with 11.

IN THEIR first 12 home dates through Sunday, the California Angels reached almost 50 per cent of their entire 1965 attendance in Chavez Ravine. Including the three-game weekend series with the Yankees which drew 100,801 in Anaheim Stadium, the Angels had attracted 270,161. Last year their final total was 566,727.

CINCINNATI'S Sammy Ellis, a 22-game winner in 1965, is likely to have a tough time catching up this year. His current record is 1-4. Last year, he did not lose his fourth game until July 11 by which time he had already been credited with 12 victories.

THE YANKEES are still the American League's best draw on the road. They've played before 194,378, an average of 24,300, in eight road dates. At home, the Yanks' attendance for 12 dates is 144,345 for an average of only 12,000.

Henry Bormolini Branches Out Into Yet Another Business Idea

The many business activities of Henry Bormolini in Novato are about to become still more diversified and intensive.

He's a principal in the Louis Bormolini and Sons construction firm in Novato; teamed with Raymond H. Anderson in Bormolini-Anderson Co., Novato (heavy construction); aligned with John Velcich of San Rafael in Central States Concrete Pipe Co., Novato and Concord—and now Bormolini and Velcich are embarking on a new project to build manhole covers.

Name will be Western Manhole, Inc. and they have picked a plant site in Napa for easier accessibility to the North Bay hinterland and also Contra Costa County points.

TWICE I'VE BEEN credited with writing in this column that H. Koch and Sons, Corte Madera, has been sold.

I didn't, and it hasn't—quite. The article was in a recent issue of the Wall Street Journal, but in Corte Madera the deal is reported unconsummated. Negotiations are pending between the luggage firm and Gulf and Western Industries of Houston, auto parts distributor, and are said to be up in eight figures. The company also recently acquired New Jersey Zinc.

BUSINESS MIRROR

Medicare Arrival Means Insurance Plan Changes

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Many insurance companies are girding for the July 1 advent of Medicare. It can affect their business in three ways:

First, health and hospitalization policies now in effect for at least 10 million Americans over 65 will lose much of their appeal and are now in process of being updated. Involved is a total of a billion dollars a year in premiums.

Second, new supplementary policies to cover costs that Medicare doesn't are being offered by a number of insurance companies, both to the elderly now covered privately and those who aren't but whose interest is aroused by the advent of medicare.

Third, at least 16 insurance companies and 32 Blue Shield plans will become contractors to the government in the operation of Medicare. They will determine reasonable doctor charges and pay these fees under the rules laid out by the Social Security Administration under the second part of Medicare—Plan B.

Plan A plan covers hospitalization. Plan B —to which the elderly must contribute $3 a month — reimburses them for many medical expenses, not included in Plan A.

After the insurance companies pay the doctors, hospitals, and others, they will collect from the Social Security Administration.

In addition, the 76 Blue Cross-Blue Shield operations in the nation, with 5.7 million subscribers, will offer some medicare supplements, both in and out of the hospitals.

Although most insurance companies with existing hospital and health policies are preparing new plans after medicare starts, some will push them hard while others will not. The latter will let present subscribers take the modified policies but won't go after new business.

Pushing for new sales to supplement medicare, which covers most but not all medical expenses, will be such companies as Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, Aetna Life and Casualty, Continental Casualty. The more passive approach will be taken by Bankers Life and Casualty, Metropolitan Life Insurance, and Mutual of Omaha. Some others are expected to get out of the field altogether as likely to be unprofitable after the government steps in.

Sunasco Listed On Stock Market

Sunasco, Inc., a new company combining Sunset International Petroleum Corp. of Beverly Hills and Atlas Credit Corp. of Philadelphia, has begun trading its shares on the New York, Pacific Coast and Philadelphia-Baltimore-Washington stock exchanges.

Combined reported earnings of Sunset and Atlas in fiscal 1965 were about 7.4 million dollars. Shareholders' equity in the combined organization is 39 million dollars. The new company has more than 25,000 shareholders.

The real estate division of Sunasco's Sunset subsidiary is developing the 2,200-acre Sunset-San Marin planned community in Novato.

Tidewater Sale To Phillips Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tidewater Oil should complete by June 30 its $309 million sale of its western marketing and refining facilities to Phillips Petroleum, says Tidewater president George F. Getty II.

Getty said yesterday the sale, announced March 29, was approved by company directors because Tidewater could not expand its assets and make capital expenditures at the same time.

The sale includes service stations in California, Oregon, Washington and Hawaii, the company's Los Angeles office building, a San Francisco refinery and several transportation terminals.

Wall Street Closes With Sharp Rebound

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed sharply higher today, interrupting a long string of declines. Trading was heavy.

It was the first all-out recovery drive in the past couple of weeks that ended with a substantial gain on average, one of the best this year.

The market rose from the start, reached a peak around mid-session, weathered some profit taking which cut many gains, then started on the upbeat again in the final hour.

Here was the picture toward the close:

Volume for the day was estimated at 9.5 million shares compared with 9.3 million yesterday.

The high-flying glamor stocks, pounded down unmercifully in the past two weeks of selling, recovered 1 to 5 points.

A wide spectrum of blue chips in most of the important groups moved higher as "bargain hunters" bought stock at relatively cheap prices.

Brokers called it "a technical recovery from an oversold condition."

IBM, Xerox, Eastern Air Lines and Teledyne were up about 5, Zenith, Polaroid and Delta Airlines 4, Admiral, Magnavox, Cincinnati Milling, Douglas Aircraft and Boeing 3 each.

Anaconda climbed almost 4. Motorola, Pan American World Airways, Continental Airlines and Hess Oil 2 apiece.

General Motors recovered a full point form its recent low and held it. Ford wiped out a gain and traded unchanged. Chrysler held only a fraction of a rise of about a point.

Top steelmakers maintained a string of fractional advances. Eastman Kodak rose 2, Union Carbide, Du Point, Pennsylvania Railroad, Merck, Radio Corp., International Harvester and many other market wheelhorses a point or better.

Sperry Rand was leading the list on a volume as it clung to a gain of virtually a point.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange recovered in heavy trading.

Corporate bonds were unchanged. U.S. Treasury bonds rose.

Distilling Firm Reports Income

James B. Beam Distilling Co., has reported both revenues and earnings for the nine month period ended March 31 at record breaking levels.

Sales for the period were $75,224,843 compared with $69,897,408 for the same period the previous year. Income before taxes was $11,259,200 compared with $10,318,397. Net income after taxes was $5,460,260 compared with $5,018,397. Earnings per share were equal to $2.07 compared with $1.79 for the comparable nine month period of the previous year.

President Everett Kovler said this year emphasis is being given to the creation of new, improved and more varied products. Beam recently introduced the first and only imported Martini under the brand name of V-J Martini, named after the English distilled Edward Vaughan Jones Gin that is used in the product. The other product recently introduced was the Jim Beam Manhattan cocktail.

Suit Asks Court To Remove Bank

An action has been filed in the U.S. District Court to remove the voting trustees of the Central Valley Bank, headquartered in Oakland.

The complaint, made by James P. McNeill, M.D. of Spokane, Wash., on behalf of himself and all other holders of trust certificates of the bank, alleges that the trustees have disregarded signed instructions from over 74 per cent of holders of outstanding trust certificates to terminate the voting trust.

Section 2231 of the California Corporations Code provides that the votes of a simple majority of trust certificate holders are sufficient to abolish a voting trust.

Dr. McNeill seeks a declaratory judgment setting aside the trust and the interim appointment of an independent trustee by the court in place of the defendent trustees pending the court's final determination of the suit.

Group To Talk On Marin City Understanding

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos will be among speakers in a discussion on Marin City presented at the College of Marin Thursday by the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee.

Peter Rockwell of Fairfax, leader of the student organization at the college, said today: "What we want to talk about is what we can do to wipe out barriers to understanding."

Ministers, candidates for state offices, and county officials will be among those attending the forum scheduled from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in front of the student center.

Speakers will include Rev. Donald Schilling, pastor of St. Andrew Presbyterian Church, Marin City; Dr. Carlton Goodlet of San Francisco, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination; Philip Drath, candidate for First District congressman; James L. Pockrus, candidate for State Assembly, and Michael Alwyin, president of Mariners Group on the campus.

Kentfield Principal Asks For Teaching Assignment

George Stratton, principal of Wolfe Grade School in Kentfield School District for three years, will return to teaching next fall.

In a letter to the district board last night, Stratton said that, having experienced both school teaching and administration, "I feel my best contribution would be as a classroom teacher."

The board accepted Stratton's resignation as principal and assigned him to teach seventh and eighth grade social studies at Adaline E. Kent School next fall.

Stratton began his career teaching in the Kentfield School District, served as superintendent of West Marin School District, then returned as principal in Kentfield.

The board also received resignations from four teachers: Joyce Vickery, second grade at Wolfe Grade School; Lynn Anderson, eighth grade at Kent School; Valda Kulka, vocal music at all schools, and Mabel Fulker, Spanish at all schools.

Mrs. Dorothy Maringer of Long Beach was hired to teach second grade at Wolfe Grade School, and Charlene Imperatrice of Lake Tahoe to teach sixth grade at Greenbrae School, both at $7,125.

Phillips was arrested March 12, and Allen on May 5, both by California Highway Patrol on Highway 101.

V-neck 22.50 Cardigan 25.00

Of all the sweaters we've seen for the new season, this one gets the nod for sheer good looks and all the comfort you could wish for. A handsome rib knit of soft, lightweight zephyr wool styled with extra care in every detail. Note the saddle shoulder, terrific for comfort under the arms. Easy on movement. Better on looks. The choice of colors is excellent. Three masculine shades in the V-neck, seven in the cardigan. Come in and see them soon, you'll be very impressed.

Why do so many people hold on to their Savings Bonds after they're matured?

1. Because they keep on earning money—NOW, more than before.

2. Because they keep right on making Uncle Sam strong.

3. Because there's no safer, surer way to save for retirement.

NOW PAYING 4.15% WHEN HELD TO MATURITY

Americans own over $23 billion in Series E and H Savings Bonds that have already matured. Some are 25 years old this year, but they keep right on earning money for their owners. It's another good reason to start buying Bonds today—where you bank, or on Payroll Savings where you work.
